

Biblical Interpretation

New Testament Epistles

Biblical Interpretation—New Testament Epistles

The following section is a modification of Part Three: The Steps of Exegesis found in pages 75-125 and Appendix A: The Different Types of Relationships, pages 315-321, adapted from Bennie Wolvaardt, How to Interpret the Bible—A Do-It-Yourself Manual.

I. Three types of meaning indicators

A. Persons, things, events, and attributes (characteristics which describe these things) (HTIB, pp. 99-102)

1. Persons—God, Christ, the Holy Spirit, Paul, Timothy, Epaphras, the Colossians, brother, apostle, servant, saints, enemies, etc.

(1) 1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ

(2) by the will of God,

(3) and Timothy our brother,

“Paul” and “apostle” have the same symbol because they are the same person. “Timothy” and “brother” is the same person. “our” refers to Paul and the Colossians. “Jesus Christ” and “God” are both God but are distinct persons of the God-head, thus they receive different symbols.

2. Things—will, thanks, prayers, heaven, word, truth, faith, fruit, world, manner, knowledge, might, power, inheritance, darkness, body, church, deeds, forgiveness, thrones, authorities, redemption, wisdom, understanding, religion, decrees, principles, growth, worship, substance, festival, etc.

(4) 2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ (5) who are at Colossae:

(6) Grace to you and peace from God our Father.

(7) 3 We give thanks to God,

(8) the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, (9) praying always for you, (10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard

(11) of your faith in Christ Jesus

(12) and the love which you have for all the saints;

“which” refers to the word “love” (the antecedent of “which” is “hope”)

(13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,

(14) of which you previously heard

“which” refers to “hope”

(15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,

“the word of truth” is the “gospel”. “which” also refers to the gospel.

(16) just as in all the world also

(17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,

(18) even as it has been doing in you also

(19) since the day you heard of it

(20) and understood the grace of God in truth;

(21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Epaphras, (22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,

(23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,

(24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.

3. Events—these can be in the form of verbs (reconciled, present, filled, walk, proclaimed, rescued, transferred, bestowed, manifested, bearing fruit, increasing, praying, heard, submit, died, supplied and held together, taking his stand, delighting, having triumphed, having forgiven, raised, having been buried, have been made complete, being built up, established, instructed, rejoicing, hidden, may be encouraged, striving, etc.)

Now let's look at the same passage, also giving symbols to the events. We will use arrows.

(7) 3 We give thanks to God,

(8) the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

(9) praying always for you,

(10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard

(11) of your faith in Christ Jesus

(12) and the love which you have for all the saints;

(13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,

(14) of which you previously heard

(15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,

(16) just as in all the world also

(17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,

(18) even as it has been doing in you also

(19) since the day you heard of it

"give thanks", "praying", "heard" are events in the form of verbs. All of these events have "we" (namely, Paul and Timothy) as the subject. They are marked with a forward arrow  for present tense or a backward arrow  for past tense. The arrow points in the direction of the time of the action. The present tense refers to continuous action.

The event (or verb) "laid up" has "hope" for its subject. However, the verb is passive. "Hope" does not "lay up" itself. God is the implied actor who lays up this hope.

The event verbs, "has come", "is ...bearing fruit and increasing" and "has been doing" (implied in the text) have "the word of truth" or "the gospel" as their subject. "has been doing" is equal to "constantly bearing fruit and increasing", therefore, there is an equal symbol between them.

- (20) and understood the grace of God in truth;

 (21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Epaphras,

 (22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,
 (23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,

 (24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.

“heard”, “understood” and “learned” are past tense; therefore, a backward arrow points in the direction of action which has previously taken place.

4. Attributes, characteristics, descriptions—describe persons or things (e.g. blameless, beloved, holy, faithful, strengthened, visible, invisible, riches, glory, full, persuasive, good, firmly, empty, elementary, complete, made without hands, alive, hostile, inflated, self-made, etc.)

- (4) 2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ

 (12) and the love which you have for all the saints;

 (16) just as in all the world also

 (22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,

 (23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,

The attribute, “faithful”, has the same shape as “faith” (Line 11) since it has a related meaning. The same goes for “beloved” since it is related in meaning to “love”. I have shaded these words to distinguish between a thing (love, faith) and an attribute describing a thing (beloved, faithful).

All of the persons, things, events (verbs), or attributes are linked together by the author to develop his theme. They are the “indicators” of meaning—meaning indicators.

Let’s now mark all the indicators we have learned thus far.

Colossians 1: 1-20

- (1) 1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ

 (2) by the will of God,

 (3) and Timothy our brother,

 (4) 2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ

 (5) who are at Colossae:

 (6) Grace to you and peace from God our Father.

 (7) 3 We give thanks to God,

 (8) the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

- (9) praying always for you,
 (10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard
 (11) of your faith in Christ Jesus
 (12) and the love which you have for all the saints;
 (13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,
 (14) of which you previously heard
 (15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,
 (16) just as in all the world also
 (17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,
 (18) even as it has been doing in you also
 (19) since the day you heard of it
 (20) and understood the grace of God in truth;
 (21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Epaphras,
 (22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,
 (23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,
 (24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.
 (25) 9 For this reason also,
 (26) since the day we heard of it,
 (27) we have not ceased to pray for you
 (28) and to ask that you may be filled
 (29) with the knowledge of His will

(30) in all spiritual wisdom and understanding,

(31) ¹⁰ so that you will walk in a manner worthy of the Lord,

(32) to please Him in all respects,

(33) bearing fruit in every good work

(34) and increasing in the knowledge of God;

(35) ¹¹ strengthened with all power,

(36) according to His glorious might,

(37) for the attaining of all steadfastness and patience;

(38) joyously ¹² giving thanks to the Father,

(39) who has qualified us to share in the inheritance

(40) of the saints in Light.

(41) ¹³ For He rescued us from the domain of darkness,

(42) and transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son,

(43) ¹⁴ in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.

(44) ¹⁵ He is the image of the invisible God,

(45) the firstborn of all creation.

(46) ¹⁶ For by Him all things were created,

(47) both in the heavens and on earth,

“Will walk”, “to please”, “bearing”, “increasing”, are all verbs which are potential, not actual. That is, Paul is exhorting them to walk in such a manner from this point and into the future that they will be pleasing to the Lord, bearing fruit and increasing. They are doing this now, but He wants them to continue this activity into the future. Therefore I have used the future verb symbol. —————→

(48) visible and invisible,

(49) whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—

(50) all things have been created

(51) through Him and for Him.

(52) ¹⁷ He is before all things,

(53) and in Him all things hold together.

(54) ¹⁸ He is also head of the body, the church;

(55) and He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead,

(56) so that

(57) He Himself will come to have first place in everything.

(58) ¹⁹ For it was the Father's good pleasure

(59) for all the fullness to dwell in Him,

(60) ²⁰ and through Him to reconcile all things to Himself,

(61) having made peace through the blood of His cross;

(62) through Him, I say,

(63) whether things on earth or things in heaven.

Exercise 1: What is the value of marking indicators? Consider the following questions from Col. 1: 1-20.

1. How many times is Christ mentioned in these 20 verses, whether the word “Christ” or a pronoun referring to Christ? Count the symbols.

2. How many times is God the Father, or an attribute of God the Father, mentioned? Count the symbols.

3. Is there any coordination between God and Christ to save us? In other words, is Christ ready to save us from a vindictive God who wishes to punish us?
4. Who makes the “peace” between us and God? Who reconciles us to whom? How does the text answer this question?
5. Notice that in Line 2 and Line 29 I identified “will” with two different symbols. Do you agree with this or are they the same “will”? Support your answer.
6. How many times are “all things” or “all creation” mentioned in the text?
7. Who or what did God reconcile through Christ? Support your answer from the text.
8. What is the “fullness” of L59?
9. Who are “we” in L7?
10. Assuming that I have correctly marked the verbs in L31-38, do you see any parallel statements—statements which are similar and support one another? What are they?
11. What is the significance of the tense of the verb in L61? in L57? in L42?
12. What does is the significance of the verb and verb tense in L53?
13. What does Christ “hold together”? Do we find this idea anywhere else in Scripture?
14. Does Christ have control over political powers? How does the text prove this?
15. On what basis does Paul say, “Grace to you and peace from God our Father”?
16. What is the significance of L61? Does this seem to be a contradiction? Why?
17. Is there any indirect teaching about the Trinity in this passage? Support your answer from the text.
18. In L51, what does “for Him” mean?
19. In light of the “created things” and in light of what is said in Lines 61-63, what will “heaven” consist of?
20. What is the source of Paul’s confidence in the Colossians?

The beginning student may be able to correctly answer many of these questions himself, although some are difficult. Part of the reason you can do so is that the text is broken down into short segments and the different meaning indicators are identified. In Dr. Bennie Wolvaardt’s helpful book, How to Interpret the Bible—A Do-It-Yourself Manual, p. 79, he suggests breaking a larger text into smaller units. (Wolvaardt gives more details on this step in Chapter 10, p. 95.) This helps us to see the parts of the text which would have gone unnoticed. When you are walking through a dense forest, you have a tendency to miss the individual trees. Think of this exercise as if we are walking through a forest (a large passage of Scripture, or a book like Colossians) but taking time along the way to examine the individual trees (paragraphs). We may even decide to examine the individual branches on the trees (phrases) or the leaves (words). Obviously, you must develop the skill of dividing the text into the correct smaller units. This will require that you see the syntactical relationships between words and phrases, but this skill will be developed at the same time.

B. Stylistic features (HTIB, p. 104, Wolvaardt)

This is the second type of meaning indicator. Stylistic features are repetitions in form or meaning. The two kinds of stylistic features regularly found in the NT are 1. parallelism and 2. chiasm. Consider the simple parallelism of 1 Cor. 1: 22-23 (taken from Wolvaardt, p. 4: 8 of Equipping to Serve, Module One).

Jews demand miraculous signs a and Greeks look for wisdom b
 but we preach Christ crucified:
 a stumbling block to Jews a and foolishness to Greeks b

A chiasm, on the other hand, occurs when at least two meaning indicators are repeated in inverted sequence leading to the following pattern: a b b a. Consider Col. 3: 11 (taken from Wolvaardt, How to Interpret the Bible, p. 104).

(1) Here there is no – Greek	a	} chiasm
(2) - or Jew	b
(3) - circumcised	b
(4) - or uncircumcised	a

Notice that L (line) 1 and 4 refer to the Greeks who are uncircumcised while L 2 and 3 refer to the Jews who are circumcised

Or consider Col. 3: 9-11 which contains both parallelism and chiasm.

(1) ⁹ Do not lie to one another, since you
 (2) laid aside the old self ← a
 (3) with its evil practices, ← b
 (4) ¹⁰ and have put on the new self ← a
 (5) who is being renewed to a true knowledge ← b
 (6) according to the image of the One who created him— c
 (7) ¹¹ a renewal in which there is no distinction between
 (8) Greek d
 (9) and Jew, e
 (10) circumcised e
 (11) and uncircumcised, d } cultural differences (chiasm)
 (12) barbarian, f
 Scythian, g } Cultural differences
 (14) slave h
 and freeman i } Social differences
 (15) but Christ is all, and in all. c

This parallelism is antithetic (contrasting). Old self contrasts with new self and evil practices contrasts with true knowledge

In the text above, vv. 9 and 10 are parallel to one another, both of them using the metaphor of taking something off and putting something on—laying aside the clothing of the old self (old man) and putting on the clothing of the new self (new man). Furthermore, evil practices is parallel to true knowledge. The one who created him is Christ, thus, Lines 6 and 15 are designated with a “c”. Barbarian and Scythian are parallel cultural terms. Slave and freeman are parallel social terms (cf. William Hendriksen, Colossians).

Wolvaardt gives another example of a parallelism and a chiasm from 1 Cor. 1: 24-25 (NIV) taken as a whole unit (How to Interpret the Bible, p. 115).

“‘Christ, the power of God’ is the answer for the Jews who wanted to see the power of God through miraculous signs. Similarly ‘Christ... the wisdom of God’ is the answer for the Greeks who wanted to see God revealing himself to them through wisdom (Wolvaardt). Thus, the parallelism and chiasm of this passage (stylistic features) can illuminate the meaning structure of the passage. Believing Jews found in Christ the miraculous power of God while believing Greeks found the wisdom of God. The Greeks were always looking for “wisdom”, namely, a unifying philosophical system which explained everything else. Christ is this unifying principle upon whom everything else can be understood.

Notice the stylistic features of Colossians 1: 15-20 on the following page. In Lines 44-53, we see that Christ is preeminent (first) in the original creation. In Lines 54-63, we see that Christ is also preeminent (first) in the new, spiritual creation, the church. In L44, Christ is the firstborn of all creation. This does not mean that Christ was created by the Father. He is the firstborn in the sense that He is the heir to all creation even as the firstborn son in ancient Israel was the heir to the father’s inheritance. That Christ cannot be a created being is evident from L50-52. All things have been created through or by means of Christ and for His purposes. Furthermore, He was before all things and in Him all things hold together. What does this mean? The author of Hebrews explains this statement more clearly. “God, after He spoke long ago to the fathers in the prophets in many portions and in many ways,² in these last days has spoken to us in His Son, whom He appointed heir of all things, through whom also He made the world.³ And He is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His nature, and upholds all things by the word of His power. When He had made purification of sins, He sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, (Hebrews 1:1-3 NASB).

By recognizing parallelisms and chiasms, we can use one phrase to interpret another phrase—for example, “evil practices” is parallel with “true knowledge” (Col. 3: 9-10).

By examining the structure of this passage, we can determine Paul's focus. The central part of verses 15-18 occurs in Lines 44-53, the "d" section of the chiasm. I will diagram it more clearly in the following way:

- | | | |
|---------|---|-----|
| (44) 15 | He is the image of the invisible God, (45) the firstborn of all creation. | a |
| (46) 16 | For by Him | b |
| | all things were created, | c |
| | (47) both in the heavens and on earth, | } d |
| | (48) visible and invisible, | |
| | (49) whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities— | |
| (50) | all things have been created | c |
| (51) | through Him and for Him. | b |
| (52) 17 | He is before all things, (53) and in Him all things hold together. | a |

So what is Paul's point here? Clearly he is intent on showing the Colossians that God the Father, through Christ, created the material world, the heavenly bodies and the earth as well as the things upon the earth—things visible and invisible (Heb. 1: 2-3; Jn. 1: 3). If, then, God through Christ created the material world, the material world is good, not bad. The Gnostic heresy taught that the material world was bad and that one must free himself from the material world to become pure spirit. You will learn more about the Gnostic heresy later, and this knowledge will help you understand Colossians. Furthermore, God through Christ sustains the material world. Christians must not look with disdain upon material things as if they were evil in themselves. Everything God made is good if it is used according to His moral will.

In L54-63, Paul turns his attention to the pre-eminence of Christ in the new, spiritual creation, the church. We will diagram it accordingly:

- | | | |
|---------|---|---|
| (54) 18 | He is also head of the body, the church; | a |
| (55) | and He is the beginning , | b |
| | the firstborn from the dead, | b |
| (56) | so that (57) He Himself will come to have first place in everything. | a |
| (58) 19 | For it was the Father's good pleasure (59) for all the fullness to dwell in Him, | |
| (60) 20 | and through Him | a |
| | to reconcile all things to Himself, | b |
| (61) | having made peace through the blood of His cross; | b |
| (62) | through Him, I say, | a |
| (63) | whether things on earth or things in heaven. | b |

Line 63 assumes the verb "reconcile", therefore it is also labeled with a "b". The point of L60-63 is that God through Christ has "made peace" or "reconciled" the whole created world to Himself and with Himself. One might ask, "How can this be so given the cruelty, injustice, immorality and death that remain in the world as we know it. But this is the now and the not yet of the kingdom of God. Through Christ's atonement, the work of reconciliation has already taken place (the now), but the consummation or completion of this reconciliation (the not yet) remains to be fully realized and applied. This is why Christians are still here on earth, to continue applying the full reconciliation which Christ has accomplished on the cross, to participate with Christ as His ambassadors reconciling the world to Himself (2 Cor. 5: 20).

C. Relationships between the different syntactic units (Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 105)

Syntactic units are those words which belong together grammatically. They include sentences, clauses, or phrases. In determining syntactic relationships, we must learn to notice conjunctions like and, but, although, if, when, because, etc. which indicate the nature of the relationship. Syntactical relationships can be broken down into three main categories: (a) relationships focusing on time (b) relationships of causality (c) descriptive relationships. More detail of these relationships are found in Appendix A of How to Interpret the Bible.

1. Relationships that focus on time (HTIB, pp. 315-316)

In this category, elements are related to one another within a framework of time. The specific time (e.g. tomorrow, yesterday, or this morning) is not the issue, but only the general framework of time in which something is occurring (e.g. once, when, always, while, after, etc.)

a. Occurring at the same time (simultaneously) as another activity—e.g. while, when, always, now, constantly, once, etc. (HTIB, p. 318).

¹⁵For this reason I too, having heard of the faith in the Lord Jesus which exists among you and your love for all the saints, ¹⁶do not cease giving thanks for you, while making mention of you in my prayers; (Ephesians 1:15-16 NASB)

(Giving thanks takes place at the same time as making mention of the Ephesians in his prayers.)

¹⁰So then, while we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, and especially to those who are of the household of the faith. (Galatians 6:10 NASB)

(Do good takes place at the same time as have opportunity.)

⁶For while we were still helpless, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly. (Romans 5:6 NASB)

(We—as a human race—were still helpless at the same time that Christ died.)

²You know that when you were pagans, you were led astray to the mute idols, however you were led. (1 Corinthians 12:2 NASB)

(At the same time they were pagans, they were led astray by idols.)

⁵In the same way then, there has also come to be at the present time a remnant according to God's gracious choice. (Romans 11:5 NASB)

(A remnant exists at the same time Paul is writing his letter to the Romans.)

Colossians 4: 2-3a NASB

(272) 2 Devote yourselves to prayer,

- (273) keeping alert in it with an attitude of thanksgiving;
 (274) ³ praying at the same time for us as well,

Colossians 2: 15 NASB

- (154) ¹⁵ When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities,

- (155) He made a public display of them,

- (156) having triumphed over them through Him.

Devote yourselves to prayer (for anything) and keeping alert should take place at the same time as praying specifically for God to open up opportunities for Paul and others to preach the gospel and for clarity of explanation.

Disarmed, made a public display, and having triumphed took place at the same time. All the arrows are pointing backwards to show past action, something God has already done.

b. Occurring sequentially, or one after another—e.g. after, before...now, formerly...now; once...when, etc. (HTIB, p. 318).

- ⁵ But I will come to you after I go through Macedonia, for I am going through Macedonia.

- (1 Corinthians 16:5 NASB)

(The event of coming will take place after the event of going through Macedonia.)

- ⁹ As we have said before, so I say again now, if any man is preaching to you a gospel

contrary to what you received, he is to be accursed! (Galatians 1:9 NASB)

(Paul has said before that anyone preaching a false gospel is accursed. He says this same thing now. The before symbol points backwards to a previous time while the now symbol points upwards indicating the present time. The direction of the arrow is determined by the verb the indicator modifies.)

- ³ For we also once were foolish ourselves, disobedient, deceived, enslaved to various lusts and pleasures, spending our life in malice and envy, hateful, hating one another.

- ⁴ But when the kindness of God our Savior and His love for mankind appeared, ⁵ He saved us, not on the basis of deeds which we have done in righteousness, but according to His mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewing by the Holy Spirit, (Titus 3:3-5 NASB)

(Once refers to a time in the past before we were saved. When refers to a time after this when we were saved through the renewing of the Holy Spirit. Here the words are used together sequentially in the sentence to indicate two separated times, one occurring after the other. Once in the past we were unsaved and foolish, but later when Christ appeared to us through the work of the Spirit, we were saved. However, both the verbs were and appeared are past tense verbs referring to something which has already happened, thus the backward arrow.)

Colossians 1: 21-22 NASB

(64) 21 And although you were formerly alienated

(65) and hostile in mind, engaged in evil deeds,

(66) ²² yet He has now reconciled you

(67) in His fleshly body through death,

Were alienated and hostile in mind, engaged in evil deeds occurred before has reconciled.

2. Relationships that focus on causality

a. Reason—the cause of some event or thing (for this reason, therefore, because, for (by itself), so then) (HTIB, p. 318). These are some of the most important syntactic relationships in the Bible, particularly in the NT epistles.

Colossians 1: 4-9

(10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard

(11) of your faith in Christ Jesus

(12) and the love which you have for all the saints;

(13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,

(14) of which you previously heard

(15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,

(16) just as in all the world also

(17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,

(18) even as it has been doing in you also

(19) since the day you heard of it

(20) and understood the grace of God in truth;

(21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Ephaphras,

(22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,

(23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,

(24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.

The reason for their faith in Christ and their love for the saints is the hope laid up for them in heaven. The arrow  points forward to the reason for faith and love—namely, hope.

The reason for Paul's and Timothy's enthusiastic prayers is found in Col. 1: 4-8—the Colossians' faith and love for the brethren (L 10-28). In this case, the reason points backward to the previous verses which describe the Colossians' response to the gospel.

(25) 9 For this reason also,

(26) since the day we heard of it,
(27) we have not ceased to pray for you
(28) and to ask that you may be filled
(29) with the knowledge of His will
(30) in all spiritual wisdom and understanding,

"it" refers to faith and love—the response of the Colossian Christians to the gospel they received from Ephaphras.

⁹For this reason also, God highly exalted Him, and bestowed on Him the name which is above every name, (Philippians 2:9 NASB)

(The reason God highly exalted Christ is found in the immediate context of Phil. 2: 5-8—the self-sacrifice of Christ in His humiliation and crucifixion. The backward arrow points to this reason which is found in the previous verses.)

⁵For this reason I left you in Crete, that you would set in order what remains and appoint

elders in every city as I directed you, (Titus 1:5 NASB)

(Paul left Titus in Crete so that he could set the church in order and appoint elders in every city. In this particular case, the arrow points forward to the reason found in the subsequent clause—to appoint elders in every city, etc.)

¹Therefore I urge you, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living and holy sacrifice, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service of worship. (Romans 12:1 NASB)

(This “therefore” may refer back to everything Paul has said earlier in Romans 1—11, all of which forms the basis for the instructions given in chapters 12—16.)

Colossians 2:6 NASB

(118) 6 Therefore

(119) as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord,

(120) so walk in Him,

Therefore refers to something said previously, but it may be difficult sometimes to determine exactly what the referent (thing referred to) is.

Colossians 3: 5-6 NASB

(198) 5 Therefore

(199) consider the members of your earthly body as dead

(200) to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed,

(201) which amounts to idolatry.

Because of something Paul had said earlier (vv. 1-2), the Colossians must consider themselves dead to sinful behaviour.

(202) ⁶ For it is because of these things

(203) that the wrath of God will come

(204) upon the sons of disobedience,

The wrath of God will come because of these things mentioned earlier in L 200-201 (see above). Theologically, if Christ has atoned for the sins of every individual, then why will the wrath of God come upon those whose sins have been atoned for? This brings up the question of particular, versus universal, atonement.

b. Means—something is accomplished by or through a certain instrument (through, by means of, by) (HTIB, p. 318).

¹⁸For if the inheritance is based on law, it is no longer based on a promise; but God has granted it to Abraham by means of a promise. (Galatians 3:18 NASB)

(Abraham received the inheritance not by working for it but by means of the promise God made to him in Gen. 12.)

⁴For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with gratitude; ⁵ for it is sanctified by means of the word of God and prayer. (1 Timothy 4:4-5 NASB)

(Everything God has made is set apart for good use by means of an understanding of the Word of God and by means of prayer for wisdom in using it.)

⁹Likewise, I want women to adorn themselves with proper clothing, modestly and discreetly, not with braided hair and gold or pearls or costly garments, ¹⁰ but rather by means of good works, as is proper for women making a claim to godliness. (1 Timothy 2:9-10 NASB)

(Christian women should “adorn” themselves by means of good works, not by being preoccupied with external beauty. This does not imply, however, that women should never look in the mirror or put on jewelry or makeup. It only means that women should be more concerned about inward character than outward beauty.)

Colossians 1: 16 NASB

- (44) 15 He is the image of the invisible God,
 (45) the firstborn of all creation.
 (46) ¹⁶ For by Him all things were created,

 (47) both in the heavens and on earth,
 (48) visible and invisible,
 (49) whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—
 (50) all things have been created
 (51) through Him and for Him.

By means of (or through) Christ, all things were created. Notice that in all the verses provided in Section (2), the instruments or means (underlined words) are given after the words through, by means of, or by. Thus, the arrows are pointing forward to the instrument of the event.

c. Purpose—something happens to accomplish a goal (so that, in order to, that) (HTIB, p. 318).

⁶knowing this, that our old self was crucified with Him, in order that our body of sin might be done away with, so that we would no longer be slaves to sin (Romans 6:6 NASB)

(The old self was crucified with Christ for the purpose of setting us free from a life of sin.)

Colossians 1: 21-22 NASB

- (64) 21 And although you were formerly alienated
 (65) and hostile in mind, engaged in evil deeds,

- (66) ²² yet He has now reconciled you
 (67) in His fleshly body through death,
 (68) in order to present you before Him

- (69) holy and blameless and beyond reproach—

In order to is similar but not exactly the same as by means of, thus the same shape but a different color. The arrow points toward the purpose which is underlined. The same reasoning for so that.

Colossians 3: 21 NASB

- (251) ²¹ Fathers, do not exasperate your children,
 (252) so that they will not lose heart.

Christ reconciled us to God through His death for the purpose of presenting us to Himself holy and blameless. Thus, the purpose of Christ's death is our sanctification. Christ did not merely die for us to take us to heaven but to make us fit for heaven.

Colossians 1: 25

- (80) ²⁵ Of this church I was made a minister
 (81) according to the stewardship from God
 (82) bestowed on me for your benefit,
 (83) so that (84) I might fully carry out the preaching of the word of God.

Colossians 4: 2-4 NASB

- (272) 2 Devote yourselves to prayer,
 (273) keeping alert in it with an attitude of thanksgiving;
 (274) ³ praying at the same time for us as well,
 (275) that God will open up to us a door for the word.

Notice how many times Paul uses purpose statements in three verses (vv. 2-4)

(276) so that we may speak forth the mystery of Christ.

(277) for which I have also been imprisoned;

(278) ⁴ that I may make it clear in the way I ought to speak.

d. Condition—something will occur, or should occur, in the future if certain conditions are met or fulfilled. Or, something should not occur if a condition is not met. Or, something is true if a certain condition is true or something is not true if the conditional statement is not true. These are called if...then statements. More often than not, the “then” is not expressly stated in the sentence but is implied (HTIB, p. 319).

(The condition of being not under the law is to be in the present state of being led by the Spirit. On the contrary, if you are not led by the Spirit, you are under the Law. From the Scriptures we know that every true believer is, indeed, led by the Spirit, “For all who are being led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God.” (Romans 8:14 NASB) Are you a son of God? Then you are also led by the Spirit and are not under the Law.)

Note: The word then is in italics and enclosed within [brackets] to indicate that the word does not occur in the text but is implied.

Colossians 2: 20-22 NASB

(174) 20 If you have died with Christ

Conditional statement or premise which may or may not be true

(175) to the elementary principles of the world. [then—implied]

Resulting statement or conclusion based on the conditional statement.

(176) why, as if you were living in the world,

(177) do you submit yourself to decrees, such as,

(178) ²¹ "Do not handle, do not taste, do not touch!"

(179) ²² (which all refer to things destined to perish with use)—

(180) in accordance

(181) with the commandments and teachings of men?

If the premise—that you have died with Christ—is true, then why do you follow man-made rules which don't apply to Christians?—a result which should not follow from the premise.

⁵ (but if a man does not know how to manage his own household,

[then—implied] how will he take care of the church of God?), (1 Timothy 3:5 NASB)

(The implication is that a man will not know how to shepherd the church as an elder if he is incapable of shepherding his own wife and children. The condition (premise) for being able to care for the church is the ability to care for one's own family. If the former responsibility is not fulfilled, then the latter cannot be fulfilled.)

²³Therefore if the whole church assembles together and all speak in tongues, and ungifted men or unbelievers enter, [then—implied] will they not say that you are mad?
 (1 Corinthians 14:23 NASB)

(If everyone is speaking in tongues without any interpretation—the conditional part of the sentence—then [the result] unbelievers and those not gifted in tongues will think everyone is crazy.)

⁸For if the bugle produces an indistinct sound, [then—implied] who will prepare himself for battle? (1 Corinthians 14:8 NASB)

(If the bugle sound is indistinct or unclear, then no one will prepare for battle.)

²⁸but if there is no interpreter, [then—implied] he must keep silent in the church; and let him speak to himself and to God. (1 Corinthians 14:28 NASB)

(Thus, if there is no interpreter present—the conditional statement—then the person gifted with tongues should keep quiet, speaking only to himself and God.)

⁴But what is the divine response to him? "I HAVE KEPT for Myself SEVEN THOUSAND MEN WHO HAVE NOT BOWED THE KNEE TO BAAL."⁵ In the same way then, there has also come to be at the present time a remnant according to God's gracious choice. But if it is by grace, [then—implied] it is no longer on the basis of works, otherwise grace is no longer grace. (Romans 11:4-6 NASB)

(During Elijah's ministry, God graciously kept for Himself 7,000 of His people who would not bow to Baal. In the same way, a remnant of Jews existed in Paul's day who were saved according to God's gracious choice in election. If God chose them according to His gracious choice—as He did in Elijah's day ["I have kept"]—then the choice is not based on personal works or merit. If the choice is based on works, it cannot be based on merit otherwise, the word, "grace", has no meaning. Stated another way, if the condition of salvation by grace is in place, the result of salvation by works is eliminated.)

¹⁸For if the inheritance is based on law, [then—implied] it is no longer based on a promise;
 but God has granted it to Abraham by means of a promise. (Galatians 3:18 NASB)

(If the condition is true that the inheritance is based on law, then the result of this condition is that the inheritance is not based on the promise [grace]. However ("but"), Paul argues that this conditional statement is not true. In actual fact, God gave the inheritance to Abraham by means of a promise. The conclusion [therefore—not stated expressly but implied] is that since Abraham—in actual fact—received the inheritance by a promise, then the inheritance must be on the basis of promise, not law-keeping.)

Colossians 3:1 NASB(188) 1 Therefore(189) if you have been raised up with Christ,(190) [then—implied] keep seeking the things above, (191) where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God.

Paul is not questioning the Colossians about their salvation. He is merely implying that if the condition of salvation (L 189) has been fulfilled in Christ—and it has been—then it is imperative that they keep seeking heavenly priorities. Notice the different head on the arrow for an imperative (command) verb.

¹For this reason we must pay much closer attention to what we have heard, so that we do not drift away from it. ²For if the word spoken through angels proved unalterable, and every transgression and disobedience received a just penalty, [then—implied] ³how will we escape

if we neglect so great a salvation? After it was at the first spoken through the Lord, it was confirmed to us by those who heard, (Hebrews 2:1-3 NASB)

(This is a complicated passage, but the main point is that even violation of the Mosaic Covenant administered through the mediation of angels [cf. Gal. 3: 19; Acts 7: 53] received a just punishment (the premise of the argument). If people were punished—even sometimes with the death penalty for violation of the Mosaic Covenant (which was inaugurated through angels), then [implied] how much more will they be punished for violation of the New Covenant (which was inaugurated through Christ Himself)?

How does one violate the New Covenant, one which was spoken first through Christ (“the Lord”, v. 3) and then communicated through the apostles? The simple answer is: By “neglecting so great a salvation”—by refusing to believe in Christ. Thus, the author’s first statement—the premise of his argument—is that the Israelites were punished for violation of the Old Covenant mediated through angels. This premise (condition) is true and has been verified in the history of Israel. The true premise forms the basis for the conclusion (result) that the author’s readers would also not escape punishment if they did not respond in faith to the New Covenant inaugurated by Christ.

e. Contra-expectation—something happens contrary to expectation (although...yet; although...but; even though; though. The “yet” or “but” is sometimes implied) (HTIB, p. 319).

(64) 21 And although you were formerly alienated

(65) and hostile in mind, engaged in evil deeds,

(66) ²² yet He has now reconciled you

(67) in His fleshly body through death,

It was contrary to anyone’s expectation that God would reconcile those who were His enemies, whose minds were hostile to Him, and who were engaged in evil deeds. However, this is exactly what happened in spite of the situation which existed.

⁸Although He was a Son, [yet—implied] He learned obedience from the things which He suffered. (Hebrews 5:8 NASB)

(We would not have expected the Son of God to learn obedience through suffering.)

After all, He was perfect in every way. Yet, Christ in His humanity learned obedience in the same way we do, through the experience of suffering. The difference is that He never failed in His obedience.)

Although he was grieved, [yet—implied] the king commanded it to be given because of his oaths, and because of his dinner guests. (Matthew 14:9 NASB)

(Although we might have expected Herod not to behead John the Baptist for fear of the multitudes [v. 5], he did it anyway to save face before his guests.)

¹¹Simon Peter went up and drew the net to land, full of large fish, a hundred and fifty-three; and although there were so many, [yet—implied] the net was not torn. (John 21:11 NASB)

(With this many fish, they would have expected the net to tear; but contrary to their expectations, the net did not tear.)

³for we are the true circumcision, who worship in the Spirit of God and glory in Christ Jesus and put no confidence in the flesh, ⁴although I myself might have confidence even in the flesh. If anyone else has a mind to put confidence in the flesh, I far more: ⁵circumcised the eighth day, of the nation of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; as to the Law, a Pharisee; ⁶as to zeal, a persecutor of the church; as to the righteousness which is in the Law, found blameless. ⁷But whatever things were gain to me, those things I have counted as loss for the sake of Christ. (Philippians 3:3-7 NASB)

(Paul was a law-keeping Pharisee who might have been expected to put confidence in his law-keeping. But contrary to expectations, because of the surpassing greatness of Christ and the gospel, he considered all his efforts to earn salvation from the law as loss so that he could gain Christ through faith.)

¹Now I say, as long as the heir is a child, he does not differ at all from a slave although he is owner of everything, ²but he is under guardians and managers until the date set by the father.

³So also we, while we were children, were held in bondage under the elemental things of the world. ⁴But when the fullness of the time came, God sent forth His Son, born of a woman, born under the Law, ⁵so that He might redeem those who were under the Law, that we might receive the adoption as sons. ⁶Because you are sons, God has sent forth the Spirit of His Son into our hearts, crying, "Abba! Father!" ⁷Therefore you are no longer a slave, but a son; and if a son, then an heir through God. (Galatians 4:3-7 NASB)

(One would expect the heir of the inheritance to have more privileges in the family than a household slave; but in Roman culture, the child who had not grown to maturity was treated similarly to a slave. Using this as an analogy, Paul says that Christ's redemption has changed our status from one of slaves to that of full-grown sons with the full privileges of membership in the family of God—a status he calls “adoption.”)

³²and although they know the ordinance of God, that those who practice  such things are worthy of death, [yet—implied] they not only do the  same, but also give hearty approval to those who practice them. (Romans 1:32 NASB)

(Considering the penalty of death to those who break God’s law, we might expect people to fear breaking the law. Instead, they not only break God’s law, they heartily approve of anyone who lives sinfully.)

f. Alternation—Either one event occurs or another event occurs, but not both. In other words, if one thing happens, the other will not happen because of a causal connection between the two events (HTIB, p. 320).

¹⁰For even when we were with you, we used to give you this order: if anyone is not willing to work, then he is not to eat, either. (2 Thessalonians 3:10 NASB)

(One or the other event will take place but not both. If not working occurs, then eating will not occur. In the church of Thessalonica, not working and eating could not occur at the same time. Notice that either this or that will occur, but not both.)

²¹for if God did not spare the natural branches, He will not spare you, either. (Romans 11:21 NASB)

(God did not spare the Jewish people—natural branches—when they failed to respond in faith to His covenant promises. He will also not spare Gentiles who profess faith in Christ if they prove later by their unbelief that they are not true Christians. God will not pardon disbelieving Gentiles if He has judged disbelieving Jews. Not sparing unbelieving Jews and sparing unbelieving Gentiles will not occur together. God does not show favoritism to Jews or Gentiles. Anyone who does not respond in faith will be judged. Either implies a condition which goes in both directions, thus the arrow which points both ways.)

¹⁶Do you not know that when you present yourselves to someone as slaves for obedience, you are slaves of the one whom you obey, either of sin resulting in death, or of obedience resulting in righteousness? (Romans 6:16 NASB)

(The two situations presented are mutually exclusive—both cannot be true. Either a person presents himself (sells himself) as a slave of sin, or he presents himself as a slave of obedience. But he cannot present himself as a slave both to sin and obedience at the same time. Likewise, one condition results in death and the other in righteousness, but death and righteousness cannot exist at the same time. From the perspective of Roman culture (historical context), a bond-slave could not serve two masters. He was fully owned by one master only who would not share him with another master. Thus, Paul is saying—by way of analogy—that one cannot be a slave of one master (sin) while at the same time being the slave of another master (righteousness).

g. Conclusion—there is a causal relationship between one thing or event which leads to a conclusion. The first thing or event (the premise of the argument) is known to be true which serves as the basis for the conclusion which follows from the premise (HTIB, p. 320).

There is much similarity between this relationship and those containing if...then statements. In this relationship, the words “if...then” may not be present.

¹⁶For where a covenant is, [the premise]
there must of necessity be the death of the one who made it. [the conclusion]
 (Hebrews 9:16 NASB)

(This is a complicated text, and space will not permit a lengthy explanation. Suffice it to say that whenever a covenant exists, the one who makes the covenant has to die. In order for the New Covenant to be inaugurated or put into place, Christ had to die. The Abrahamic Covenant, on the other hand, was inaugurated through the symbolic death of animals which were split in two parts and laid along a path (cf. Gen. 15). Notice that although the writer is moving toward a conclusion, there is no if...then statement or for this reason, because, etc. It is implied.)

Exercise 2: Syntactical relationships: (You will be using the expanded handouts of Colossians with spaces between the lines.)

1. Answer the questions below from Colossians 1: 28-29 (Lines 92-99).
 - a. Mark all the persons, things, events, and attributes with symbols.
 - b. Mark the syntactical indicators: Reason, Means, Purpose, Condition, Contra-expectation, Alternation, or Conclusion
 - c. Why do Paul and others admonish and teach?
 - d. How does Paul emphasize this purpose?
2. Answer the questions below from Col. 2: 1-5 (Lines 100-117).
 - a. Mark all the persons, things, events, and attributes with symbols.
 - b. Mark the syntactical indicators.
 - c. What is the purpose of Paul's struggle?
 - d. What is the antecedent of “this” in L112? That is, what does Paul “say” and what is his purpose in saying it?
3. Answer the questions below from Col. 2: 6-7 (Lines 118-125).
 - a. Mark all persons, things, events, and attributes with symbols.
 - b. What does Paul mean by “so walk in Him”?
4. Answer the questions below from Col. 2: 13-17 (Lines 144-163).
 - a. Mark all the indicators in these verses.
 - b. Mark the syntactical indicators.
 - c. What is the meaning of the “Therefore” in v. 16, Line 157? (Hint: What did Christ do and what are the Colossians trying to do?)
5. Answer the questions below from Col. 3: 1-7 (Lines 188-206).
 - a. Mark all the indicators (including persons, things, events, syntactical).

- b. What is the meaning of “Therefore” in v. 5, L198?
- c. What kind of syntactical indicator is “for” of v. 6, L202? Explain your answer from the context.
- d. What kind of indicators are “once” and “when” in L205-206? What is the significance of these two indicators for the meaning of the text?
- e. What does “them” refer to in v. 7 (L205)?

II. The meaning of words and phrases

We determine the meaning of a word in a passage of Scripture from the context. How does the author use the word? I have laid out a possible strategy for developing the meaning of words and phrases below (See also HTIB, chapter 12, and Equipping to Serve, “Explain words and phrases”, p. 4:3.).

A. Use as many good English translations of the text as you have available.

Using multiple translations (NIV, ESB, NASB, KJV, and ASV) can be very helpful in determining the meaning of words and phrases. The translators of any recognized version of the Bible are Greek and Hebrew scholars who have spent many long days, months, and years arriving at the most helpful translation of the Greek and Hebrew Bible according to a particular set of goals; and they have done this after a many previous years of personal mastery of the Greek and Hebrew languages.

The goal of the NASB is a translation as close to the literal Greek and Hebrew as the translators could accomplish (cf. p. 16: 3 of Equipping to Serve). The goal of the NIV is somewhere between a literal translation and a dynamic equivalent translation in which the translators attempted “to communicate the meaning as faithfully as possible using the natural form of the language into which it is translated. The reader of the translation as nearly as possible should arrive at the meaning received by the original reader” (16:4). Personally, I find this last statement by Wolvaardt somewhat biased against literal translations, as if the reader of a literal translation cannot arrive at the meaning received by the original reader. In a detailed study of words and phrases, it is often very helpful to have a literal translation to see the parallel uses of words and phrases. Having both literal and dynamic equivalent translations—or something in-between the two—is very helpful. I would suggest using both if you have them.

We should start the process by taking a passage of Scripture from two translations (or three) and placing them one after the other or side by side. I have done this with Colossians 2. The text with the line numbers is the NASB, 1995, and the one without the line numbers is the NIV, 1984.

Colossians 2

(100) ¹ For I want you to know
 (101) how great a struggle I have on your behalf
 (102) and for those who are at Laodicea,
 (103) and for all those who have not personally seen my face,

NASB

¹ I want you to know how much I am struggling for you and for those at Laodicea, and for all who have not met me personally.

NIV

Who have not met me personally sounds more like what an English speaker would say. If I have not met someone, I do not say, I have not personally seen his face. Thus, the NIV has translated the phrase into a more natural English equivalent for easier reading and understanding.

(104) ² that their hearts may be encouraged,

(105) having been knit together in love,

NASB

² My purpose is that they may be encouraged in heart and united in love,

NIV

We can see that the translators of the NIV have identified the purpose statement for us by translating that with My purpose, words which are not in the original Greek but which are clearly intended by the author. Also, united in love is more understandable to the modern English reader than knit together in love.

(112) ⁴ I say this so that no one will delude you
 (113) with persuasive argument.

NASB

⁴ I tell you this so that no one may deceive you by fine-sounding arguments.

NIV

Once again, the NIV captures the intended meaning. Paul was not implying that the arguments of the false teachers were truly persuasive, cogent, or logically conclusive, but that to some people they appeared to be so. Such arguments sounded just fine until someone like Paul came along to examine them carefully. Implication: Don't be taken in by arguments which may sound intelligent but are nothing but "hot air". Think!!!

(118) 6 Therefore

(119) as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord,

(120) so walk in Him,

(121) ⁷ having been firmly rooted

(122) and now being built up in Him

(123) and established in your faith,

(124) just as you were instructed,

(125) and overflowing with gratitude.

NASB

Notice the two different ways of translating this important reason indicator.

⁶ So then,

just as you received Christ Jesus as Lord,

continue to live in him,

⁷ rooted and built up in him, strengthened in the faith

as you were taught,

and overflowing with thankfulness.

NIV

The NIV has captured the continuing action of a present tense verb—literally the text reads, continue walking around. But what does that mean? It means, continue living the Christian life. The NIV translates the Greek verb, peripateo as live while the NASB routinely translates it walk. But the connotation (suggested meaning) of walk is that the Christian takes his faith wherever he goes while he is walking around. In other words, Christian character is something we take with us into the market place, into the job, to the ball field, into the bedroom, etc. This interesting connotation is somewhat lost (in my opinion) with the translation, live.

Having been...rooted (L121) is a perfect participle. The perfect tense has the connotation (suggested meaning) of an activity in the past with present results. Thus, the Colossians were already rooted in Christ in the past with the present result of being built up and established in their faith

(126) 8 See to it that no one takes you captive
 (127) through philosophy and empty deception,
 (128) according to the tradition of men,
 (129) according to the elementary principles of the world,
 (130) rather than according to Christ.

⁸ See to it that no one takes you captive through hollow and deceptive philosophy, which depends on human tradition and the basic principles of this world rather than on Christ.

NIV

The NASB routinely translates present participles in this way—having been... which gives you an indication of the perfect tense. The action of the verb is in the past but the results of the verb continue into the present.

The NASB uses three parallel phrases, according to the tradition of men and according to the elementary principles of men, rather than according to Christ. This literal construction sets up the parallel and contrast more clearly than the NIV.

(131) ⁹ For in Him
 (132) all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form,
 (133) ¹⁰ and in Him
 (134) you have been made complete,
 (135) and He is the head over all rule and authority;

NASB

⁹ For in Christ
 all the fullness of the Deity lives in bodily form, ¹⁰ and you have been given fullness in Christ, who is the head over every power and authority.

NIV

In the Greek, the word dwells is katoikeo which means to inhabit. The word house in the Greek is oikos, thus you can see the connection. The fullness of God has taken up residence in Christ. In the same way, the Holy Spirit dwells in every believer or, to put it another way, has taken up residence in the believer (1 Cor. 3: 16; oikeo).

(136) ¹¹ and in Him you were also circumcised
 (137) with a circumcision made without hands,
 (138) in the removal of the body of the flesh
 (139) by the circumcision of Christ;
 (140) ¹² having been buried with Him in baptism,
 (141) in which you were also raised up with Him
 (142) through faith in the working of God,
 (143) who raised Him from the dead.

NASB

The body of the flesh is a very curious phrase to the modern ear. Sinful nature (NIV) is much easier to understand. (But see further comments below.)

¹¹ In him you were also circumcised, in the putting off of the sinful nature, not with a circumcision done by the hands of men
 but with the circumcision done by Christ,
¹² having been buried with him in baptism
 and raised with him through your faith in the power of God,
 who raised him from the dead.

NIV

The body of the flesh (NASB) helps us to understand the meaning of circumcision in the OT. The removal of the foreskin of flesh from the male sex organ represented the removal of the sinful flesh or sinful nature. But while OT circumcision was limited to a small piece of flesh, the circumcision of Christ is more radical, consisting of the whole person. The whole person, the old self (3: 9), is crucified with Christ, dead, and buried. Thus, the analogy between circumcision in the OT—the removal of flesh—is more strikingly captured by the removal of the body of the flesh which indicates the complete removal of the old man. His sinful nature is removed not only in part, but in the whole.

(144) ¹³ When you were dead
 (145) in your transgressions
 (146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh,
 (147) He made you alive together with Him.

NASB

¹³ When you were dead
 in your sins
 and in the uncircumcision of your sinful nature,
 God made you alive with Christ.
 He forgave us all our sins,

NIV

The verb of L147 is literally made alive together. It is a compound verb with the preposition with included in the verb. The NIV with Christ is a good translation, especially since it identifies the him which is a pronoun in the Greek. However, the NASB is also a good translation which translates the original force of the verb. The idea is that God made us alive together with Christ. Thus, being together with Christ in His resurrection is emphasized in the Greek and is captured by the NASB, not the NIV.

- (154) ¹⁵ When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities,
 (155) He made a public display of them,
 (156) having triumphed over them through Him.

NASB

- ¹⁵ And having disarmed the powers and authorities,
 he made a public spectacle of them,
triumphing over them by the cross.

NIV

Here, public spectacle is a better translation because it better captures the intent for the modern reader. Public spectacle has a negative connotation (suggested meaning). The idea is that God stripped the cosmic, heavenly powers of their weapons and is now exhibiting them to the world in their conquered condition. The military term used (triumphed) indicates that Christ is now driving His conquered enemies through the streets in royal procession bound in chains (see 2 Cor. 2: 14).

- (164) ¹⁸ Let no one keep defrauding you of your prize
 (165) by delighting in self-abasement
 (166) and the worship of the angels,

NASB

- ¹⁸ Do not let anyone who delights in false humility
 and the worship of angels

NIV

False humility is a much more understandable translation than self-abasement.

- (174) 20 If you have died with Christ
 (175) to the elementary principles of the world,
 (176) why, as if you were living in the world,
 (177) do you submit yourself to decrees, such as,
 (178) ²¹ "Do not handle, do not taste, do not touch!"

NASB

- ²⁰ Since you died with Christ to the basic principles of this world, why, as though you still belonged to it,
 do you submit to its rules:

NIV

- ²¹ "Do not handle! Do not taste! Do not touch!"?

Again, a more understandable translation by the NIV. The Christian is still living in this world, but not in the sense of belonging to it. In Jn. 15: 19, Jesus tells His disciples that they are not of the world. In the same sense, we are not of the world. We do not belong to it. (cf. Col. 1: 13).

Why are man's efforts to save himself called elementary principles of the world? (L175) I think the answer is this: By his very nature, man is a legalist who insists on making up the conditions of his own salvation. He instinctively believes that he can do something significant to save himself. On the "flip side of the coin", he is an antinomian. By devising his own way of salvation, he is constantly breaking the law of God. In the Gnostic heresy, some believed that salvation was attained through extreme asceticism—depriving the body of food, drink, sex, etc. (Even married people were advised to abstain from sexual relations.) By so doing, the person could eventually free himself from the limitations of the material body. Paul says any such means of salvation is foolishness.

B. Compare the meaning of words and phrases with how the author uses these words and phrases in different books.

It is always helpful to know the author of the book you are studying since he is likely to use words and phrases in one book the same way he uses them in other books. However, there are exceptions, and we cannot make a blanket rule which applies to every case. In every situation the context must govern our understanding. I have taken another letter of Paul, Ephesians, and compared it with Colossians. Both of these letters were written while Paul was in his first Roman imprisonment.

Ephesians

Colossians

¹⁷ In Him we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, ¹⁰ with a view to an administration suitable to the fullness of the times, that is, the summing up of all things in Christ, things in the heavens and things on the earth. ¹⁵ For this reason I too, having heard of the faith in the Lord Jesus which exists among you and your love for all the saints, ¹⁶ do not cease giving thanks for you, while making mention of you in my prayers; ¹⁷ that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give to you a spirit of wisdom and of revelation in the knowledge of Him. ¹⁸ I pray that the eyes of your heart may be enlightened, so that you will know what is the hope of His calling, what are the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints ²¹ far above all rule and authority and power and dominion,	¹⁴ in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins. ²⁰ and through Him to reconcile all things to Himself, having made peace through the blood of His cross; through Him, I say, whether things on earth or things in heaven. ³ We give thanks to God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you, ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and the love which you have for all the saints; ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven, 9 For this reason also, since the day we heard of it, we have not ceased to pray for you and to ask that you may be filled with the knowledge of His will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding, joyously ¹² giving thanks to the Father, who has qualified us to share in the inheritance of the saints in Light. ¹⁶ whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things have been created through Him and for Him.
--	---

Exercise 3: Based on the comparison of Ephesians and Colossians above, answer the following questions:

1. What does Paul mean by the word, “redemption”?
2. What does Paul mean by the “summing up of all things in Christ”?
3. What is the common reason for Paul’s thanksgiving?
4. What is “the hope of His calling” in Eph. 1: 17?
5. What does Paul often pray for with regard to believers? Does he pray for material prosperity or something else?

Ephesians

²¹And you were dead in your trespasses and sins, ²in which you formerly walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, of the spirit that is now working in the sons of disobedience. ³Among them we too all formerly lived in the lusts of our flesh, indulging the desires of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature children of wrath, even as the rest. ⁴But God, being rich in mercy, because of His great love with which He loved us, ⁵even when we were dead in our transgressions, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you have been saved),

¹¹Therefore remember that formerly you, the Gentiles in the flesh, who are called "Uncircumcision " by the so-called "Circumcision," which is performed in the flesh by human hands

¹⁴For He Himself is our peace, who made both groups into one and broke down the barrier of the dividing wall, ¹⁵*by abolishing in His flesh the enmity, which is the Law of commandments contained in ordinances,* so that in Himself He might make the two into one new man, thus establishing peace,

³³that by revelation there was made known to me the mystery, as I wrote before in brief. ⁴By referring to this, when you read you can understand my insight into the mystery of Christ, ⁵which in other generations was not made known to the sons of men, as it has now been revealed to His holy apostles and prophets in the Spirit; ⁶*to be specific, that the Gentiles are fellow heirs and fellow members of the body, and fellow partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel,*

³⁸To me, the very least of all saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unfathomable riches of Christ, ⁹and to bring to light what is the administration of the mystery which for ages has been hidden in God who created all things;

¹⁵but speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in all aspects into Him who is the head, even Christ, ¹⁶from whom the whole body, being fitted and held together by what every joint supplies, according to the proper working of each individual part, causes the growth of the body for the building up of itself in love.

Colossians

¹²¹ And although you were formerly alienated and hostile in mind, engaged in evil deeds, ²²yet He has now reconciled you in His fleshly body through death, in order to present you before Him holy and blameless and beyond reproach—

² ¹³When you were dead in your transgressions and the uncircumcision of your flesh, He made you alive together with Him, having forgiven us all our transgressions, ¹⁴*having canceled out the certificate of debt consisting of decrees against us, which was hostile to us;* and He has taken it out of the way, having nailed it to the cross.

²¹¹and in Him you were also circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, in the removal of the body of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ;

¹ ²⁵so that I might fully carry out the preaching of the word of God, ²⁶*that is, the mystery which has been hidden from the past ages and generations, but has now been manifested to His saints,* ²⁷*to whom God willed to make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

²²that their hearts may be encouraged, having been knit together in love, and *attaining to all the wealth that comes from the full assurance of understanding, resulting in a true knowledge of God's mystery, that is, Christ Himself, ³in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

¹⁹and not holding fast to the head, from whom the entire body, being supplied and held together by the joints and ligaments, grows with a growth which is from God.

Ephesians

Colossians

4²² that, in reference to your former manner of life, you lay aside the old self, which is being corrupted in accordance with the lusts of deceit,²³ and that you be renewed in the spirit of your mind,²⁴ and put on the new self, which in the likeness of God has been created in righteousness and holiness of the truth.²⁵ Therefore, laying aside falsehood, SPEAK TRUTH EACH ONE of you WITH HIS NEIGHBOR, for we are members of one another
 5 ³ But immorality or any impurity or greed must not even be named among you, as is proper among saints;⁴ and there must be no filthiness and silly talk, or coarse jesting, which are not fitting, but rather giving of thanks.⁵ For this you know with certainty, that no immoral or impure person or covetous man, who is an idolater, has an inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God.⁶ Let no one deceive you with empty words, for because of these things the wrath of God comes upon the sons of disobedience.

5²² Wives, be subject to your own husbands, as to the Lord.²³ For the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ also is the head of the church, He Himself being the Savior of the body.²⁴ But as the church is subject to Christ, so also the wives ought to be to their husbands in everything.²⁵ Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself up for her,²⁶ so that He might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word,²⁷ that He might present to Himself the church in all her glory, having no spot or wrinkle or any such thing; but that she would be holy and blameless.²⁸ So husbands ought also to love their own wives as their own bodies. He who loves his own wife loves himself;²⁹ for no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ also does the church,³⁰ because we are members of His body.

6¹ Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right.⁴ Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.

⁵ Slaves, be obedient to those who are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in the sincerity of your heart, as to Christ;⁶ not by way of eyeservice, as men-pleasers, but as slaves of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart.⁷ With good will render service, as to the Lord, and not to men,

3⁸ But now you also, put them all aside: anger, wrath, malice, slander, and abusive speech from your mouth.⁹ Do not lie to one another, since you laid aside the old self with its evil practices,¹⁰ and have put on the new self who is being renewed to a true knowledge according to the image of the One who created him—

3⁵ Therefore consider the members of your earthly body as dead to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed, which amounts to idolatry.⁶ For it is because of these things that the wrath of God will come upon the sons of disobedience.

3¹⁸ Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord.¹⁹ Husbands, love your wives and do not be embittered against them.²⁰ Children, be obedient to your parents in all things, for this is well-pleasing to the Lord.

²¹ Fathers, do not exasperate your children, so that they will not lose heart.²² Slaves, in all things obey those who are your masters on earth, not with external service, as those who merely please men, but with sincerity of heart, fearing the Lord.²³ Whatever you do, do your work heartily, as for the Lord rather than for men,

⁸knowing that whatever good thing each one does, this he will receive back from the Lord, whether slave or free. ⁹ And masters, do the same things to them, and give up threatening, knowing that both their Master and yours is in heaven, and there is no partiality with Him.	, ²⁴ knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance. It is the Lord Christ whom you serve. 4¹ Masters, grant to your slaves justice and fairness, knowing that you too have a Master in heaven.
--	--

One can see that any serious study of Colossians must also include the study of Ephesians and vice versa (the other way around). The interpreter can use the words and phrases of one book to understand the meaning of words and phrases in the other book.

Exercise 4: Based on the comparison of Ephesians and Colossians above, answer the following questions:

1. If a person is living in the lusts of the flesh and of the mind, can he claim any neutrality toward God? Explain your answer.
2. What is the “uncircumcision of the flesh”?
3. What is the symbolical significance of OT circumcision? That is, what did OT circumcision signify?
4. What is the “certificate of debt” which Christ has removed?
5. Provide a full definition of “the mystery”?
6. What is different in the tense of the verbs concerning “laying aside the old self”? What is the significance of this difference?
7. What are the characteristics of the “new self”?
8. What is “true knowledge”?
9. What one word could be used to describe the “immorality, impurity, and greed” in Eph. 5: 3?
10. Explain the significance of the difference in the tense of the verbs in Eph. 5: 6 and Col. 3: 6, “comes upon the sons of disobedience” and “will come upon the sons of disobedience”?

11. In Eph. 5: 22, the words “be subject” are not included in the Greek text. The text literally reads, “Wives, to your own husbands...” Other than the immediate context of Eph. 5: 21, what other good reason do we have to include the words, “be subject”?

12. What is another word for “eyeservice”?

13. What does Paul mean by masters “according to the flesh”?

14. In Eph. 6: 6, what is “the will of God”? What does it consist of?

15. What did the slave and the earthly master have in common?

Other examples of comparing one text with another:

So also we, while we were children, were held in bondage under the elemental things of the world. (Galatians 4:3 NASB)

⁹But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how is it that you turn back again to the weak and worthless elemental things, to which you desire to be enslaved all over again? ¹⁰You observe days and months and seasons and years. ¹¹I fear for you, that perhaps I have labored over you in vain. (Galatians 4:9-11 NASB)

⁸See to it that no one takes you captive through philosophy and empty deception, according to the tradition of men, according to the elementary principles of the world, rather than according to Christ. (Colossians 2:8 NASB)

²⁰If you have died with Christ to the elementary principles of the world, why, as if you were living in the world, do you submit yourself to decrees, such as, ²¹"Do not handle, do not taste, do not touch!" ²²(which all refer to things destined to perish with use)—in accordance with the commandments and teachings of men? (Colossians 2:20-22 NASB)

C. Compare words and phrases in books by different authors.

Not only can we compare words and phrases in books by the same author, it is also helpful to compare the works of other authors. Consider the word, “shadow” found in both Colossians and Hebrews.

¹⁶Therefore no one is to act as your judge in regard to food or drink or in respect to a festival or a new moon or a Sabbath day—¹⁷ things which are a mere shadow of what is to come; but the substance belongs to Christ. (Colossians 2:16-17 NASB)

⁴Now if He were on earth, He would not be a priest at all, since there are those who offer the gifts according to the Law; ⁵ who serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things, just as Moses was warned by God when he was about to erect the tabernacle; for, "SEE," He says, "THAT YOU MAKE all things ACCORDING TO THE PATTERN WHICH WAS SHOWN YOU ON THE MOUNTAIN." (Hebrews 8:4-5 NASB)

For the Law, since it has only a shadow of the good things to come and not the very form of things, can never, by the same sacrifices which they offer continually year by year, make perfect those who draw near. (Hebrews 10:1 NASB)

From the preceding texts, we may conclude that the “shadow” (Col. 2: 17) refers to the things ordained in the Mosaic administration—ceremonial regulations concerning food and drink, festival days, new moons, or Sabbath days. “What is to come” (Col. 2: 17) refers to the “heavenly things” (Heb. 8: 5) or “the good things to come” (Heb. 10: 1). The “heavenly things” are the same as “the very form of things” or “the substance which belongs to Christ.” All the copies in the OT pointed to Christ who fulfilled these copies. But now that the substance has come, the Colossians should not focus their attention upon the copies or shadows, but upon Christ Himself.

D. Use the analogy of faith to determine the meaning of words and phrases

What is the body of the flesh in Col. 2: 11? The NIV renders the verse in the following way:

In him you were also circumcised, in the putting off of the sinful nature, not with a circumcision done by the hands of men but with the circumcision done by Christ,” (Colossians 2:11 NIV).

Therefore, in the opinion of the NIV translators, the removal of the body of the flesh is equivalent to (the same thing as) the putting off of the sinful nature. This putting off can be accomplished only by the circumcision of Christ. But this begs another question: What is the circumcision of Christ? For that matter, what is circumcision, and what did it represent to those who practiced it?

The question concerning the meaning of circumcision must be answered according to the analogy of Scripture or the analogy of faith. The analogy of faith is another expression for Step 4 in the Steps of Exegesis: Relate message to broader biblical and theological framework (Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 79). For a more detailed explanation of the analogy of faith, see my Hermeneutics—Principles of Biblical Interpretation, “The Analogy of Faith”, pp. 3-11. The analogy of faith basically means that Scripture interprets Scripture.

The analogy of the faith implies that the broader context of any passage of Scripture is the whole Bible. The word “context” in the English language literally means “woven together”. Therefore, we believe that the Bible has been woven together in such a way that every text of Scripture relates in some way to every other text of Scripture. Therefore, what we learn about circumcision in the OT has a very important bearing for every mention of circumcision in the NT.

In the Old Covenant, all male Israelites (even slaves and servants) were required to be circumcised.

“And every male among you who is eight days old shall be circumcised throughout your generations, a servant who is born in the house or who is bought with money from any foreigner, who is not of your descendants.” (Genesis 17:12 NASB)

Anyone refusing circumcision would be cut off or excluded from the nation of Israel.

“But an uncircumcised male who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that person shall be cut off from his people; he has broken My covenant.” (Genesis 17:14 NASB)

In circumcision, the flesh covering the male sex organ (the foreskin) was cut off or removed. Therefore, either the foreskin would be removed or the person himself would be removed. This was not simply an external sign that the nation (represented by the male population) belonged to God. Some Sudanese have the marking of their tribe cut into their foreheads, identifying them as belonging to a certain tribe in Sudan. I am not aware of what this marking means, but it likely symbolizes certain obligations and responsibilities to the tribe. Likewise, circumcision in the OT was far more than an external badge of membership hidden under one's clothing. Rather, it symbolized the covenant obligations of the nation and what kind of nation Israel was supposed to be—namely, a holy nation. The removal of the flesh from the male sex organ symbolized the removal of the sinful flesh or the sinful nature—the obligation to keep God's law. How do we know this? From the OT we learn that the Israelites were commanded to circumcise or remove the foreskins of their hearts.

So circumcise your heart, and stiffen your neck no longer. (Deuteronomy 10:16 NASB)

Circumcise yourselves to the LORD And remove the foreskins of your heart, Men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, Or else My wrath will go forth like fire And burn with none to quench it, Because of the evil of your deeds." (Jeremiah 4:4 NASB)

But although they were responsible to circumcise their hearts, they were unable to do so. Although Israelites could circumcise the male sex organ, they could not circumcise the heart which represented the whole person or inner being. Only God could do this. Thus, they were promised that one day this inward, heart circumcision would be accomplished by divine initiative, not by human effort.

Moreover the LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants, to love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, so that you may live. (Deuteronomy 30:6 NASB)

From the NT we learn that true circumcision was not the outward circumcision of literal flesh but circumcision of the heart by the Spirit.

²⁸For he is not a Jew who is one outwardly, nor is circumcision that which is outward in the flesh. ²⁹But he is a Jew who is one inwardly; and circumcision is that which is of the heart, by the Spirit, not by the letter; and his praise is not from men, but from God. (Romans 2:28-29 NASB)

The circumcision of the heart by the Spirit is the kind of circumcision Paul is talking about in Col. 2: 11, the circumcision made without hands—that is, without human hands using a sharp knife. Moreover, if a person is not circumcised in heart, he will be cut off from the Lord's people on the Day of Judgment just as uncircumcised Israelites were physically cut off from the nation of Israel (Gen. 17: 14).

By using the analogy of faith—Scripture interprets Scripture—we now see that the circumcision of the OT symbolized regeneration—the renewal of the heart by the Holy Spirit (Tit. 3: 5). As the circumcision of the OT symbolized the cutting off of the sinful flesh, water baptism in the NT symbolizes the renewal and cleansing of the whole person. We are, as it were, raised from the dead and made alive—cleansed by the washing of regeneration and renewing by the Holy Spirit (Tit. 3: 5; synonymous parallelism). Therefore, we cannot attribute (give as a quality) saving benefits to water baptism any more than the Israelites could attribute saving benefits to circumcision. Just as true circumcision in the OT was circumcision of the heart, true baptism is baptism by the Holy Spirit. The ritual itself will not save us; only God can save us through the supernatural act of the Holy Spirit.

In Col. 2: 12-13, Paul assumes more than mere water baptism but rather spiritual baptism which is accompanied by faith. Nevertheless, he uses the external sign as the analogy of what happens to the true believer.

¹²having been buried with Him in baptism, in which you were also raised up with Him through faith in the working of God, who raised Him from the dead. ¹³When you were dead in your transgressions and the uncircumcision of your flesh, He made you alive together with Him, having forgiven us all our transgressions, (Colossians 2:12-13 NASB)

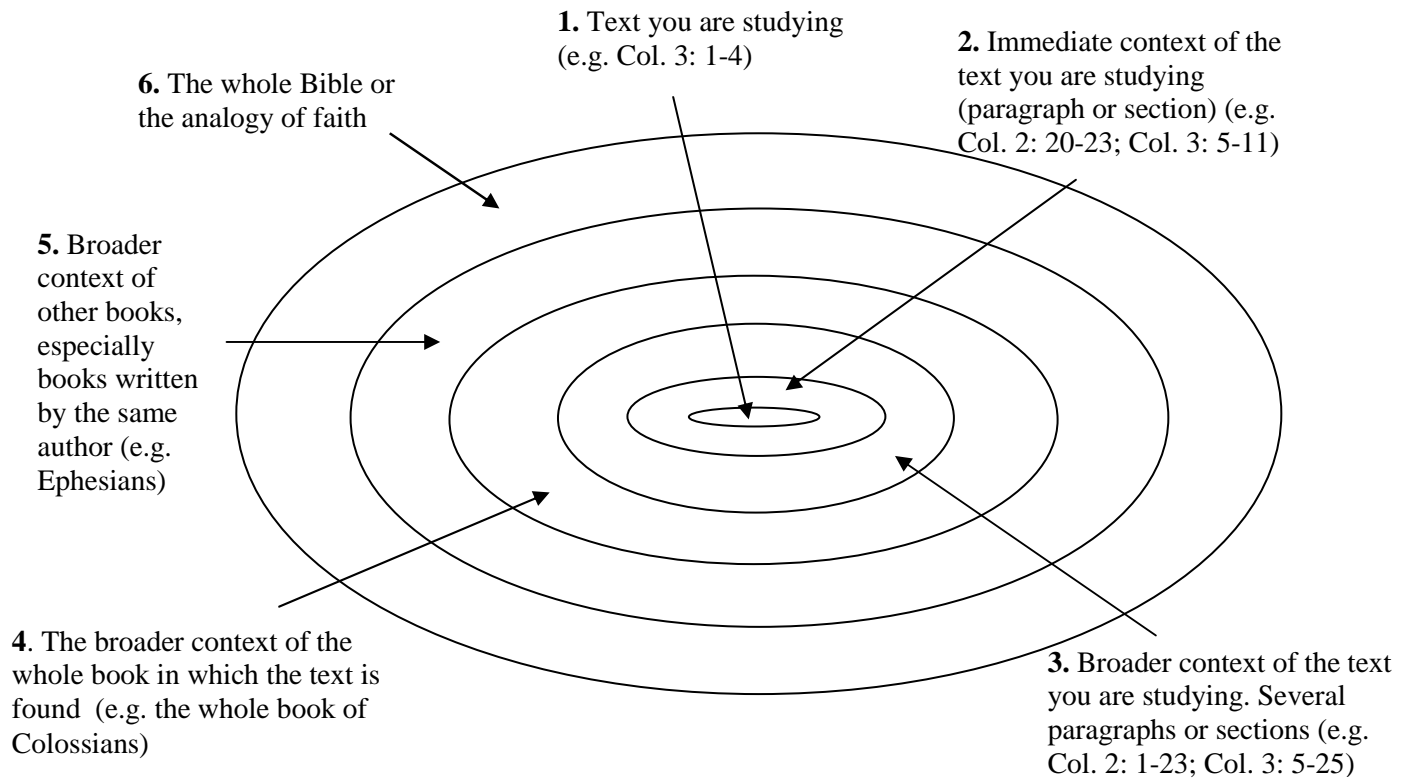

As Christ was crucified and buried, so the believer is also crucified and buried with Christ; and as Christ is raised from the dead, the believer is raised from the dead with Christ. From the construction of v. 13, to be dead in your transgressions is equivalent to being uncircumcised, an uncircumcision that cannot refer to the state of being physically uncircumcised. Rather, it refers to the uncircumcision of the human heart (see OT references above).

Therefore we can see that it really takes all of the Bible to interpret one part or one word of the Bible. The meaning of words and phrases will become more evident to us as we familiarize ourselves with the whole Bible.

III. Literary Context (cf. Daniel Doriani, Getting the Message—A Plan for Interpreting and Applying the Bible, Chapter 3)

If we are taking only a section of Colossians as our preaching, teaching, or devotional text, we must determine where the selected text fits into the whole book. In other words, why is this text in this particular location in the book and nowhere else (cf. Doriani, Getting the Message, pp. 35-36). I would like to suggest that you form the habit of teaching, preaching, or having devotional readings from whole books of the Bible rather than selected texts. The only way to determine why a selected text is in a certain portion of the book is to be thoroughly acquainted with the whole book; therefore, why not preach, teach, or study the whole book rather than a few selected passages from the book? Determining the reason for its specific position in the book will require careful exegesis.

Studying the literary context is analogous to throwing a stone into a lake of still water while watching the ripples radiate out from the point of impact. The point of the stone's impact is the text you are studying, while the ripples represent the immediate and broader context of the text in question. "The closer the circle is to the center (your text), the more it influences your passage" (Doriani, p. 33).

Six Principles governing the study of the literary context (Dorani, pp. 34-39).

A. Interpret single verses in light of their immediate context (Dorani, p. 34).

For example, who does “Him” refer to in L46? According to the immediate context, “him” refers to the “Son” in L42. (Col. 1: 13-16).

- (41) ¹³ For He rescued us from the domain of darkness,
 (42) and transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son,
 (43) ¹⁴ in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.
(44) 15 He is the image of the invisible God,
 (45) the firstborn of all creation.
 (46) ¹⁶ For by Him all things were created,
 (47) both in the heavens and on earth,

But who is “He” in L41? To determine this, we must back up another verse in the text where we find that “the Father” is the antecedent—the word occurring before the pronoun; the word to which the pronoun refers.

- (38) joyously ¹² giving thanks to the Father,
 (39) who has qualified us to share in the inheritance
 (40) of the saints in Light.
 (41) ¹³ For He rescued us from the domain of darkness,

B. Interpret paragraphs and episodes in light of the paragraphs or events around them (Dorani, p. 34).

1. Consider Col. 2: 16-17 (L157-163). How do we interpret these two verses? First, we know that therefore is a reason indicator pointing to something said previously. “Therefore”, we will go back to the previous paragraph to see if we can discover some clues. Before we do this, however, we must examine the text in question.

(157) 16 Therefore

Referring to something he said previously which we have not fully determined

(158) no one is to act as YOUR judge

(159) in regard to food or drink

Someone is judging the Colossians. How are they judging them?

(160) or in respect to a festival or a new moon

They are judging them about what they eat and drink and about the keeping of certain days and festivals.

(161) or a Sabbath day—

(162) ¹⁷ things which are a mere shadow of what is to come;

According to the immediate context, the things mentioned in L159-161 are a mere shadow. A shadow of what?

(163) but the substance belongs to Christ.

A shadow is only a mere outline of something that has more substance. If I see my wife's shadow, I don't hug the shadow; I hug my wife who made the shadow. Specifically, I hug my wife's body. In the Greek, the word soma (body) occurs in L163 and is translated substance. Thus, the laws concerning food, drink, festivals, or a Sabbath day were shadows of a more substantial body, the body of Christ, or Christ Himself.

2. Now let's consider Col. 2: 8-15 (L126-156) which occurs before the text under examination.

(126) 8 See to it that no one takes you captive

Taken captive through or by means of philosophy and empty deception

(127) through philosophy and empty deception.

(128) according to the tradition of men.

Elementary principles is also used in L175. See Gal. 4: 3,9

(129) according to the elementary principles of the world.

(130) rather than according to Christ.

(131) ⁹ For in Him

Note the repetition of according to. Philosophy and empty deception are contrasted to Christ.

(132) all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form,

(133) ¹⁰ AND in Him

(134) you have been made complete,

Notice that in Christ the Colossians were complete. The false teachers, on the other hand, were insisting that they had to add something to Christ—rules and regulations about food, ceremonial laws, worshipping angels, seeing visions, severe treatment of the body, etc. Thus, Paul says that none of this is necessary because Christ completes them.

(135) AND He is the head over all rule and authority;

(136) ¹¹ AND in Him you were ALSO circumcised

(137) with a circumcision made without hands,

(138) in the removal of the body of the flesh

(139) by the circumcision of Christ;

(140) ¹² having been buried with Him in baptism,

(141) in which you were also raised up with Him

(142) through faith in the working of God,

(143) who raised Him from the dead.

(144) ¹³ When you were dead

(145) in your transgressions

(146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh,

(147) He made you alive together with Him,

(148) having forgiven us all our transgressions,

(149) ¹⁴ having canceled out the certificate of debt

(150) consisting of decrees against us,

(151) which was hostile to us;

(152) AND He has taken it out of the way,

(153) having nailed it to the cross.

(154) ¹⁵ When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities,

(155) He made a public display of them,

(156) having triumphed over them THROUGH Him.

made without hands is an analogy for “without human effort”. The Israelite could be circumcised in the flesh by human hands, but only God could circumcise his heart without human hands.

Since the false teachers laid such emphasis on Jewish ceremonialism, it is also likely that they required circumcision as well, as did the false teachers in Galatia (see Gal. 5: 1-11). Here Paul says that the Colossians were already “circumcised” through faith in Christ. Only Christ can remove the sinful flesh (sinful disposition)—not man-made religion (cf. L187). Thus, the circumcision of Christ is a spiritual circumcision. Paul uses a play on words.

Notice the repetition of AND IN Him and WITH Him as well as AND He. The entire passage is saturated with Christ and later with God the Father. Therefore, Christ is all we need.

Through faith (L142) is instrumental. That is, through the instrument of faith, we are raised up with Christ. Our faith does not save us, but we lay hold of Christ by means of faith.

All our transgressions are forgiven. We don't need to obey a list of man-made rules to achieve what Christ has already achieved.

What is this certificate of debt or decrees against us? The law of God stands against us as a certificate declaring our indebtedness to God. We owe God our obedience, but we have not obeyed. Christ takes our debt and nails it to His cross (cf. Eph. 2: 14-15; Mk. 15: 26). See further exegesis of this text below.

Notice all the verbs whose action is in the past—made alive, having forgiven, having cancelled, has taken, having nailed, had disarmed, made a public display, having triumphed. Christ has already accomplished redemption.

We have not even scratched the surface of this paragraph, but at least you can see how Col. 2: 8-15 helps us understand what Paul says immediately afterwards in Col. 2: 16-17 and further (vv. 18-23). The false teachers were trying to convince the Colossians that something more was needed for salvation and sanctification. Christ was not enough. But in the preceding paragraph, Col. 2: 8-15, it is crystal clear that Christ is the “author and perfecter” of our faith (Heb. 12: 2). We are complete in Him, needing nothing more. The repetition of in Him, with Him, and through Him should be noted. To be right with God, there is nothing left for us to do except to belief by faith in what Christ has done for us. This is the burden of Paul’s message.

C. Try to determine why your text belongs precisely where it is and nowhere else (Doriani, p. 35).

1. Consider Colossians 2: 1-5, focusing on L106-117.

- (100) ¹ For I want you to know
 (101) how great a struggle I have on your behalf
 (102) and for those who are at Laodicea,
 (103) and for all those who have not personally seen my face,
 (104) ² that their hearts may be encouraged,
 (105) having been knit together in love,
 (106) and attaining to all the wealth that comes
 (107) from the full assurance of understanding,
 (108) resulting in a true knowledge of God's mystery,
 (109) that is, Christ Himself,
 (110) ³ in whom are hidden all the treasures
 (111) of wisdom and knowledge.
 (112) ⁴ I say this so that no one will delude you
 (113) with persuasive argument.
 (114) ⁵ For even though I am absent in body,
 (115) nevertheless I am with you in spirit,
 (116) rejoicing to see your good discipline
 (117) and the stability of your faith in Christ.

Since we have studied Col. 2: 8-23, it should be clear why Paul makes this statement (highlighted in bold letters) here. He is just about to explain the difference between true wisdom and knowledge—found only in Christ—and the so-called wisdom and “secret” knowledge of man-made religion promoted by the false teachers. The false teaching in Colossae—a mixture of Jewish legalism, the worship of angels, and Gnostic asceticism, etc.—was persuading some of the Colossian Christians to go astray from the simplicity of their faith in Christ. Notice v. 4, “I say this so that no one will delude you with persuasive argument. (Colossians 2:4 NASB)

What was the persuasive argument? From the literary context, we really don’t know until we come to Col. 2: 8-23 which describes several aspects of the elementary principles including dietary restrictions, the legalistic keeping of certain ceremonial days and festivals, worship of angels, visions, etc. which the false teachers were using to persuade the Colossians to join their religious club. Therefore, Col. 2: 1-5 occurs just where it does and nowhere else to introduce what Paul has to say about the Gnostic heresy which was a legalistic means of salvation.

2. We have already dealt with Col. 2: 8-15 in detail. After this section, Paul then says, “Therefore” in v. 16. Considering what Christ had accomplished without any help from the Colossian Christians, it was “therefore” foolish to submit themselves to man-made rules designed to save themselves. Thus, Col. 2: 16-17 belongs exactly where it is as the conclusion to Col. 2: 8-15.

3. From Colossians 3: 12-14, why does Paul place the attribute of love after the other attributes of compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness, patience, and forgiveness? Notice that love is last on the list, but should it not be first?

(224) 12 So, as those who have been chosen of God,
 (225) holy and beloved,
 (226) put on a heart of compassion, kindness,
 (227) humility, gentleness and patience;
 (228) ¹³ bearing with one another,
 (229) and forgiving each other,
 (230) whoever has a complaint against anyone;
 (231) just as the Lord forgave you,
 (232) so also should you.
 (233) ¹⁴ Beyond all these things
 (234) put on love, which is the perfect bond of unity.

Love

compassion kindness humility gentleness patience
 forbearance
 forgiveness

In the list of the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5: 22-23), love comes first (see also 1 Cor. 13 and Rom. 13: 8). Here Paul is saying that love is the unifying principle for all the other attributes mentioned in vv. 12-14. To put it another way, love is the glue which binds all the other graces together. Without love, we can go through the outward motions of compassion, kindness, patience, forgiveness, etc; but without genuine love they will be hypocritical.

D. Look for thematic statements that introduce or interpret an entire section (Dorani, p. 37).

A thematic statement is a statement which summarizes or describes a larger section.

1. (Colossians 2:6-7 NASB)

Therefore as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in Him, ⁷ having been firmly rooted and now being built up in Him and established in your faith, just as you were instructed, and overflowing with gratitude.”

I am suggesting the above verses as a thematic statement for Chapter 2. Why? Because in the remainder of chapter 2, Paul explains what it means to walk in Christ and to be established in your faith. To walk in Christ means that they must not be taken captive to false philosophies according to the traditions of men and not according to Christ. To walk in Christ also requires that they understand that they are complete (L34) in Christ alone and do not need to obey any man-made rules and regulations (L157-187) to make themselves complete. The body of the flesh (L138) has been removed by Christ in spiritual circumcision (L136-139). No man-made religion will be effective against fleshly indulgence (L187).

2. Colossians 3: 1-4 serves as a thematic statement for Col. 3: 5—4: 1

Therefore if you have been raised up with Christ, keep seeking the things above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. ² Set your mind on the things above, not on the things that are on earth. ³ For you have died and your life is hidden with Christ in God.

⁴ When Christ, who is our life, is revealed, then you also will be revealed with Him in glory. (Colossians 3:1-4 NASB)

Immediately after this thematic statement, and following through 4: 1, Paul gives practical instructions and commands for living the Christian life. The only way to live it is to keep our minds focused on Christ and the future grace in store for us at the consummation of His kingdom.

E. Look for repeated words or phrases (Doriani, p. 37)

We have demonstrated this principle in our analysis of Col. 2: 8-15 and 2: 9-23. The repetition of pronouns referring to Christ or God the Father is pervasive throughout the passage (in Him, with Him, He, who—pronouns referring either to Christ or God the Father. Notice also the repetition of all things and heaven and earth in Col. 1: 15-20 indicating that God has reconciled the whole created universe to Himself through Christ.

F. Locate your text in the purpose of its section and the whole book (Doriani, p. 38).

1. Consider Paul's exhortations to wives, husbands, fathers, children, and slaves in Col. 3: 18-25. Why does Paul insert these exhortations here rather than at the first of the book?

¹⁸Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is fitting in the Lord. ¹⁹Husbands, love your wives and do not be embittered against them. ²⁰Children, be obedient to your parents in all things, for this is well-pleasing to the Lord. ²¹Fathers, do not exasperate your children, so that they will not lose heart. ²²Slaves, in all things obey those who are your masters on earth, not with external service, as those who merely please men, but with sincerity of heart, fearing the Lord. ²³Whatever you do, do your work heartily, as for the Lord rather than for men, ²⁴knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance. It is the Lord Christ whom you serve. ²⁵For he who does wrong will receive the consequences of the wrong which he has done, and that without partiality. (Colossians 3:18-25 NASB)

Without the context, these commands seem like a random list of do's and don'ts. But look back at the immediate context of Col. 3: 12-17.

¹²So, as those who have been chosen of God, holy and beloved, put on a heart of compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience; ¹³bearing with one another, and forgiving each other, whoever has a complaint against anyone; just as the Lord forgave you, so also should you. ¹⁴Beyond all these things put on love, which is the perfect bond of unity. ¹⁵Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in one body; and be thankful. ¹⁶Let the word of Christ richly dwell within you, with all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God. ¹⁷Whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks through Him to God the Father. (Colossians 3:12-17 NASB)

Therefore, the commands for husbands, wives, et al, must be interpreted within the context of Col. 3: 12-17. What does a wife's submission to her husband consist of? It consists of the qualities mentioned in vv. 12-17—compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness, patience, forgiveness, and thanksgiving. What does the husband's love for his wife consist of? The same qualities. Children's obedience to parents? Same qualities. And so on. Thus, we see that the instructions to individual members of the family and to slaves is located exactly where it needs to be—following the more general character qualities which should be true of all Christians. Paul simply proceeds from the general to the specific. There are general principles of behavior which apply to everyone (vv. 12-17), but the application of these general principles are specific for each individual. In other words, the humility of a father toward his child will not be applied in the same way as the humility of the child toward his father. The father is the head of the family while the child must be in subordination to the father. Yet, both father and child are exhorted to be humble. In the same sense, a master may not think that he must be humble toward his slave, but Paul says otherwise. Humility would require that the master refrain from unjust accusations and threats (Eph. 6: 9).

3. Consider the following text from Col. 2: 13-14. Why does Paul say this here in this particular section rather than elsewhere? We have looked at this text previously, but it requires more explanation.

(144) ¹³ When you were dead

(145) in your transgressions

(146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh,

(147) He made you alive together WITH Him,

(148) having forgiven us all our transgressions,

(149) ¹⁴ having canceled out the certificate of debt

(150) consisting of decrees against us,

(151) which was hostile to us;

(152) AND He has taken it out of the way,

(153) having nailed it to the cross.

¹³ When you were dead
in your transgressions
and the uncircumcision of your flesh,
He made you alive together with Him,

a
b
b
a

Stylistic features—parallelisms and chiasms

having forgiven us all our transgressions, having canceled out the certificate of debt
consisting of decrees against us,
which was hostile to us;
and He has taken it out of the way,
having nailed it to the cross.

c
c d
d
c
c

See alternative structure in appendix.

Chiasm—“c” consists of the past tense verbs of L148-149 and L152-153 (having forgiven, having cancelled out, has taken, having nailed) coupled with transgressions, certificate of debt, it, and which—pronouns referring to the certificate of debt. The “d” part is the effect of this certificate. It was against us or hostile to us.

Whatever the certificate of debt was, it was against us and hostile to us. However, this certificate can no longer be against us because God the Father (cf. v. 2) has taken it out of the way and nailed it to the cross of Christ. This certificate, therefore, no longer has any relevance for the Christian as far as judgment and condemnation are concerned. Whatever it is, it is not hostile to us as believers. But what is it?

It is helpful at this point to refer back to our diagram on p. 35, the “ripple principle” of studying the broader context of a passage—“5. Broader context of other books, especially books written by the same author.” Or, you could say we are applying the analogy of faith. In the epistle to the Ephesians, Paul says,

For He Himself is our peace, who made both groups into one and broke down the barrier of the dividing wall, by abolishing in His flesh the enmity, which is the Law of commandments contained in ordinances, so that in Himself He might make the two into one new man, thus establishing peace, (Ephesians 2:14-15 NASB)

“Both groups” and “the two” refer to Jews and Gentiles who are reconciled to God and to one another in the gospel. The Law of commandments contained in ordinances seems to be an obvious reference to the ceremonial laws concerning foods, festivals, ritual purity, and circumcision—a dividing wall between Jews and Gentiles. This barrier is now broken down, thus enabling both Jew and Gentile to make up one new man in Christ. Gentiles no longer have to obey Jewish ceremonial laws, including circumcision, to be part of the family of God. Many commentators interpret the passage in this manner (William Hendriksen and Calvin, to name only two). The Law of commandments contained in ordinances are the ceremonial laws of Moses pertaining to food, circumcision, etc. which distinguished between Jew and Gentile.

If this interpretation is applied to transgressions, certificate of debt, and decrees in Col. 2, it would certainly fit the immediate context of 2: 16-23. In these verses, Paul tells the Colossians not to allow anyone to be their judge concerning foods, festivals, Sabbath days, or ritual customs pertaining to clean and unclean (“don’t handle...don’t touch”). If such laws have been taken away and nailed to the cross, then they can no longer be used as records of our indebtedness—a certificate of debt or judgments against our behavior.

Paul, therefore, forbids the Colossians to yield to such outmoded, obsolete requirements which have been done away in Christ. Hendriksen and Calvin also interpret Col. 2: 13-14 in the same way as Eph. 2: 15, as a reference to ceremonial laws (although, in my opinion, Hendriksen is somewhat ambiguous).

But I see problems with this interpretation. According to the structure of the passage (see above), having canceled out the certificate of debt (L149) is equivalent to (the same as) having forgiven all our transgressions (L148). Many questions arise:

- Is Paul referring only to transgressions of the ceremonial law?
- Are only these types of transgressions forgiven (L148)?
- Are they the only transgressions nailed to the cross of Christ (L153)?
- Furthermore, were the Colossians spiritually dead (L144) because they had broken ceremonial laws or because they had broken moral laws?

It is, therefore, doubtful to me that Paul (in Colossians) is limiting the meaning of certificate of debt and decrees against us to ceremonial laws. I believe that he is speaking more generally of the law of God as it was revealed to both Jews and Gentiles in different ways. To the Jews the law was formally codified in the Law of Moses that included ceremonial institutions pointing to the sacrifice of Christ. To the Gentiles, the law of God was not given in a formal document, but was revealed to the conscience (Rom. 1: 18-32—demonstrating the use of the analogy of faith). Reading the OT prophets (again, the analogy of faith), we see clearly that God did not send the nation into exile because they failed to bring their ritual sacrifices. Rather, they were exiled because of moral corruption and their failure to take care of the orphan, the widow, and the poor (cf. Isaiah 1:13-20; Jeremiah 7:21-23).

Looking at these OT texts, we get the distinct impression that God was far more concerned about the keeping of His moral law than He was with ceremonial institutions (although He was concerned with both. Remember poor Uzzah; 2 Sam. 6: 6-7). The reason for this is that the ceremonial requirements were given for the purpose of ensuring obedience to the moral code, not the other way around. In other words, the moral code did not have the purpose of ensuring obedience to ceremonial rituals. That this is so is evident in Isaiah’s criticism of the apostate nation in Isaiah 1. It is also evident in the fact that Christians must no longer keep certain ceremonial regulations about food, drink, clothing, farming, etc. which are included in the case laws; yet, our obedience to moral commands is still required.

However, without obedience to His moral law, the rote (mechanical) keeping of ceremonial laws was a sham (insincere).

I am not alone in this interpretation. Some NT scholars have come to the same conclusion (At this point, I am invoking Step 5 of Exegesis: “Read interpretations of others; e.g. commentaries”; see Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 79). Commenting on Eph. 2: 14-15, Charles Hodge makes the following observation:

The law, however, is viewed in a twofold aspect in this connection. First, it was that original covenant of works, demanding perfect obedience, whose conditions must be satisfied in order to the reconciliation of men with God. Christ by being made under the law, Gal. 4: 4, and fulfilling all righteousness, has redeemed those who were under the law. He delivered them from the obligation of fulfilling its demands as the condition of their justification before God. In this sense they are not under the law. Compare Rom. 6: 14; 7: 4, 6; Gal. 5:18; Col. 2: 14. But secondly, as Christ abolished the law as a covenant of works by fulfilling its conditions, so he abolished the Mosaic law by fulfilling all its types and shadows. He was the end of the law in both these aspects, and therefore, it ceased to bind the people of God in either of these forms. Of this doctrine the whole of the New Testament is full. The epistles especially are in large measure devoted to proving that believers are not under the law in either of these senses, but under grace. Thus it is that Christ is our peace. The abolition of the law as a covenant of works reconciles us to God; the abolition of the Mosaic law [the ceremonial element of the Mosaic Law] removes the wall between the Jews and Gentiles. This is what is here taught. By abolishing the law of commandments, i.e. the law in both its forms [moral and ceremonial], the apostle says, Christ has, first, of the twain [two] made one new man, v. 15; and secondly, he has reconciled both unto God in one body by the cross, v. 16 (Charles Hodge, Ephesians, pp. 130-131; emphasis and words in brackets mine).

The “abolishing,” therefore, of which the apostle speaks, does not consist in setting the law aside, or suspending it by a sovereign, executive act. It is a causing it to cease; or rendering it no longer binding by satisfying its demands, so that we are judicially free from it; free not by the act of a sovereign but by the sentence of a judge; not by mere pardon, but by justification....The idea probably is that the law in all its compass, and in all its forms, so far as it was a covenant prescribing the conditions of salvation, is abolished. The law of which the apostle here speaks is not exclusively the Mosaic law [i.e. the ceremonial law]...It is the law which binds the heathen and which is written on their hearts. It is the law from which the death of Christ redeems men. But redemption is not mere deliverance from Judaism [ceremonies and rituals] and therefore the law from which we are freed by the death of Christ is not merely the law of Moses [i.e. ceremonial law]. Deliverance from the Mosaic institutions could not have the effects ascribed to the freedom from the law of which Paul speaks. It could not secure reconciliation to God, justification, and holiness, all of which, according to the apostle, flow from the redemption effected by Christ. The antithetical [opposing] ideas always presented in Paul’s writings, on this subject, are the law and grace, the law and the gospel, the system which says: “Do and live,”—and the system which says: “Believe and live;”—as, however, the form in which the law was ever present to the minds of the early Christians was that contained in the Mosaic institutions; as all, who in that day were legalists, were Judaizers, and as the Mosaic economy was included in the law which Christ abolished, in many cases (as in the passage before us), special reference is had to the law in that particular form. But in teaching that men cannot be saved by obedience to the law of Moses, Paul taught that we cannot be saved by obedience to the law in any form. Or rather, by teaching that salvation is not of works of any kind, but of grace and through faith, he teaches it is not by the specific, ceremonial works enjoined in the law of Moses (Hodge, Ephesians, pp. 134-135; emphasis and words in brackets mine).

Nothing in the statement above should be interpreted to mean that the moral law of God is no longer binding on the believer. Jesus said, “If you love me, keep my commandments”, and His “commandments” included a detailed exposition of the OT law in the Sermon on the Mount (see also Matt. 5: 17-20). But what Hodge does mean is that the Christian is no longer under the law as a covenant document demanding perfect performance. This is what Paul means when he says, “For sin shall not be master over you, for you are not under law but under grace” (Romans

6:14 NASB). The law as a covenant document demanding performance has been superseded (replaced) by a new and better covenant in which the obligations have already been accomplished through the active and passive obedience of Christ (cf. Hebrews). This does not imply that we are now lawless; rather, through the atoning work of Christ the Holy Spirit is given to us as a guarantee of continuing faith which leads to an obedient life.

Commenting on Col. 2:13-14, F.F. Bruce says,

Paul insisted that Jews, who had received the divine law by revelation, and pagans, who had not received it—not in the same form, at least—were alike morally bankrupt before God and equally in need of his pardoning grace. Jews had disobeyed his will in the form in which they knew it (the law); pagans had disobeyed it in the form in which they knew it (the inner voice of conscience). . . . The sins which have now been forgiven represented, so to speak, a mountain of bankruptcy which those who had incurred it were bound to acknowledge but could never have any hope of discharging. They had violated the ordinances of the law, and nothing that they might do could afford redress. But Christ wiped the slate clean and gave them a fresh start. He took that signed acknowledgement of indebtedness which stood as a perpetual witness against them and cancelled it by his death. It might even be said that he took the document, ordinances and all, and nailed it to his cross as an act of triumphant defiance in the face of those blackmailing powers that were holding it over men and women in order to command their allegiance.

There is perhaps an allusion here to the fact that our Lord's own accusation was fixed to his cross. Jesus nails the accusation against his people to the cross, just as his own accusation had been nailed there (Colossians, pp. 109-110; emphasis mine).

When we consider the barrier between Jew and Gentile, far more was involved than the Jewish ritual requirements of sacrifice and circumcision. The Jews hated the Gentiles (calling them “dogs”), and the Gentiles hated the Jews. It is quite possible that some of this hatred was rooted in the ceremonial requirements distinguishing Jews from Gentiles. These laws should have humbled the Jews, but had, instead, made them proud and arrogant (the “frozen chosen” syndrome). Jewish-Gentile relations were not improved by the fact that Jews would not even come under the roof of an uncircumcised Gentile (Acts 10: 28—not found in OT law) or that Gentiles could be put to death for entering into the Jewish courts of the temple (cf. F.F. Bruce, Acts, pp. 433-434).

Nevertheless, racial hatred was the outgrowth of the more radical hatred of man for man; and more fundamentally, man's hatred for God. Far more would be required to reconcile Jews and Gentiles than the mere removal of ritual requirements. You cannot make friends out of bitter enemies that easily! Too much water had gone under the bridge (too much bad history) for attitudes to change overnight. A radical change of heart would have to take place, a change of heart which could only be effected through the removal of enmity between God and man. And this could only happen if the debt of man's sin was nailed to the cross of Christ. By removing the certificate of debt which kept man at a distance, God reconciled men to Himself. But when this happened, He also reconciled men to other men. Men hate other men primarily because they hate God first, but when the love of God fills their hearts, they are rendered capable of loving other men as themselves.

We must now return to the interpretive principle: Locate your text in the purpose of its section and the whole book.

We may have trouble seeing how Col. 2: 13-14 relates to the exhortations in 2: 16-23. The connection, I believe, is this: Christ unites men together by removing rules, regulations, and their violations and by substituting His righteousness in their place. The apostate teachers, on the other hand, divide men by imposing new rules, regulations and violations. They become judges (L158) who add multiple regulations concerning what others can eat and drink, what clothes to wear (other than considerations of decency), rules concerning the observance of the Sabbath day, etc. Such added restrictions were sure to bring unnecessary controversy and a “clubbish” mentality to the church—“us” versus “them”.

To be sure, some of these regulations, not all, had been given to the Israelites in the Mosaic economy but only to prevent the nation from being absorbed into Canaanite idolatry. But now that Christ has come with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, such regulations were passé (out of date and no longer relevant) and would have the effect of moving the church backwards rather than forwards—backwards into the outmoded Mosaic system characterized by early childhood (cf. Gal. 4). For Paul this was “déjà vu”—“I’ve been here before.” When confronting the Galatian heresy earlier, he had to deal with the same kind of Jewish legalism within the church. (Again, using the analogy of faith or 5. of the “ripple principle”.)

⁹But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how is it that you turn back again to the weak and worthless elemental things, to which you desire to be enslaved all over again?¹⁰

You observe days and months and seasons and years.¹¹ I fear for you, that perhaps I have labored over you in vain. (Galatians 4:9-11 NASB)

Here they are again, those elementary principles Paul talks about in Col. 2: 8 and 20 which have “no value against fleshly indulgence” (v. 23). Once we begin focusing on such elementary principles fit only for the immaturity of children, we will begin swallowing all sorts of camels while straining gnats (Matt. 23: 24). Or, to use another Biblical analogy, we will be taking the splinter out of our brother’s eye while missing the log in our own. Basically what Paul is talking about is the imposition of man-made rules which limit legitimate Christian freedom. And whenever man-made rules are instituted, there are always those who are the “rule-makers” who wish to subject everyone else to their rules. Rather than esteeming the contributions of other believers (L171-172), such a person exalts himself by “delighting in self-abasement...inflated without cause by his fleshly mind (L165, 168).

Many reformed scholars have not included the weekly Sabbath as falling under Paul’s examination in Col. 2, but we may ask: By what exegetical necessity is it excluded? F.F. Bruce maintains that the “onus probandi” (the burden of proof) falls upon those who wish to exclude the weekly Sabbath from Paul’s statement (Colossians, p. 115, footnote). This does not imply that we are no longer obligated to attend weekly worship (cf. Heb. 10: 24-25), nor that we are no longer obligated to keep God’s moral law. What it does mean is that no one can make up a list of Sabbath rules for us which cannot be substantiated (proved) from Scripture.

IV. Meaning Structure (cf. Wolvaardt, How to Interpret the Bible, p. 113)

A. Meaning Blocks

After we determine the meaning of words and phrases (Step 3.3 of Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 79) we must determine the meaning structure. Meaning blocks are “the main elements that function together to give the meaning of a paragraph.” They “form a network of relationships with each other” so that “the meaning of a paragraph is more than just the sum total of the individual blocks of meaning.” We should look for related ideas that form a basic unit of thought. These units (or meaning blocks), in turn, make up a larger unit of thought called a paragraph. Doriani identifies a paragraph, not a meaning block, as the basic unit of discourse analysis (Getting the Message, p. 82).

Wolvaardt (pp. 113-114, HTIB) gives three purposes for marking significant meaning indicators:

- (1) to identify the related meanings
- (2) to discover stylistic features
- (3) to establish the main syntactic relationships.

Colossians 1: 3-8 is a paragraph consisting of five meaning blocks (see p. 116 of Wolvaardt, HTIB, who uses the NIV. The verses below are NASB). Notice that some Bible translations highlight the beginning of paragraphs in bold numbers. Notice the bold “3” below.

- (7) 3 We give thanks to God,
 (8) the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,
 (9) praying always for you,
 (10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard
 (11) of your faith in Christ Jesus
 (12) and the love which you have for all the saints;
 (13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,
 (14) of which you previously heard
 (15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,
 (16) just as in all the world also
 (17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,
 (18) even as it has been doing in you also
 (19) since the day you heard of it
 (20) and understood the grace of God in truth;
 (21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Epaphras,
 (22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,
 (23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,
 (24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.

A
B
C
B
A

Meaning blocks which make up a paragraph. Notice that they are in the form of a chiasm. I have used capital letters to indicate meaning blocks rather than lines or words.

The interpreter should seek to summarize each meaning block in his own words. The purpose of doing this is to determine the main idea of the meaning block and the paragraph.

Examine the possible meaning blocks below from Colossians 2: 1-23. The highlighted words are clues to determining the meaning blocks.

(Letters do not denote stylistic features.)

- (100) ¹ For I want you to know
 (101) how great a struggle I have on your behalf
 (102) and for those who are at Laodicea,
 (103) and for all those who have not personally seen my face,

A

The basic idea in this meaning block is that Paul is struggling on behalf of others and wants them to know his concern for them. For I want you to know is a transitional statement marking the meaning block.

- (104) ² that their hearts may be encouraged,
 (105) having been knit together in love,
 (106) and attaining to all the wealth that comes
 (107) from the full assurance of understanding,
 (108) resulting in a true knowledge of God's mystery,
 (109) that is, Christ Himself,
 (110) ³ in whom are hidden all the treasures
 (111) of wisdom and knowledge.

B

In this meaning block, Paul reveals the purpose of his struggle—that they may be encouraged by a full understanding of who Christ is and what He has done. All knowledge and wisdom is in Christ. (Similar idea to L106-108.) That marks a purpose statement. It is an abbreviation for in order that.

- (112) ⁴ I say this so that no one will delude you
 (113) with persuasive argument.
 (114) ⁵ For even though I am absent in body,
 (115) nevertheless I am with you in spirit,
 (116) rejoicing to see your good discipline
 (117) and the stability of your faith in Christ.

C

This is an introductory statement for the rest of the chapter and it has a similar idea to L100-103 expressing Paul's concern. Paul does not want the Colossians to be deceived. Although physically absent, he is present with them in spirit. I say this so that is also a transitional statement which serves to mark another meaning block

(118) 6 Therefore

- (119) as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord,
 (120) so walk in Him,
 (121) ⁷ having been firmly rooted
 (122) and now being built up in Him
 (123) and established in your faith,
 (124) just as you were instructed,
 (125) and overflowing with gratitude.

D

Although this is a complete paragraph, I see it as only one meaning block. The main idea is that the Colossians must continue living out the same faith they had received through the apostolic tradition—just as you were instructed.

Therefore is a reason indicator marking another meaning block.

- (126) 8 See to it that no one takes you captive
 (127) through philosophy and empty deception,
 (128) according to the tradition of men,
 (129) according to the elementary principles of the world,
 (130) rather than according to Christ.

E

If they are living out their faith in Christ, they should not stray away from Christ by following the traditions of men contrary to the apostolic traditions.

See to it is an imperative marking off another meaning block.

- (131) ⁹ For in Him
 (132) all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form,

F

Christ is God in human flesh.

For is a reason indicator giving the reason for not accepting any other way of salvation mentioned in L126-130.

- (133) ¹⁰ and in Him
 (134) you have been made complete,

G

You are complete in Christ. And indicates addition (p. 83). Note the additions in L131-136.

- (135) and He is the head over all rule and authority;

H

Christ is head over angelic powers

- (136) ¹¹ and in Him you were also circumcised
 (137) with a circumcision made without hands,
 (138) in the removal of the body of the flesh
 (139) by the circumcision of Christ;

I

Christ has done away with your sinful nature through His death.

The and in Him and circumcision mark another clue for a meaning block.

- (140) ¹² having been buried with Him in baptism,
 (141) in which you were also raised up with Him
 (142) through faith in the working of God,
 (143) who raised Him from the dead.

J

Through faith you have died with Christ and have been resurrected with Him—represented in your baptism.

Buried...in baptism, raised and with Him are more clues for a different

- (144) ¹³ When you were dead
 (145) in your transgressions
 (146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh,
 (147) He made you alive together with Him,

K

When you were spiritually dead, God made you spiritually alive together with Christ.

When is another clue to a meaning block along with the words dead and made alive which are new ideas in Paul's argument.

- (148) having forgiven us all our transgressions,
 (149) ¹⁴ having canceled out the certificate of debt
 (150) consisting of decrees against us,
 (151) which was hostile to us;
 (152) and He has taken it out of the way,
 (153) having nailed it to the cross.

L

God has forgiven all our sins. He has taken the law as a document declaring our guilt and debt and nailed it to the cross of Christ. The law condemning us has been taken out of the way.

Having forgiven is a new concept or idea forming another clue to a different meaning block.

- (154) ¹⁵ When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities,
 (155) He made a public display of them,
 (156) having triumphed over them through Him.

M

Through Christ God has rendered powerless all the angelic forces hostile to His people. When is another clue word for a different meaning block along with the new idea of disarming rulers.

- (157) 16 Therefore
 (158) no one is to act as your judge
 (159) in regard to food or drink
 (160) or in respect to a festival or a new moon
 (161) or a Sabbath day—
 (162) ¹⁷ things which are a mere shadow of what is to come;
 (163) But the substance belongs to Christ.

N

Because of what God has done through Christ, do not allow anyone to judge you concerning ceremonies, food laws, or special “holy” days. Such things are mere shadows or copies of what would come later.

Therefore and the imperative verb are clues.

Food laws, ceremonies, and special days only pointed to Christ, but Christ is the completion or fulfillment of such things. But is a subtraction word (cf. p. 83).

- (164) ¹⁸ Let no one keep defrauding you of your prize
 (165) by delighting in self-abasement
 (166) and the worship of the angels,
 (167) taking his stand on visions he has seen,
 (168) inflated without cause by his fleshly mind,

O

Let no one take away your freedom in Christ with false humility, “super” spirituality, and visions he has seen. Such a person is not focusing on Christ but only on himself. The imperative verb, let no one keep defrauding, marks the meaning block.

- (169) ¹⁹ and not holding fast to the head,
 (170) from whom the entire body,
 (171) being supplied and held together
 (172) by the joints and ligaments,
 (173) grows with a growth which is from God.

P

As head, Christ controls the rest of the body, the church, whose members are bound together and grow together like a human body, a growth which comes from God. L169 is a new idea or concept in contrast with L164-168, marking a new block.

- (174) 20 If you have died with Christ
 (175) to the elementary principles of the world,
 (176) why, as if you were living in the world,
 (177) do you submit yourself to decrees, such as,
 (178) ²¹ “Do not handle, do not taste, do not touch!”
 (179) ²² (which all refer to things destined to perish with use)—
 (180) in accordance (181) with the commandments and teachings of men?

Q

Your death with Christ means that you no longer belong to the world. Submission to man-made rules and regulations for earning salvation is unnecessary.

If...then statement marks a new meaning block.

B. Analyzing Paragraphs (see Doriani, Getting the Message, p. 82)

Below, I have dealt with the passage in the form of paragraphs, not meaning blocks. Doriani says, “To capture the message of the Bible, we need to study paragraphs more than single words or even sentences. That is, discourse analysis works on paragraphs, whole chapters, and even larger segments of books, as well as sentences” (p. 82). He also says, “For the beginner, discourse analysis is most fruitful in the study of paragraphs” but goes on to say, “Still, there are times when authors, like travelers preparing for a long trip, pack meaning in tightly enough to reward more intensive study” (pp. 83-84). Thus, the intensive study may take the form of marking meaning indicators and distinguishing meaning blocks. Here, I have taken all the information we have gathered from marking indicators, noting connecting words, verbs, and parallel thoughts, and summarized the message of each paragraph in Colossians 2.

Step 3.5—Conclude and summarize the message to the original receiver.

(100) ¹ For I want you to know
 (101) how great a struggle I have on your behalf
 (102) and for those who are at Laodicea,
 (103) and for all those who have not personally seen my face,
 (104) ² that their hearts may be encouraged,
 (105) having been knit together in love,
 (106) and attaining to all the wealth that comes
 (107) from the full assurance of understanding,
 (108) resulting in a true knowledge of God's mystery,
 (109) that is, Christ Himself,
 (110) ³ in whom are hidden all the treasures
 (111) of wisdom and knowledge.
 (112) ⁴ I say this so that no one will delude you
 (113) with persuasive argument.
 (114) ⁵ For even though I am absent in body,
 (115) nevertheless I am with you in spirit,
 (116) rejoicing to see your good discipline
 (117) and the stability of your faith in Christ.

Paul wants the Colossians to know that he is very concerned about them as well as other believers in Laodicea, including those he has never met. In light of the discouraging message of the false teachers who were adding conditions to the gospel, he wants them to be encouraged with the truth that Christ has done everything necessary to make their salvation certain. Nothing is lacking, for all the knowledge and wisdom of God is found in Christ. There is no secret knowledge which needs to be discovered that has not already been revealed in the gospel, and no one should convince them otherwise. Even though Paul is not present with them, this does not mean that he is not thinking about them and praying for them. He is with them in spirit and rejoices to hear about their firmness of faith and the Christian discipline which characterizes the church at Colossae.

(118) 6 Therefore
 (119) as you have received Christ Jesus the Lord,
 (120) so walk in Him,
 (121) ⁷ having been firmly rooted
 (122) and now being built up in Him
 (123) and established in your faith,
 (124) just as you were instructed,
 (125) and overflowing with gratitude.

Paul reminds them of how they had believed in Christ in the past—convinced that He was all-sufficient for their salvation. They had been firmly grounded in the apostolic traditions learned from Epaphras and should continue allowing these traditions to guide them in their practical daily living and Christian growth. Furthermore, they should continue being grateful for the truth they had received.

(126) 8 See to it that no one takes you captive
 (127) through philosophy and empty deception,
 (128) according to the tradition of men,
 (129) according to the elementary principles of the world,
 (130) rather than according to Christ.
 (131) ⁹ For in Him
 (132) all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form,
 (133) ¹⁰ and in Him
 (134) you have been made complete,
 (135) and He is the head over all rule and authority;
 (136) ¹¹ and in Him you were also circumcised
 (137) with a circumcision made without hands,
 (138) in the removal of the body of the flesh
 (139) by the circumcision of Christ;
 (140) ¹² having been buried with Him in baptism,
 (141) in which you were also raised up with Him
 (142) through faith in the working of God,
 (143) who raised Him from the dead.

No one should be allowed to carry them away in a tradition contrary to the apostolic tradition they had received. Any other tradition is the tradition of men characterized by elementary requirements by which men are deceived into believing that they can earn their salvation through works and rule-keeping. On the contrary, they have been made complete in Christ who is the being of God Himself. He rules over the angelic world; therefore, they don't need to worship angels. By His divine power—and without any help from humans—they have been made into new people (regeneration), the spiritual reality symbolized in circumcision. Therefore, they do not need Jewish circumcision which is now only an outdated ritual replaced by baptism. They have died with Him and have been raised with Him through the instrument of their faith produced by God's power. Their identification with Christ in His crucifixion and resurrection has been symbolized in their water baptism.

(144) ¹³ When you were dead
 (145) in your transgressions
 (146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh,
 (147) He made you alive together with Him,
 (148) having forgiven us all our transgressions,
 (149) ¹⁴ having canceled out the certificate of debt
 (150) consisting of decrees against us,
 (151) which was hostile to us;
 (152) and He has taken it out of the way,
 (153) having nailed it to the cross.
 (154) ¹⁵ When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities,
 (155) He made a public display of them,
 (156) having triumphed over them through Him.

At one time, the Colossians were spiritually dead. They were dead not only in their way of life (transgressions) but also by nature or disposition—the uncircumcision of your flesh. But God made them spiritually alive through Christ. The way God made them alive is by forgiving them their sins and cancelling all sinful debts against His law—the moral law of God revealed to them in their conscience.

This debt, consisting of obligations to keep His law (decrees), has been removed by nailing it to the cross of Christ. This means that Christ has paid the debt which they owed to God. At the same time Christ removed their debt through His death, He also rendered all hostile demonic forces incapable of separating them from the love of Christ (cf. Rom. 8: 38-39—the analogy of faith). Having bound the demonic forces in chains, He drove them through the streets before His victorious chariot in royal procession (2 Cor. 2: 14).

- (157) 16 Therefore
 (158) no one is to act as your judge
 (159) in regard to food or drink
 (160) or in respect to a festival or a new moon
 (161) or a Sabbath day—
 (162) ¹⁷ things which are a mere shadow of what is to come;
 (163) but the substance belongs to Christ.
 (164) ¹⁸ Let no one keep defrauding you of your prize
 (165) by delighting in self-abasement
 (166) and the worship of the angels,
 (167) taking his stand on visions he has seen,
 (168) inflated without cause by his fleshly mind,
 (169) ¹⁹ and not holding fast to the head,
 (170) from whom the entire body,
 (171) being supplied and held together
 (172) by the joints and ligaments,
 (173) grows with a growth which is from God.

Because Christ has accomplished everything necessary for their salvation, the Colossians must not allow themselves to be regulated by rules and regulations which only fore-shadowed the person and work of Christ. All of these things are only pictures of Christ but not the person Himself. Furthermore, they should not be led astray by people with false humility who worship angels as mediators between God and man. Such people believe that man is too sinful to approach God and needs angelic mediators (Hendriksen, pp. 125-126). But if we have Christ, no other mediator is needed. He is the true prize who brings liberty and salvation from sin. (Or, Paul could be saying that our salvation and liberty is the prize.) The Colossians also must not be carried away by people who claim to have special insight through what they have seen (visions).

Note: the words not seen occur in the KJV and NKJV (2: 18), but this is not based on the best manuscript evidence. Paul is not admitting that these teachers actually enjoyed visions, but that even if they did, the visions were unnecessary since Christ has come. By claiming visions, the false teachers have become puffed up with pride—a contradiction to their pretended humility. Rather they must hold fast to Christ as the head of the body, the church. Just as the head controls the functions of the body, Christ causes the growth of the church which consists of every member—joints and ligaments—helping every other member (cf. Eph. 4: 15-16; explained with more detail in 1 Cor. 12). (Here Paul uses a figure of speech, a synecdoche or “part for the whole”. Joints and ligaments represent all the members of the body which are fitted together into a meaningful whole. The church is not a pile of parts lying all over the place with no meaningful connection with one another. Furthermore, they cannot function independently of one another but depend on one another for their proper functioning.

- (174) 20 If you have died with Christ
 (175) to the elementary principles of the world,
 (176) why, as if you were living in the world,
 (177) do you submit yourself to decrees, such as,
 (178) ²¹ "Do not handle, do not taste, do not touch!"
 (179) ²² (which all refer to things destined to perish with use)—
 (180) in accordance
 (181) with the commandments and teachings of men?
 (182) ²³ These are matters which have, to be sure,
 (183) the appearance of wisdom
 (184) in self-made religion
 (185) and self-abasement
 (186) and severe treatment of the body,
 (187) but are of no value against fleshly indulgence.

If the Colossians have died with Christ to any human means of earning salvation, why do they place themselves under man-made regulations? All such regulations appear very pious and religious, but they do not help anyone avoid sinful practices. As if you were living in the world is confusing. Are not the Colossians still living in the world? The NIV rendering is helpful—“as though you still belonged to it”. Although still living in the world, Christians no longer belong to this world with its regulations governing one’s relationship to God. They belong to Christ and live spiritually with Him in a different realm.

C. Developing a sermon or Bible study from Colossians 2: 1-23

Obviously, it would be easier to develop a sermon from Colossians 3 than from Colossians 2. Colossians 3 contains many practical exhortations which are so important for Christian living. But without the Christology of Chapter 2, the exhortations of Chapter 3 are impossible. Why? Practical holiness stands or falls upon solid theology, including the doctrine of Christ. The Colossian heretics insisted on holiness based on external rules and rituals—the same mistake made by the Pharisees who opposed Christ. As long as people did the right things, they would be complete and holy. Paul insists, however, that holiness must be grounded in right thinking about the person and work of Christ. People are helpless to change their sinful nature through activity. Christ must do that for them through spiritual circumcision (regeneration). From that point they must continue trusting in His power to remake them into His image consisting of true knowledge (L108)—knowledge of who Christ is and knowledge of His preceptive (moral) will.

To develop a sermon or Bible study, we must first understand the main idea of the text. Below, I have proposed the main idea of Colossians 2 as well as the main points of the sermon. I have not written out the sermon or given a detailed outline, but only a few points to let you know where I would go with it. This is not the ideal outline. The chapter could be outlined a dozen different ways and ten thousand different sermons preached from it. You see something different every time you look at a passage.

Main idea: Unless we understand who Christ is and what He has done for us, we cannot effectively live a holy life.

This main idea leads to the question: Why? Why can't I live a holy life without understanding the doctrine of Christ? The divisions of the sermon may now come from the three or four answers I give to this question.

I. Because only in Christ is the fullness of the wisdom and knowledge of God (2: 1-5).

Paul knew about the false teachers who were trying to persuade the Colossians that they alone possessed the true secret—the “mystery”—of the Christian life. Paul alludes to this false teaching in vv. 2-3 calling Christ Himself the mystery, “in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.” It is because the Colossians did not understand the sufficiency of Christ that they could be persuaded that something else was necessary to make them complete. This something else was the Colossian heresy. Therefore, Paul begins at the beginning, a deficient understanding of Christ.

Paul makes this specific statement in vv. 2-3 to introduce the remainder of the chapter. “I say this so that no one will delude you with persuasive argument.” The persuasive argument consists of the additional something else that the Colossians must do to be full and complete Christians.

But how would Paul’s statement apply to a modern congregation in Uganda? In any sermon, we must take our audience forward from the original communication situation to the present day. Colossians was written about AD 60, but what did the Colossians have in common to our present situation in Uganda in 2011? (see p. 2:7 of Equipping to Serve). The question we must ask is: Is there false teaching in Uganda which encourages people to look for something in addition to Christ as a means of salvation or as a means to a super-spiritual Christian experience? Another question is: Is this additional something keeping people from realizing the truth that both salvation and holiness are found in Christ alone?

Once we ask this question, we can think of several strands of false teaching which are getting in the way of the truth—the prosperity gospel of health and wealth, rules and regulations about drinking (“You cannot drink alcohol and be a true Christian.”), regulations about one’s private devotional life (how long should we pray, read the Bible, how many times must we share our faith per month, etc.). People can think of endless rules and regulations which are designed to govern the “truly spiritual” Christian life. Believers who are not performing up to these standards are regarded by the “elite” Christians as substandard—and possibly not saved at all. Speaking in tongues may be added to the list of things we must do to have a genuine Christian experience, and many true believers have doubted their salvation because they have never experienced this gift. Why? Because they have been told by other believers that unless they speak in tongues, they have no evidence of the Holy Spirit.

Therefore, the first thing we must do is to understand the bridge between the world of Paul in the first century and our world today in Uganda. Since the Bible is the word of God and is always relevant to the human situation, we will always find some similarities.

Thus, my first point is: The doctrine of Christ is important because only in Christ do we find the true knowledge and wisdom of God. Therefore, if we miss Christ, we have missed everything necessary for salvation and sanctification. Furthermore, in Christ there is nothing lacking of the true knowledge and wisdom of God. He is the fullness of God (cf. 1: 15-20). He is fulfillment of all the covenants of the OT ensuring salvation for God's people. He is the fullness of all the promises made in the OT. We can never go beyond the person and work of Christ in our understanding of the Christian faith. We can only go deeper into the person and work of Christ. The more we understand Him, the more we will grow in our faith and the more holy we will become. But once we believe that there is more to living the Christian life than we can observe in Christ, in His incarnate ministry on earth, and in the apostolic tradition of Christ in the epistles, we have quenched the Holy Spirit—the Spirit of Christ (Rom. 8: 9)—and we are left helplessly dependent upon human effort alone.

II. Because the Christian faith must be lived in the same way it was received—by faith alone in Christ alone (2: 6-7).

In these verses, Paul brings the Colossians back to the initial point of conversion. He reminds them that they experienced a change of heart on the basis of faith in Christ alone and not on the basis of any additional rules and regulations given to them. By referring to another book written by Paul, we learn that he does the same thing with the Galatians who were being persuaded by Judaizers that circumcision was essential to salvation.

¹You foolish Galatians, who has bewitched you, before whose eyes Jesus Christ was publicly portrayed as crucified? ²This is the only thing I want to find out from you: did you receive the Spirit by the works of the Law, or by hearing with faith? ³Are you so foolish? Having begun by the Spirit, are you now being perfected by the flesh? ⁴Did you suffer so many things in vain—if indeed it was in vain? ⁵So then, does He who provides you with the Spirit and works miracles among you, do it by the works of the Law, or by hearing with faith? (Galatians 3:1-5 NASB)

This is essentially the same argument Paul is now making in Colossians. They had received Christ by faith without additional requirements. Beyond any doubt, they had also received the Holy Spirit at the same time without performing any additional requirements. The presence of the Holy Spirit was evidence that they had truly received Christ. The phrase, just as you were instructed indicates that they had been taught according to the apostolic tradition—a tradition which said that salvation is by faith alone in Christ alone.

Furthermore, it is clear from the exhortation in 2:6, walk, that by receiving Christ through faith, they were now able to live out the Christian life by that same faith. Receiving Christ by faith without works implies the ability to live by a faith that works—that is, a faith that produces good works. Living the Christian life is dependent upon faith, not raw effort which always falls short. It is a supernatural life led and empowered by the Spirit; and left to our own efforts, we cannot produce the obedience God requires.

Paul assumes, of course, that the Colossians had genuinely received Christ. He is assured of this by the fact that he had heard about their love for one another from the report of Ephaphras (1: 4-7; context). The modern preacher, on the other hand, may not be as convinced of the salvation of his hearers as Paul was the Colossians. In that case, he must emphasize the fact that Paul was convinced of their faith by their good deeds toward others, not by religious rituals. The most convincing sign of true faith is the fruit of love for one's fellow man, particularly his fellow brother in Christ. If the pastor sees this kind of love being given to fellow believers, he should also make note of it when preaching this sermon.

Let us not lose heart in doing good, for in due time we will reap if we do not grow weary.¹⁰ So then, while we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, and especially to those who are of the household of the faith. (Galatians 6:9-10 NASB) and let us consider how to stimulate one another to love and good deeds, (Hebrews 10:24 NASB)

Keep your behavior excellent among the Gentiles, so that in the thing in which they slander you as evildoers, they may because of your good deeds, as they observe them, glorify God in the day of visitation. (1 Peter 2:12 NASB)

They profess to know God, but by their deeds they deny Him, being detestable and disobedient and worthless for any good deed. (Titus 1:16 NASB)

in all things show yourself to be an example of good deeds, with purity in doctrine, dignified, (Titus 2:7 NASB)

Our people must also learn to engage in good deeds to meet pressing needs, so that they will not be unfruitful. (Titus 3:14 NASB)

This is a trustworthy statement; and concerning these things I want you to speak confidently, so that those who have believed God will be careful to engage in good deeds. These things are good and profitable for men. (Titus 3:8 NASB)

We give thanks to God always for all of you, making mention of you in our prayers;³ constantly bearing in mind your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ in the presence of our God and Father,⁴ knowing, brethren beloved by God, His choice of you;⁵ for our gospel did not come to you in word only, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and with full conviction; just as you know what kind of men we proved to be among you for your sake.⁶ You also became imitators of us and of the Lord, having received the word in much tribulation with the joy of the Holy Spirit,⁷ so that you became an example to all the believers in Macedonia and in Achaia.⁸ For the word of the Lord has sounded forth from you, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith toward God has gone forth, so that we have no need to say anything.⁹ For they themselves report about us what kind of a reception we had with you, and how you turned to God from idols to serve a living and true God, (1 Thessalonians 1: 2-9 NASB)

Who among you is wise and understanding? Let him show by his good behavior his deeds in the gentleness of wisdom. (James 3:13 NAU)

Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans and widows in their distress and to keep oneself from being polluted by the world. (James 1:27 NIV)

III. Because all other religious traditions—the traditions of men—falsely assume man's ability to save himself (2: 8-15).

No matter what other religious tradition we are talking about, they are all based on salvation by works. This is true even of Judaism which should have recognized salvation by faith in a sacrificial substitute through the Levitical system, but turned the sacrificial system into salvation by works. Islam is also salvation by works, as is Buddhism and Hinduism. The reason that all other religious systems are based on works is the assumption that man is capable of performing good works. They fail to recognize that man is dead in sin and incapable of such meritorious works. What is actually needed is not man's improvement, but a radical remaking of man, a rebirth through regeneration by the circumcision of Christ. It is clear from v. 13 that the uncircumcision of your flesh was the state of being spiritually dead. God had to make us alive with Christ through spiritual circumcision by which He removed the body of the flesh, also called the old man or the old self. In essence, we had to die and be made into a completely new person through rebirth. This was an operation which we could not do for ourselves, even as the Hebrew could not circumcise his heart (or as the 8 day old Hebrew baby boy could not circumcise the flesh from his male sex organ). We were all helpless to make ourselves into new people. God alone must do this for us.

Many people today do not seem to understand the obvious fact that if salvation was achievable through human merit, it was therefore not necessary for Christ to die. God Himself offered salvation to anyone who would keep His law, "Do this and you will live." (Lev. 18: 5), a promise of life repeated by the Lord Jesus in His earthly ministry (Lk. 10: 28; Matt. 19: 17). But the promise of life through a system of merits was never given with any expectations of anyone being successful. Even the good law-keeper, Paul, when he finally understood the radical internal demands of the law, finally had to admit, "For through the Law I died to the Law, so that I might live to God" (Galatians 2:19 NASB). Through the radical demands of the law which said, "Do not covet," he came to understand that the whole law must be kept internally as well as externally. He then knew that he, too, was a law-breaker worthy of death (Rom. 7: 9-10).

Unless we understand man's inability to save himself, we also cannot understand why Christ's atoning work was necessary. Since man could not keep the law, God had to move the law out of the way, nailing it to a cross. This was a strange turn of events. The law of God stood as a legal document declaring our indebtedness to God. But instead of removing sinful man out of the way by condemning all humanity to hell, God removed His own legal code out of the way. He had to do so; otherwise, the law would have continued to be a barrier between God and man. But how did God remove it? Not by ignoring it, but by demanding the full requirements of the law to be fulfilled in the crucifixion of Christ—by nailing it to the cross of Christ. By fully keeping the law, Christ fulfilled all of its active requirements. He did everything the law required Him to do. But by dying on the cross, Christ also fulfilled the law's passive requirements—death to the sinner who fails to keep the law. Through His passive obedience unto death, Christ fulfilled the law's demand for punishment. Having punished the sins of His people through Christ, the law as a legal document of indebtedness has been made null and void. The paid debt does not have to be paid again. Through perfect obedience, Christ has earned the salvation promised in the law and vicariously transferred His earned obedience to our account.

IV. Because all human religious traditions substitute ritual for righteousness (2: 16-23).

Muslims believe they can be right with God by praying toward the Mecca five times a day, but many of them treat their wives like second class slaves. Under Muslim law they can beat them, even kill them if necessary. Their religious ritual is of no value against the fleshly indulgence of thinking women exist only to satisfy male desires. Many Roman Catholics go to mass thinking that something magical will happen when they partake of the elements of bread and wine. They go to confession thinking the priest can absolve them of their sins (pronounce them free from guilt). Many professing Christians from all denominations think church attendance is the means of receiving God's blessings, but their faith seems to have little to do with their daily affairs in business and the marketplace, honesty toward others, the way they spend money, etc. Man-made religion is always a means of manipulating God to get what we want rather than submitting the whole life to God's will. He becomes a man-made God who can be appeased or bought-off with token sacrifices. Isaiah's warning 2,750 years ago is as relevant today as the day he spoke it,

¹⁰"Hear the word of the LORD, you rulers of Sodom; listen to the law of our God, you people of Gomorrah! ¹¹"The multitude of your sacrifices—what are they to me?" says the LORD. "I have more than enough of burnt offerings, of rams and the fat of fattened animals; I have no pleasure in the blood of bulls and lambs and goats.¹² When you come to appear before me, who has asked this of you, this trampling of my courts?¹³ Stop bringing meaningless offerings! Your incense is detestable to me. New Moons, Sabbaths and convocations—I cannot bear your evil assemblies.¹⁴ Your New Moon festivals and your appointed feasts my soul hates. They have become a burden to me; I am weary of bearing them.¹⁵ When you spread out your hands in prayer, I will hide my eyes from you; even if you offer many prayers, I will not listen. Your hands are full of blood;¹⁶ wash and make yourselves clean. Take your evil deeds out of my sight! Stop doing wrong,¹⁷ learn to do right! Seek justice, encourage the oppressed. Defend the cause of the fatherless, plead the case of the widow. (Isaiah 1:10-17 NIV)

From this example, you can see that one sermon can be preached from an entire chapter consisting of five paragraphs and many more meaning blocks. This does not mean you cannot preach on single verses or single meaning blocks; however, the full thrust of Paul's message is more readily captured when the a broader text is used. On the other hand, many sermons can be preached from this same outline by breaking the main headings into smaller sermons.

V. The Exegesis of Colossians 3: 1-11

A. Meaning Indicators and Structure for Col. 3: 1-4

(188) 1 Therefore

Therefore points forwards to L189. But it also has reference to L147 "He made you alive together with Him". In light of our resurrection with Christ, we must do something—keep seeking the things above.

(189) if you have been raised up with Christ,

(190) [then—implied] KEEP SEEKING the things above, [a]

Notice the "if...then" statement of v. 1. This is a conditional statement (see I. C. 2. d. of your outline)

(191) where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. [b]

(192) ² SET YOUR MIND ON the things above,

[a]

(193) not on the things that are on earth.

[b]

The imperative verbs, keep seeking, set your mind on are based on the indicative verbs, have been raised and have died. The indicatives state a fact. Based on the fact that the Colossians have died and have been raised, they must—and can—keep their minds preoccupied with Christ.

The parallelism abab is based on the two imperative verbs keep seeking and set your mind on as well as the sphere—things above, the right hand of God, not...on earth. L191 and L193 are parallel to one another in terms of location—the right hand of God and not...on earth. The NIV reads, set your hearts on things above. This captures the thought, but misses the connection with Matt. 6: 33 which uses the same present active imperative verb, seek.

³ For YOU have died

[a]

and YOUR LIFE

[b]

is hidden

[c]

with Christ in God.

[d]

This text indicates the identification of the believer with Christ. This is why I have marked the YOU and CHRIST the same—Christ, who is our life. (Note the you also). Since we have died to our old self, the only life we now possess is the life of Christ in us (cf. Gal. 2: 20—"I have been crucified with Christ and I no longer live, but Christ lives in me. The life I live in the body, I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me" NIV). As Christ died for us vicariously (as a substitute), we thus live for Him vicariously. That is, our lives are an extension of the life of Christ, a continuation of His incarnate (in the flesh) ministry on earth (cf. Col. 1: 24; Rom. 12: 1). Our unique identity as persons is not destroyed through our identification with Christ; rather, our unique identity is fulfilled as the person we were created to be in Christ.

YOU have died because CHRIST has died; you died with Christ. In the same sense YOUR LIFE is hidden with Christ in His death and burial. Paul is speaking by way of analogy. The body is buried in the earth and hidden from sight. OUR LIFE is hidden with Christ because Christ can no longer be seen visibly by the world. In the same way, the real life of the believer is hidden to the world because the world cannot see the believer as he is in Christ. We are still frail and weak and subject to persecution and death, but when the glory of Christ is fully revealed at the second coming, our glory will also be revealed with Him. The person you truly are will only be revealed when Christ is revealed in glory. Notice the parallel prepositional phrases: with Christ in God...with Him in glory. When...then are indicators of time pointing forward to a future revelation of Christ at the resurrection. At the same time Christ is revealed in His glory, we also will be revealed with Him in our glorified condition, including our glorified bodies. This is not a conditional statement, but a statement of certainty—a "when...then" statement. The Apostle John says, "Beloved, now we are children of God, and it has not appeared as yet what we will be. We know that when He appears, we will be like Him, because we will see Him just as He is" (1 John 3:2 NASB).

B. Summary of Col. 3: 1-4

Since the Christian has been resurrected with Christ, his primary focus should be on Christ and the many ways Christ makes a difference in every area of life. Seeking Christ gives us a divine perspective on living in this world. As the glory of Christ is now hidden, so our glory—what we will be at the resurrection—is also hidden. But as the glory of Christ is revealed at His second coming, our glory with Him will likewise be revealed. Consequently, we should not worry about our present condition in this world, for we will share in the exaltation of Christ at His return.

C. Meaning Indicators and Structure for Colossians 3: 5-11

(198) 5 Therefore (199) CONSIDER the members of your earthly body as dead.

A third reason indicator referring back to the indicative verb of L194, you have died.

(200) to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed,

(201) which amounts to idolatry.

(202) ⁶ For it is because of these things

(203) that the wrath of God will come

(204) upon the sons of disobedience,

(205) ⁷ and in them YOU ALSO once walked,

(206) when YOU were living in them.

For is explanatory. The Colossians must put to death (NIV) evil behavior because it is evil behavior which summons God's judgment. The for refers back to put to death and is the explanation for the exhortation, put to death. Because refers to the reason God's wrath is coming—these things or evil behavior.

Paul does not distinguish between those who profess Christ and those who don't, but between those who live in disobedience and those who live in obedience (cf. Matt. 7: 21)

Backward arrows signifying the action of the verbs in the past, not the present. (See explanation below.)

Once...when—time indicators. The Colossians once walked in disobedience when they were living in these things. But this is no longer true of the Colossian Christians or any genuine believer. Although it is still necessary to put them all aside (these things of L200-201) remaining sin is not the same as reigning sin. Committing sin is not the same as walking in sin as a way of life. A lengthy quote by John Murray is appropriate here,

“There is a total difference between surviving sin and reigning sin, the regenerate in conflict with sin and the unregenerate complacent to sin. It is one thing for sin to live in us; it is another for us to live in sin. It is one thing for the enemy to occupy the capital: it is another for his defeated hosts to harass the garrisons [outposts] of the kingdom. It is of paramount concern for the Christian and for the interests of his sanctification that he should know that sin does not have the dominion over him, that the forces of redeeming, regenerative, and sanctifying grace have been brought to bear upon him in that which is central in his moral and spiritual being, that he is the habitation of God through the Spirit, and that Christ has been formed in him the hope of glory. This is equivalent to saying that he must reckon himself to be dead indeed unto sin but alive unto God through Jesus Christ his Lord. It is the faith of this fact that provides the basis for, and the incentive to the fulfilment of, the exhortation, ‘Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body to the end that ye should obey its lusts. Neither present ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness to sin, but present yourselves to God as those alive from the dead and your members as instruments of righteousness to God’ (Rom. 6: 12, 13). In this matter the indicative lies at the basis of the imperative and our faith of fact is indispensable to the discharge of duty. The faith that sin will not have the dominion is the dynamic in bondservice to righteousness and to God so that we may have the fruit unto holiness and the end everlasting life (Rom. 6: 17, 22). It is the concern of sanctification that sin be more and more mortified and holiness ingenerated and cultivated (John Murray, Redemption Accomplished and Applied, pp. 145-146; emphasis and words in brackets mine).

The above quotation demonstrates two things: (1) the importance of the analogy of faith in the quotation of Rom. 6: 12, 13, 17, and 22, a passage which cannot be ignored in the study of sanctification and Col. 3; and (2) the importance of consulting commentaries and theological works whenever possible. The importance of historical theology—passed down to the church from century to century through gifted scholars, cannot be underestimated.

D. Stylistic features of Colossians 3: 5-11

In the analysis below and in the alternative diagram on the following page, A represents present commands to believers that are appropriate to their new natures. B represents either the evil characteristics of the old self or the good characteristics of the new self. C represents past activity of laying aside the old man and putting on the new man. D represents the present ongoing activity of being renewed to the image of Christ.

(198) 5 Therefore

(199) consider the members of your earthly body as dead

→
[Put to death, therefore] (NIV)

A

Present command:
Consider...as dead or Put to death.

(200) to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed,

(201) which amounts to idolatry.

The stone tablets represent the broken law of God.

(202) ⁶ For it is because of these things

B

Evil characteristics of the old man

(203) that the wrath of God will come

(204) upon the sons of disobedience,

(205) ⁷ and in them $Y \oplus$ ALSO once walked,

C

L204 not included in some early manuscripts, but see Eph. 5: 6.

(206) when YOU were living in them.

L205-206 Verbs indicating the past activity of living as
the old man

(207) ⁸ BUT now YOU ALSO,

(208) put them all aside:

A

Present command:
put...aside

(209) anger, wrath, malice,

(210) slander, and abusive speech from your mouth.

B

Evil characteristics of the old man

(211) ⁹ Do not lie to one another,

A

Present command: Do not lie

(212) since YOU laid aside the old self

C

C—L212 and 214—Verbs indicating past activity of laying aside the old man and putting on the new man.

(213) with its evil practices,

(214) ¹⁰ and have put on the new self

(215) who is BEING RENEWED

(216) to a true knowledge (217) according to THE IMAGE OF THE ONE
WHO CREATED him—

(218) ¹¹ a renewal in which there is no distinction

(219) between Greek and Jew,

(220) circumcised
and uncircumcised,

(221) barbarian, Scythian,
(222) slave and freeman,

(223) but CHRIST IS ALL, AND IN ALL

B

C

Progressive renewal of new self, not immediate.

D

Evil practices of the old self are antithetically parallel to the true knowledge of the new self producing righteousness, holiness (Eph. 4: 24),
and unity between all races and cultures.

B

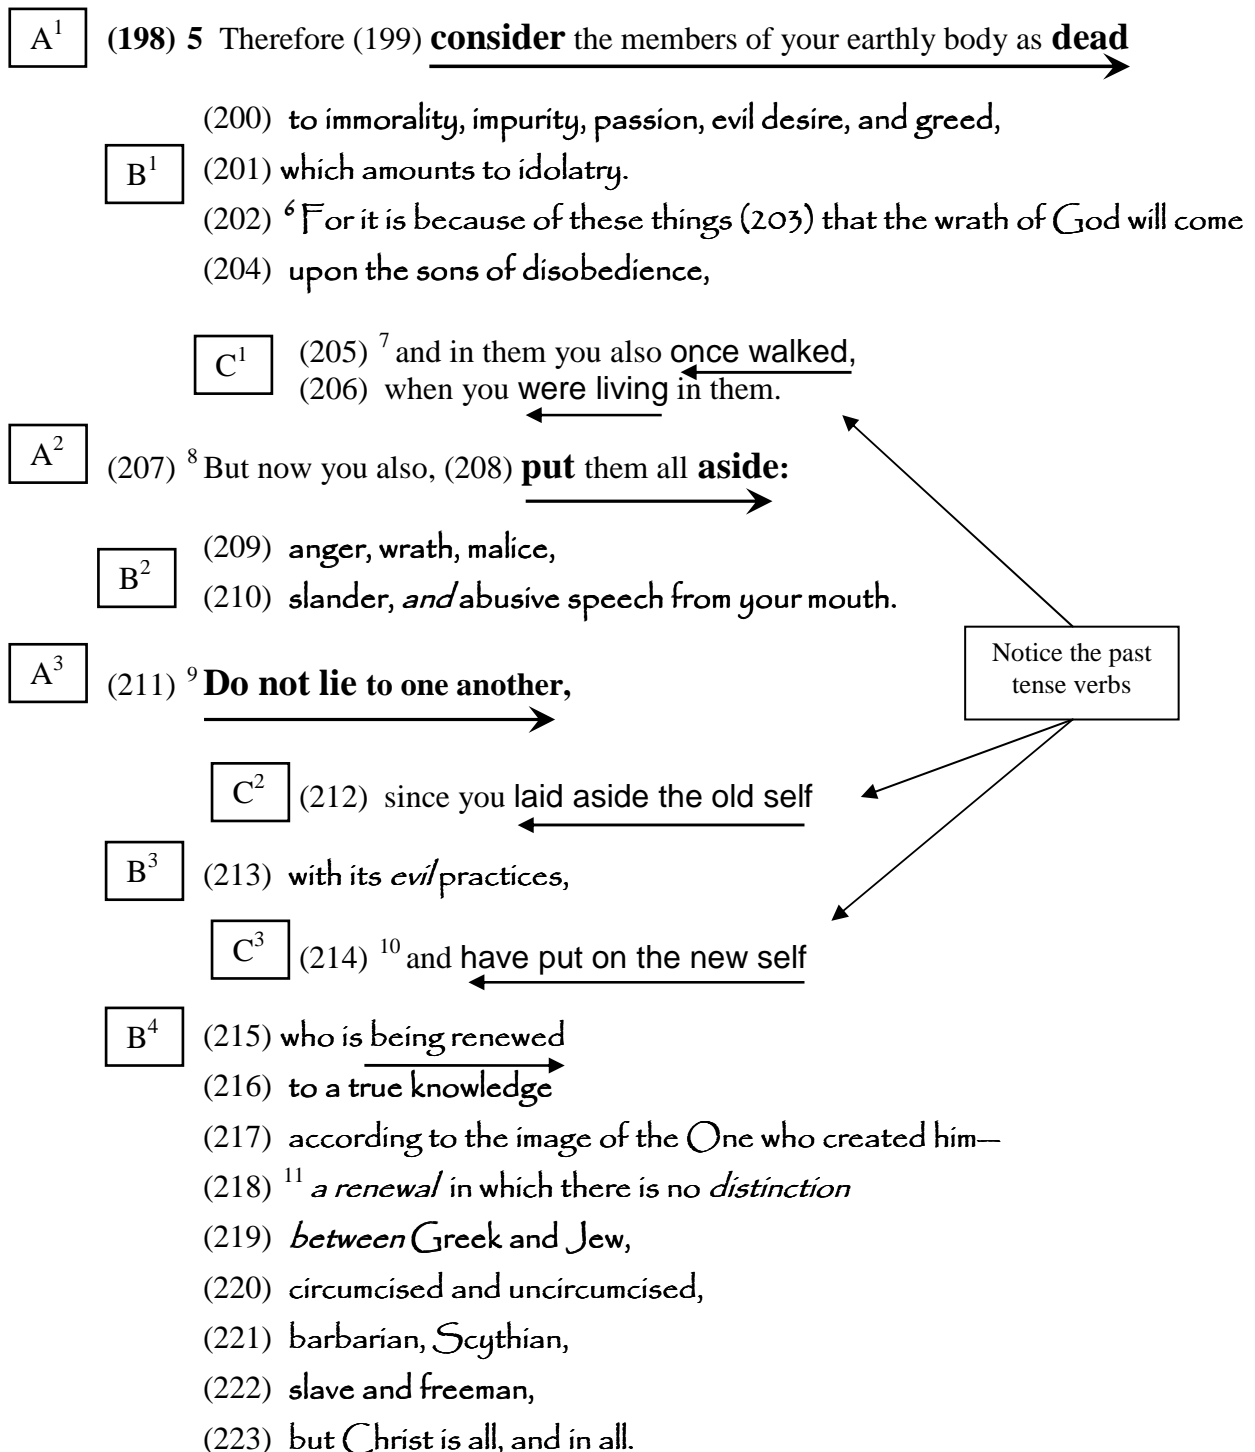

D

Cultural differences

God does not differentiate between different nationalities, cultures, tribes, or social status. The real question is whether or not a person is in Christ and whether he is being renewed to the knowledge, righteousness, and holiness of man's original image (Gal. 6: 15; 2 Cor. 5: 17).

Cultural and social differences

E. An alternative way of looking at the structure and stylistic features of Col. 3: 5-11

Are there other possible ways of looking at this passage? Of course! There are no infallible ways of diagramming the structure of a text. The main purpose of attempting to do so is to understand the text. Notice that the tenses of the verbs (events) used in the text have influenced the way I interpreted the structure. On the other hand, had I focused on the nouns (things), I may have come up with a different structure. I would invite the reader to experiment with different structures as long as he has valid reasons for them.

F. Comparing Col. 3: 9 with Eph. 4: 22

There is a slight difference between Col. 3: 9 and Eph. 4: 22 which appears contradictory. To get the context, I have reproduced Eph. 4: 17-24.

Ephesians 4: 17-24

¹⁷ So this I say, and affirm together with the Lord, that you walk no longer just as the Gentiles also walk, in the futility of their mind, ¹⁸ being darkened in their understanding, excluded from the life of God because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the hardness of their heart; ¹⁹ and they, having become callous, have given themselves over to sensuality for the practice of every kind of impurity with greediness. ²⁰ But you did not learn Christ in this way, ²¹ if indeed you have heard Him and have been taught in Him, just as truth is in Jesus, ²² that, in reference to your former manner of life, you lay aside the old self, which is being corrupted in accordance with the lusts of deceit, ²³ and that you be renewed in the spirit of your mind, ²⁴ and put on the new self, which in the likeness of God has been created in righteousness and holiness of the truth (NASB)

Colossians 3: 9

⁹ Do not lie to one another, since you laid aside the old self with its evil practices,

The question is this: Why would Paul command the Ephesians to lay aside the old self when he has told the Colossians that they have already laid aside the old self? John Murray has given extensive consideration to this question.

It would seem as if Paul is there exhorting believers 'to put off according to the former manner of life the old man' and 'to put on the new man'. And it is true that considerations of grammar would not necessarily be violated if this interpretation were adopted. But exegetical considerations and the analogy of Paul's teaching elsewhere [e.g. Rom. 6: 6] point to the entirely different conclusion, namely, that when Paul speaks of putting off the old man and putting on the new man he is thinking in terms of result rather than in terms of exhortation. The passage should therefore be rendered as follows: 'But ye have not so learned Christ, if so be ye have heard him and have been taught by him as the truth is in Jesus, so that ye have put off, according to the former manner of life, the old man who is corrupted according to the lusts of deceit, and are being renewed in the spirit of your mind, and have put on the new man who after God has been created in righteousness and holiness of the truth' (Ephesians 4: 20-24). It is apparent that this rendering...carries with it no implication to the effect that the believer is regarded as both old man and new man, that he is exhorted to put off the former and put on the latter, and that progressive renewal consists in this process of divestiture and investiture (Principles of Conduct, pp. 215-216; words in brackets mine and emphasis mine).

The verb form of Eph. 4: 22 is not in the form of an imperative but an infinitive ("to lay aside"). Murray interprets it as an infinitive of result, not of command. The NIV and ESV, I believe, give a better translation than the NASB,

You were taught, with regard to your former way of life, to put off your old self, which is being corrupted by its deceitful desires" (Ephesians 4:22 NIV) to put off your old self, which belongs to your former manner of life and is corrupt through deceitful desires (Ephesians 4:22 ESV)

Although the infinitive can be translated as an imperative in the NT, Murray believes that Eph. 4: 22, 24 is not one of those occurrences. Citing A.T. Robertson (A Grammar of the Greek New Testament) and E. Dewitt Burton (Syntax of the Moods and Tenses in New Testament Greek), among several others, Murray notes that Eph. 4: 22, 24 is not listed as an example of an imperative infinitive by any of the Greek authorities. But in Murray's opinion, as noted above, the "exegetical considerations" should force us to the conclusion that in neither passage is Paul commanding believers to lay aside the old man. Why? Because the old man is already dead.

Paul is not exhorting believers to put off the old man and to put on the new. He is urging them to desist from certain sins, sins which are indeed characteristic of the old man, and the reason he adduces for such abstinence is that they have put off the old man and have put on the new man. Since this is the case, Paul is saying in effect, do not practice those sins which are after the pattern of the old man but behave as new men, as indeed you are. Besides, the figure [figure of speech] which Paul is using namely, that of having put off and of having put on, does not agree with the idea of being both an old man and a new man at the same time. For in that event the figure would require that we are clothed with both at the same time. The notion that putting off the old man is a process would involve this incoherent [confusing] figure of speech. There need be no question but that Paul here regards believers as those who have put off the old man and have put on the new and therefore, in terms of his figure, as those who are clothed with the new man and not with the old (Principles of Conduct, p. 214; underlined emphasis his, bold emphasis and words in brackets mine).

The characterization of the old man in Eph. 4: 17-22 should cause due hesitation in applying this description to the true believer. The “old self” is “being corrupted by its deceitful desires” (NIV). Further, the pattern of the old self is in the “former manner of life” which is characterized by the futility of mind, darkness of understanding, separation from God, ignorance, hardness of heart, abandonment to sensuality, and indulgence in every kind of impurity. Murray asks, “Can we possibly think of a believer as answering to this description? To that characterization he must answer if he is still an old man as well as a new man.” The contrast which Paul sets up, however, indicates that the believer answers to a different description altogether, for he says, “You, however, did not come to know Christ that way” (Ephesians 4:20 NIV; cf. Murray, p. 216). We have already noted in Col. 3: 7 that the Colossians “once walked” in evil practices when they “were living in them” with the clear implication that they no longer lived in them.

It is no more feasible [possible] to call the believer a new man and an old man, than it is to call him a regenerate man and an unregenerate. And neither is it warranted to speak of the believer as having in him the old man and the new man. This kind of terminology is without warrant and it is but another method of doing prejudice to the doctrine which Paul was so jealous to establish when he said, ‘our old man has been crucified’ (Principles of Conduct, p. 218, emphasis and word in brackets mine).

It may also be confusing that Paul says in Eph. 4: 22, “that, in reference to your former manner of life, you lay aside the old self, which is being corrupted in accordance with the lusts of deceit.” Why would he use a present tense verb, “being corrupted”? But Paul is not referring to the old self of the Christian who is no longer the old self. He is referring to the old self which still characterizes unbelievers. It is true that the old self continues to get worse and worse. It continues to be corrupted because it cannot be reformed or improved. Rather, it must be killed. For unbelievers, the continuing corruption of the old man is a terrible reality. They are not getting better; they are getting worse. Although they may show signs of outward improvement, the inward man becomes more entrenched and determined in his rebellion against God. The only way a man gets better is through grace, not self-effort. We should also notice that the old self corresponds to the Christian’s former manner of life, not his present manner of life patterned after the new man—the image of Christ characterized by knowledge, righteousness and holiness.

Since we have died with Christ, we have laid aside the old self—like laying aside an old, worn-out garment—which is corrupt and sinful. This means that we consciously lay aside (on a daily basis) any behavior which is characterized by the old man that we once were, but are no longer. Thus, what we laid aside in principle at our conversion, we lay aside in practice daily. But further, the practical putting aside of evil behavior is dependent upon the once-for-all act of laying aside the old man—the accomplishment of the Holy Spirit in regeneration and conversion.

At the same time we laid aside the old man, we put on the new man—like a new garment. As Murray says, this metaphor is incoherent (confusing) if the Christian is both old man and new man at the same time. This would be like wearing two different garments at the same time. Further, who can imagine that once having taken off an old, worn-out garment which no longer fits, and having put on a new one, we would put the old one back on again, particularly if our disposition toward sin and righteousness had been radically changed? The metaphor indicates that once having laid the old garment (old man) aside and having put on the new one, we will never wear the old one again. Both Murray and Leon Morris (Romans, p. 251) agree that the verb used of the old self in Rom. 6: 6 (“was crucified”) indicates a definitive putting to death of the old man. Morris says, “The verb conveys the thought that the old man was thoroughly destroyed” (emphasis mine).

⁵ For if we have become united with Him in the likeness of His death, certainly we shall also be in the likeness of His resurrection, knowing this, that our old self was crucified with Him, in order that our body of sin might be done away with, so that we would no longer be slaves to sin; ⁷ for he who has died is freed from sin. ⁸ Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him, ⁹ knowing that Christ, having been raised from the dead, is never to die again; death no longer is master over Him. ¹⁰ For the death that He died, He died to sin once for all; but the life that He lives, He lives to God. ¹¹ Even so consider yourselves to be dead to sin, but alive to God in Christ Jesus. ¹² Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its lusts, ¹³ and do not go on presenting the members of your body to sin as instruments of unrighteousness; but present yourselves to God as those alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness to God. ¹⁴ For sin shall not be master over you, for you are not under law but under grace (Rom. 6: 1-14).

G. The New Man

Who is this new man? In Colossians, Paul tells us that the new man “is being renewed to a true knowledge according to the image of the One who created him” while in Ephesians he says, “and put on the new self, which in the likeness of God has been created in righteousness and holiness of the truth.” Comparing the two texts, it would seem, then, that the new man (1) has been created; that is, the Christian is a new creature in Christ (since the old creature is now dead), a fact that agrees with 2 Cor. 5: 17; and (2) that this image is not yet complete but is being progressively conformed to the image of Christ and God, an image that consists of true knowledge that produces holiness and righteousness. Therefore, the true knowledge is not intellectual knowledge only, but a knowledge producing holiness. This, in turn, is consistent with Rom. 8: 29, “For those whom He foreknew, He also predestined to become conformed to the image of His Son, so that He would be the firstborn among many brethren” (Romans 8:29 NASB).

H. A Short Commentary on Colossians 3: 5-11

Although we once lived in the sins of immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed, we are now dead to these things as a way of life. They no longer have mastery or control over our lives.

¹What shall we say then? Are we to continue in sin so that grace may increase? ²May it never be! How shall we who died to sin still live in it? ³Or do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus have been baptized into His death? ⁴Therefore we have been buried with Him through baptism into death, so that as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we too might walk in newness of life. ⁵For if we have become united with Him in the likeness of His death, certainly we shall also be in the likeness of His resurrection, knowing this, that our old self was crucified with Him, in order that our body of sin might be done away with, so that we would no longer be slaves to sin; ⁷ for he who has died is freed from sin. ⁸ Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him, ⁹ knowing that Christ, having been raised from the dead, is never to die again; death no longer is master over Him (Rom. 6: 1-9 NASB)

Freed from sin does not mean sinless perfection. It means freedom from the dominion of sin. The analogy is this: dead men don't sin. In Col. 3: 6, Paul says that God is coming in judgment upon such sins. Immorality and impurity refer to sexual immorality, and passion refers to sexual passion. In another Pauline epistle we read,

³For this is the will of God, your sanctification; that is, that you abstain from sexual immorality; ⁴that each of you know how to possess his own vessel in sanctification and honor, ⁵not in lustful passion, like the Gentiles who do not know God; (1 Thessalonians 4:3-5 NASB)

Paul uses many “vice lists” throughout his epistles, and sexual immorality is always included (cf. Rom. 1: 26-32; 1 Cor. 5: 9-11; 6: 9-10; Gal. 5: 19-21; Eph. 5: 3-6; 1 Thes. 4: 3-7; 1 Tim. 1: 9-10; 2 Tim. 3: 2-5; Tit. 3: 3). Greed or covetousness is also commonly included. It is possible that the idolatry mentioned is in a-pposition (not o-pposition) to greed alone and not to the other sins. In other words, greed amounts to idolatry. All sin, of course, is idolatry; but Paul seems to single out greed as especially expressive of loving and worshiping something else more than God. Pastors in the US don't talk much about greed. I wonder why? Could it be, as one theologian has said, that greed has become the institutionalized sin of the church for over a half century, one of those "respectable sins" which no one gets upset about? Yet, Paul singles it out from the rest of the vice list as the sin which especially epitomizes (represents) idolatry, and he makes freedom from the love of money as a requirement for elders (1 Tim. 3: 3).

Both the sins of the body and the sins of the mind are included in Paul's vice lists of L200-201 and L209-210. Passion, evil desire, and greed are sins of the mind and heart while immorality and impurity are sins which we normally think of as finding expression in the body. Sin is not only that which is external to the body, but internal. On the other hand, internal sin always finds external expression in the body; therefore, Paul exhorts the Colossians to "consider the members of your earthly body as dead" to these things—all of them. Just as uncontrolled passion and evil desire give rise to sexual immorality and impurity, greed gives rise to apathy (unconcern) toward those in need and extravagant lifestyles centered on material things rather than the kingdom of God. Paul's exhortation in Romans 6 demonstrates how the sinner "presents" the members of his body to sinful practice.

¹⁰For the death that He died, He died to sin once for all; but the life that He lives, He lives to God. ¹¹Even so consider yourselves to be dead to sin, but alive to God in Christ Jesus. ¹²Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body so that you obey its lusts, ¹³and do not go on presenting the members of your body to sin as instruments of unrighteousness; but present yourselves to God as those alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness to God. ¹⁴For sin shall not be master over you, for you are not under law but under grace (Rom. 6: 10-14).

Therefore, the physical body is seen as something which can either be presented as an instrument facilitating (being used for) sin or an instrument facilitating (being used for) righteousness. For example, the arms may either wield a club to beat someone to death, or they may use a hoe to grow food for one's family or a needy widow. The mouth may be used to slander or lie, or it may be used to encourage or sing praises to God. The feet may run swiftly to steal, or they may run to save someone injured in a car accident.

Another metaphor Paul uses is that the body is either presented as a slave to sin or a slave to righteousness, but the body is not a slave to both sin and righteousness at the same time. The two different conditions of slavery are mutually exclusive of one another. In Rom. 6, Paul expressly states that the old self, or the old man, was crucified; therefore, the Christian can no longer be the old man who is a slave to sin. Further, a close look at the context reveals that the crucifixion of the old man is patterned after the crucifixion of Christ who has been crucified once and is never to be crucified again.

The believer is not regarded as dying and rising with Christ again and again. [Notice Col. 3: 3, "For you have died", not "For you are dying".] Undoubtedly there is process and progression in the believer's life and this may properly be understood as progressive realization [understanding] of the implications and claims of having died and risen with Christ. But the dying and rising with Christ are not viewed as process but as definitive and decisive event and can no more be construed [understood] as continuous process than can the death and resurrection of Christ himself....We are not commanded to become dead to sin and alive to God; these are presupposed [assumed]. And it is not by reckoning these to be facts that they become facts [that is, it does not become fact by thinking to yourself, "I am dead to sin."]. The force of the imperative is that we are to reckon with and appreciate the facts which already obtain by virtue of union with Christ. The expression "dead unto sin" implies an abiding state of condition resultant upon [resulting from] the once-for-all decisive event of having died to sin by union with Christ in the efficacy of his death. And the complementation of "dead unto sin" and "alive unto God," as parallel to Christ's death to sin and life to God (vs. 10), implies that the life to God is of abiding continuance just as being dead to sin is. The security and permanence of this life to God are insured by the fact that it is "in Christ Jesus" the life is maintained....It is not to be supposed [in v. 12] that sin is conceived of as reigning in the believer and that now he is exhorted to terminate that reign of sin. This would run counter to all that has been set forth in the preceding verses regarding the status of the believer as dead to sin and alive to God. And, furthermore, we have in this passage the assurance that sin will not have dominion because the believer is not under law but under grace (vs. 14). The force of the imperative [command] can be understood only in the light of the relation of the indicative [fact] to the imperative. Sin does not have the dominion—this is the indicative [fact]. This indicative is not only expressly asserted in verse 14, it is implicit in all that the apostle has argued in the verses that precede verse 12. Let not sin reign—this is the imperative [command]. And it flows from the indicative. It is only because sin does not reign that it can be said, “Therefore let not sin reign”. In other words, the presupposition [assumption] of the exhortation is not that sin reigns but the opposite, that it does not reign, and it is for that reason that the exhortation can have validity and appeal. To say to the slave who has not been emancipated [freed], “Do not behave as a slave” is to mock his enslavement. But to say the same to the slave who has been set free is the necessary appeal to put into effect the privileges and rights of his liberation. So in this case the sequence is: sin does not have the dominion; therefore, do not allow it to reign. Deliverance from the dominion of sin is both the basis of and the incentive to the fulfillment of the exhortation, “Let not sin reign” (John Murray, Romans, selections from pp. 224-227; words in brackets and emphasis mine.)

Thus, the believer’s crucifixion is likened to Christ’s crucifixion, a once and for all event. This does not eliminate the necessity of progressive sanctification—or progressively putting sin to death (Rom. 8)—but the definitive break with sin in the death of the old man is the ground upon which progressive sanctification is made possible, “for he who has died is freed from sin” (Rom. 6:7 NASB), that is, freed from sin as a dominating power demanding compliance and obedience. Our emancipation from slavery to sin is also the indicative (a statement of fact) which serves as the incentive (motive) to the fulfillment of the imperative (“let not sin reign”) (cf. Murray, Principles of Conduct, p. 220). In other words, since we know that we are, in fact, free from sin as a way of life, we have the incentive and encouragement to press on toward perfection in practice. To use another analogy, if a runner believes he has the potential to run 100 meters in less than ten seconds, he will have the incentive (motive) to train many months to achieve this goal. If, indeed, God has given him the genetic potential, then the proper training will enable him to reach this goal. But there are others of us, like me, who have no incentive to run 100 meters in under ten seconds simply because no amount of training will enable us to do this. We just don’t have the genetic potential—period. On the other hand, I know that God has given me everything necessary to live a holy life (2 Pet. 1: 3) giving me the incentive to “train” toward perfection.

For the reasons mentioned above, I believe that the NASB rendering of Col. 3: 5 is a good one, “consider the members of your earthly body as dead.” We consider (or “reckon”) ourselves dead to sin and alive to righteousness because we are dead to sin and alive to righteousness. Further, as Murray has proposed, progressive sanctification is the “progressive realization” (awareness) of a real, spiritual death in Christ’s death and a real, spiritual resurrection to life in Christ’s resurrection. Sin’s power over us has been broken; therefore, we no longer have to obey its urgent demands but may yield ourselves to the demands of holiness. While the remnants of the old man’s thinking and his behavior remain in us, he no longer exists as a dominating reality. Think of it this way: the old man has died, and his possessions and dirty laundry have been cleared out of the house. Within the house, however, there still remain dirty remnants of the old man’s life—a pair of ragged shoes and one sock with a hole in it, a frayed, dirty shirt, a torn pair of trousers, etc. Although he is gone from the house, and although most of his old belongings have been cleared out, a few items remain. Progressively over time, the believer will remove the remaining items of the old man. This process will occur for the rest of his life, for there are many remaining sins of the old man left behind. At death, Christ will complete the process by purging whatever remains. At that point, what the believer is now in position and standing with Christ, he will also be in condition experientially and practically.

In the commentary above, I have demonstrated the importance of (1) the analogy of faith (comparing scripture with scripture, II. D.), (2) comparing the meaning of words and phrases with how the same author uses these words and phrases in different books (II. B.), and (3) consulting commentaries when available (Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 79, “The steps of exegesis. 5. Read interpretations of others”).

VI. The Exegesis of Colossians 3: 12-17

A. Meaning Indicators and Stylistic Features of Col. 3: 12-17

(224) 12 So, as those who have been chosen of God,

(225) holy and beloved,

(226) put on a heart
of compassion, kindness,

(227) humility, gentleness and patience;

(228) ¹³ bearing with one another,

(229) and forgiving each other,

(230) whoever has a complaint against anyone;

(231) just as the Lord forgave you,

(232) so also should you.

So—reason indicator. Since you are a new man in Christ, then act like a new man. Having told the Colossians to put off, Paul now tells them to put on. Negation (“don’t do this”) is not enough in the Christian life. There must be a positive endowment of good behavior (“do this”). The human heart cannot remain a vacuum emptied of everything. Inevitably, it will be filled with something. Put on is antithetically parallel to put aside; thus the “A” (see pp. 58-59). See further analysis in the appendix.

Inward qualities. Good characteristics antithetically parallel to the evil characteristics of L200-201 and L209-210; thus, the B (see p. 61). The

C—Outward actions producing unity in the church rather than strife and disunity. Participles (bearing, forgiving) indicating present activity are antithetically parallel to the past activity of L205-206; 212 and 214; thus, the “C” (see pp. 58-59). So also should you has an implied present tense verb—so also should you forgive. Note also the one another and each other. Forgiving each other is both outward and inward, but if not expressed outwardly, it is not inwardly real.

B—The inward qualities of the heart (L226-227). All of these qualities stand or fall together. Compassion is the capacity to be emotionally—and even physically—affected by someone else’s sorrow, calamity, or weakness (literally, “to be moved in the inward parts; cf. Lk. 15: 20; Matt. 9: 36; Matt. 20: 34, “Moved with compassion, Jesus touched their eyes; and immediately they regained their sight and followed Him.” Being moved with compassion is something like having a heavy, sorrowful feeling in the pit of your stomach. Another rendering is pity; ESV). True compassion, in turn, leads to kindness (like the Good Samaritan). You cannot show compassion without doing something. Humility, gentleness, and patience go together because only a humble person is capable of recognizing his own weakness, especially his sin. This enables him to be gentle and patient with fellow sinners. (How short we all fall in this respect, for it is much easier to condemn the faults of others than to be patient with them!)

All the characteristics of L226-227 flow naturally from L224-225. The Colossians have been chosen of God and are holy and beloved. Therefore, they have a reason to exhibit these qualities to others. God has been compassionate, kind, gentle, and patient with them. God has also been humble. There has been no greater manifestation of humility than the humility of Christ’s incarnation and crucifixion. He was not constrained (controlled) by any necessity outside of His and the Father’s love for us to suffer the indignity of poverty, fatigue, persecution, slander, torture, and death. Because of what He did without constraint, we do because we are constrained by the love of Christ, “For the love of Christ controls us, having concluded this, that one died for all, therefore all died;¹⁵ and He died for all, so that they who live might no longer live for themselves, but for Him who died and rose again on their behalf” (2 Corinthians 5:14-15 NASB).

(233) ¹⁴ Beyond all THESE THINGS

(234) put on
→

love,

which is the perfect bond of unity.

A

Present command. Put on is not in the Greek text but is implied. The words are inserted in all the major translations. These things refer to L226-232.

B

The most fundamental characteristic of the new man.

C

Inward love produces outward unity—an activity) in the body of Christ in contrast to the characteristics of the old man—greed, wrath, malice, etc.—which produce disunity and strife.

(235) ¹⁵ LET...
→

the peace of Christ

RULE
↑

in your hearts,

A

Present command. “Put on peace” by letting it rule in your hearts.

B

Peace is another characteristic of the new man contrary to the old man.

(236) to which indeed you were called in one body:

cf. L224—have been chosen

C

We are called to peace with one another—a present, observable, corporate activity—not simply a state of mind. In one body corresponds to one another and each other (L228-230).

(237) and BE
→

thankful.

A

“Put on thankfulness” by being thankful.

B

The character of the new man contrasted with immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed (L200)

(238) ¹⁶ LET...
→

DWELL
→

the word of Christ

richly within you,

A

“Put the word of God in your heart.”

B

Word-saturated minds and hearts in contrast to hearts filled with anger, wrath, malice, evil desire, uncontrolled passion, etc.

(239) with all wisdom

teaching and admonishing one another

C

The present activity of hearts and minds which are saturated with the word of God (teaching and admonishing one another and singing—corporate worship characterized by thankfulness). Notice the repetition of thankfulness (L237, 241)

(240) with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs,

(241) singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God.

(242) ¹⁷ WHATEVER YOU DO IN WORD OR DEED,

(243) DO ALL in the name of the Lord Jesus,

A

Concluding statement for 3: 12-17 and introduction for 3: 18—4:1

(244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

This is only one way of looking at the passage which is divided into “A” present commands, “B” character (old and new) and “C” activity (past and present). Notice that the present activity of vv. 12-17 is always contrasted with the past activity of “were living” and “once walked”.

B. Schematic view of Colossians 3: 5-11

(198) 5 Therefore

(199) consider the members of your earthly body as dead

(200) to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed,

(201) which amounts to idolatry.

(202) ⁶ For it is because of these things

(203) that the wrath of God will come

(204) upon the sons of disobedience,

(205) ⁷ and in them you also once walked,

(206) when you were living in them.

(207) ⁸ But now you also,

(208) put them all aside:

(209) anger, wrath, malice,

(210) slander, and abusive speech from your mouth.

(211) ⁹ Do not lie to one another,

(212) since you laid aside the old self

(213) with its evil practices,

(214) ¹⁰ and have put on the new self

(215) who is being renewed

(216) to a true knowledge

(217) according to the image of the One who created him—

(218) ¹¹ a renewal in which there is no distinction

(219) between Greek e and Jew, f

(220) circumcised f
and uncircumcised, e

(221) barbarian, Scythian, g

(222) slave and freeman, h

(223) but Christ is all, and in all.

Summary remarks

A¹ Consider yourselves dead...
(present command)

B¹ ...to the character of the old man who deserves God's wrath...

C¹ ...in which you once lived, but no longer live.
(past activity of the Colossians)

A² Put aside...(present command)

B² ...the character of the old man...

A³ Do not lie to one another...
(present command)

C² ...since you put off the old man...(past activity)

B³ ...with his evil character...

C³ ...and have put on the new man...(past activity)

B⁴ ...who is being renewed to a true knowledge of God—knowledge which reflects the image of Christ. (present character of the new man)

B⁵ ...a renewal in which there are no distinctions of worth between people because all of life is summed up in our union with Christ. (present character of new man)

The “A” parallels refer to the present commands or imperatives. They are synonymously parallel to one another. The “B” parallels may be either synonymous or antithetic (contrasting) parallels. Either the good characteristics of the new man or the bad characteristics of the old man are in view, but since they represent character, they are represented the same. The “C” parallels represent past activity either in living as the old man or living as the new man or in putting off the old man or putting on the new man. The verbs are in the past indicating that the action is accomplished. (See pp. 58-59 for more information.)

In the schematic diagram below, I have retained Paul's analogy of “putting on a garment” throughout the diagram. The analogy is reflected in the summary remarks on the right side of the page.

C. Schematic view of Colossians 3: 12-17 (compared with 3: 5-11 above)

(224) 12 So, as those who have been chosen of God,
 (225) holy and beloved,

Summary remarks

(226) put on

a heart of compassion, kindness,
 (227) humility, gentleness and patience;

(228) ¹³ bearing with one another,
 (229) and forgiving each other,
 (230) whoever has a complaint against anyone;
 (231) just as the Lord forgave you,
 (232) so also should you.

A¹

Put on...(present command)

B¹

...the character of the new man...
 (contrasted with anger, wrath, malice, slander, etc., the character of the old man)

C¹

...producing patience and forgiveness toward one another. (present activity of the Colossians contrasted with the past activity of the Colossians—"were living"; C¹ on L205-206)

(233) ¹⁴ Beyond all these things

(234) put on [implied in the text]

love,

which is the perfect bond of unity.

A²

Put on...(present command)

B²

...love—the most fundamental character of the new man...(contrasted with the character of the old man)

C²

...producing unity in the body of Christ. (present activity contrasted with past activity of C¹ on L205-206)

(235) ¹⁵ Let

the peace of Christ rule in your hearts,

(236) to which indeed you were called in one body;

A³

Put on...(present command).

B³

...inward peace—the character of the new man which controls (rules) our inward disposition...

C³

...producing corporate peace within the body. (present activity contrasted with past activity of C¹ on L205-206)

(237) and be thankful.

A⁴

Put on... (present command)

B⁴

... thankfulness (the character of the new man)

(238) ¹⁶ Let

the word of Christ richly dwell within you,

(239) with all wisdom
 teaching and admonishing one another
 (240) with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs,
 (241) singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God.

A⁵

Put on...(present command)

B⁵

...the word of Christ (contrasted to evil desires, impurity, passion). Meditate on the word of Christ which builds character...

C⁴

...producing wisdom for corporate discipleship and thankfulness for corporate worship (present activity contrasted with the past activity of C¹ on L205-206).

(242) ¹⁷ Whatever you do in word or deed,

(243) do all in the name of the Lord Jesus,

(244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

A⁶

Concluding statement for 3: 12-17 and introduction for 3: 18—4: 1.

D. Suggested Meaning Blocks of Colossians 3: 1-17

Summary remarks

(188) 1 Therefore(189) if you have been raised up with Christ,(190) keep seeking the things above,

(191) where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God.

A

If you have participated with Christ in His resurrection—and you have—then your priorities in life should be the priorities of Christ, who is now exalted at the right hand of God the Father.

(192) ² Set your mind on the things above,

(193) not on the things that are on earth.

B

Concentrate on God's kingdom and how everything finds its meaning in relationship to this kingdom.

(194) ³ For you have died

(195) and your life is hidden with Christ in God.

(196) ⁴ When Christ, who is our life, is revealed,

(197) then you also will be revealed with Him in glory.

C

In Christ you have died to the world and the priorities of the world (Gal. 6: 14). Just as the exalted Christ is now hidden, so also the life of the believer is hidden. At the return of Christ in glory, believers will also be revealed to the world in their exalted condition.

(198) 5 Therefore

(199) consider the members of your earthly body as dead

(200) to immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and greed,

(201) which amounts to idolatry.

D

Consider yourselves dead to any evil character which is the same thing as idolatry.

(202) ⁶ For it is because of these things

(203) that the wrath of God will come

(204) upon the sons of disobedience,

(205) ⁷ and in them you also once walked,

(206) when you were living in them.

E

Because of these evil things, God's wrath is coming in judgment upon those who live in disobedience. In the past, you lived the same way.

(207) ⁸ But now you also,(208) put them all aside:

(209) anger, wrath, malice,

(210) slander, and abusive speech from your mouth.

F

Get rid of the remaining sins (traces) of the old man.

(211) ⁹ Do not lie to one another,

(212) since you laid aside the old self

(213) with its evil practices,(214) ¹⁰ and have put on the new self

(215) who is being renewed

(216) to a true knowledge

(217) according to the image of the One who created him—

G

Do not lie because (since) you have laid the old man aside like a worn-out garment and have put on the new man whose thinking and behavior is being made new according to the image of Christ.

(218) ¹¹ a renewal in which there is no distinction(219) between Greek and Jew,

(220) circumcised and uncircumcised,

(221) barbarian, Scythian,

(222) slave and freeman,

(223) but Christ is all, and in all.

H

In this renewed image, there are no distinctions of worth between different cultures, races, or social classes. The only thing that matters is whether a person knows Christ.

(224) 12 So, as those who have been chosen of God,

(225) holy and beloved,

(226) put on a heart of compassion, kindness,

(227) humility, gentleness and patience;

(228) ¹³ bearing with one another,

(229) and forgiving each other,

(230) whoever has a complaint against anyone;

(231) just as the Lord forgave you,

(232) so also should you.

/

As you are putting off the evil remnants of the old man, you should be putting on all the good characteristics of the new man, characteristics which enhance the corporate life of the body of Christ. These characteristics produce patience and forgiveness, thus imitating the forgiveness of the Lord Jesus who also forgave us.

(233) ¹⁴ Beyond all these things

(234) put on love, which is the perfect bond of unity.

J

Love is “the grace which binds all the other graces together” (F.F. Bruce, Colossians, p. 156.) Love is the “glue” that holds believers together in unity (Gal. 5: 22)

(235) ¹⁵ Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts,

(236) to which indeed you were called in one body;

(237) and be thankful.

K

Rather than letting anger, malice, greed, etc. rule your life, let the peace of Christ govern your hearts producing peace throughout the community of believers. (Gal. 5: 22).

(238) ¹⁶ Let the word of Christ richly dwell within you,

(239) with all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another

(240) with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs,

(241) singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God.

L

Study the word of God in private and public worship. This produces the wisdom essential for making disciples and which produces the gratitude essential for worship that is pleasing to God.

(242) ¹⁷ Whatever you do in word or deed,

(243) do all in the name of the Lord Jesus,

(244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

M

Everything you do must be done with the goal of honoring Christ, whose name is either honored or dishonored by the way believers treat one another. Further, everything must be done with an attitude of thanksgiving to God the Father for what He has done for us through Jesus Christ.

E. Clues to finding blocks of meaning

In the examples above, I have highlighted the words and phrases which provide clues to blocks of meaning.

1. Reason indicators—therefore, for, so

2. Transitional or introductory phrases—now you also, beyond all these things

3. Imperatives or commands—keep seeking, set your mind on, consider, put them all aside, do not lie, put on, let

4. Summary statements—whatever you do in word or deed

5. Further explanations—a renewal in which

6. If...then statements—if you have been raised up with Christ, [then] keep seeking the things above

7. Terms of endearment—as those who have been chosen of God, holy and beloved

We must keep in mind that dividing the text into blocks of meaning is not an exact science.

There is much room for differences of opinion. Paragraph divisions, however, are more exact and much easier to determine, and translators have actually done most of the work for us. Most of the time, Greek scholars will be correct in their division of paragraphs. However, chapter and verse divisions in the Bible were made hundreds of years ago and are often mistaken.

F. Summary of Colossians 3: 12-17

Now that the Colossians have laid aside the old man (who was crucified) with his evil character, they must continually put on the character of the new man who was raised with Christ. The new man is who they really are. This new character is in total contrast to the old man they once were—a man characterized by anger and malice, immorality and impurity, and abusive use of his tongue. Rather, they must put on compassion and kindness for one another, patience and forbearance, forgiveness, love, peace, and thankfulness—character which produces unity, effective discipleship, and thankful worship pleasing to God. Such character is put on through the private and public teaching of the word of Christ. Only to the extent that their thinking is saturated with the word can they respond to one another with the fruit of the Spirit. Everything they do should be done in the name of the Lord Jesus which means that everything should be done with the goal of making the exalted Christ known to a world of rebellious sinners. This is best achieved only if believers are treating one another with love, compassion, and forgiveness. The corporate community of the church is either our most effective evangelism or the worst witness to our hypocrisy. Nothing should be done which would slander the name of Christ or take His name in vain before the watching world.

VII. Exegesis of Colossians 3: 17—4:1

A. Meaning Indicators for Colossians 3:17

Colossians 3: 17 is the conclusion of Col. 3: 1-17 and the introduction to Col. 3: 17—4: 1. Note also the repetition, whatever you do, found in L259.

(242) ¹⁷ WHATEVER YOU DO IN WORD OR DEED,

(243) DO ALL in the name of the Lord Jesus,

(244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

General directives or commands governing all behavior
--

B. Summary of Colossians 3: 17

Submission to Christ governs obedience to all other human authorities. In the name of the Lord Jesus is the governing thought of 3: 18—4: 1. This is why it is highlighted. Doing something in the name of someone else meant that the action was connected with the person in whose name you were acting—presumably with his authorization and approval (cf. Deut. 18: 20; Ps. 118: 26). Giving thanks may be the second governing thought in the passage which is mentioned three times in Col. 3 alone.) Everything we do in word and deed should be done in such a way that the name of Christ is honored and magnified. Submission to Christ and thanksgiving for what God has done for us in Christ is the controlling principle of the Christian life.

C. Meaning Indicators of Colossians 3: 18-21

(245) 18 Wives be subject to your husbands,

♀ → ♀ ♂

(246) as is fitting in the Lord.

→ ☆

(247) 19 Husbands, love your wives

♂ → ♀

(248) AND do not be embittered against them.

→ ♀

(249) 20 Children, be obedient to your parents IN ALL THINGS,

0 → 0 ♂ ♀ []

(250) FOR this is well-pleasing to the Lord.

⇒ → ☆

(251) 21 Fathers, do not exasperate your children,

♂ → ♂ 0

(252) SO THAT they will not lose heart.

⇒ → 0 - - - - - →

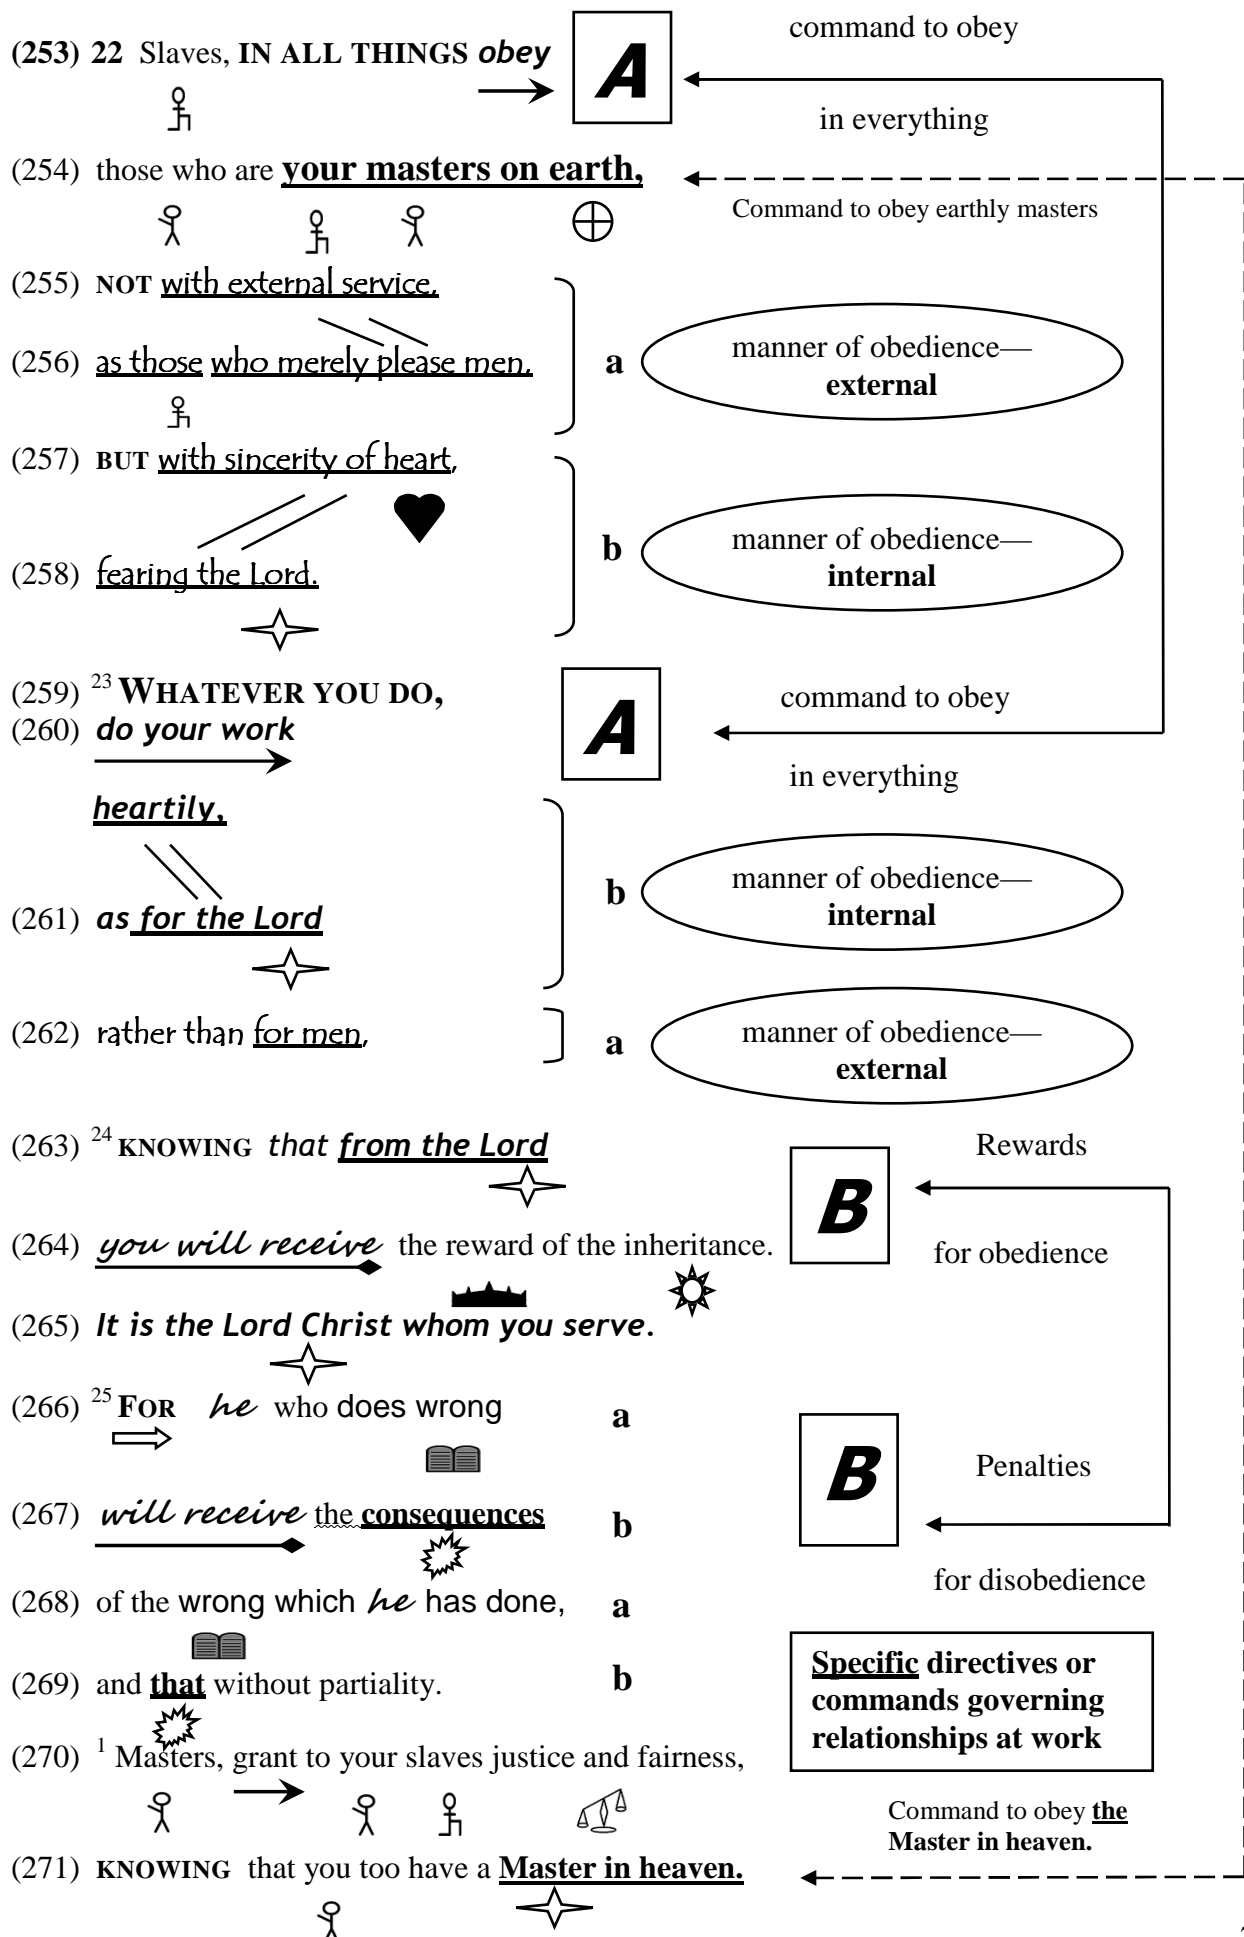

Specific directives or commands governing relationships in the family.

D. Summary of Colossians 3: 18-21

Wives should be subject to (obey) their husbands in every way that does not conflict with their obedience to Christ (as is fitting in the Lord). The phrase, as is fitting in the Lord, qualifies and limits her obedience. The Christian wife cannot submit to anything which contradicts or compromises the lordship of Christ over her life. Husbands should love their wives (as Christ loves the church—cf. Eph. 5: 25), and not become bitter (or harsh) against them when they fail to measure up to all their expectations of what they think a wife should be. Furthermore, the husband's headship over his wife cannot violate Christ's lordship over his or her life. He cannot beat or abuse his wife, nor can he abdicate (give up) his responsibility to be the head of the home by assigning this task to his wife. God, assigned this responsibility to him, not her.

For this is well pleasing to the Lord applies to children's obedience to parents, but the clause also qualifies and limits their obedience. Children should be obedient to their parents in every way that does not contradict their prior submission to Christ as Lord. Contradiction to Christ's lordship cannot be "well pleasing". In the same way that husbands should not require perfection from their wives, fathers should not exasperate or provoke their children with unrealistic demands and expectations. Furthermore, the lordship of Christ limits the father's authority over their children. They can discipline their children, but they are not allowed to abuse them. (Such teaching was unheard of in Roman society in which men had almost life and death power over wives and children who had few, if any, legal rights.) Fathers are also not allowed to let children become independent of their authority or autonomous (self-ruling). Paul would have no sympathy with the cultural norm of male oppression.

E. Meaning Indicators and Stylistic Features of Colossians 3: 22—4: 1

F. Summary of Colossians 3: 22—4: 1

In the same way that the behavior, authority, and submission of husbands, fathers, wives, and children are qualified and limited by the lordship of Christ, the behavior, authority and submission of masters and slaves is qualified and limited by this same lordship. Slaves cannot submit to commands which contradict their allegiance to Christ, and masters cannot assume absolute lordship over their slaves in contradiction to the authority and lordship of Christ.

However, to the extent that submission to earthly masters does not contradict the lordship of Christ, slaves should serve their masters as if they are serving Christ himself because this is what they are really doing. If they obey their masters from the heart as if they were obeying Christ, they will be rewarded accordingly, for they are actually serving Christ. The same submission applies to employees who are not slaves. Masters and employers are reminded that they, too, have a Master in heaven who does not show partiality to human masters on earth.

Therefore, the lordship of Christ governs the workplace and the ordinary, mundane tasks which we all perform. If we do our work heartily for the Lord, no task is mundane; it is an act of worship. There is no sacred-secular dichotomy (separation) in the theology of Paul. That is, there is no sphere of activity or labor on earth which is somehow disconnected with one's relationship to the Lord (v. 17; whatever you do). The false teachers of gnosticism believed that the Colossians should concentrate on higher level of thought and life which was more spiritual and important than the mundane routine of normal every-day life. Surely these routine things must be avoided, even discarded, as much as possible to allow for further contemplation of the higher life of pure spirit—the ultimate goal of escape from the human body. God was not concerned, they taught, about the body nor the things associated with the body—like work. Paul believed otherwise. Work was the normal means of submitting to the lordship of Christ. Most of man's life consists in his work, and if his work becomes disconnected to his faith, then most of his life is spent in faithlessness—and “whatever is not from faith is sin” (Rom. 14: 23b). On the other hand, anyone who submits his work to God will be rewarded for any good deed done “in the name of the Lord Jesus.” (⁷“With good will render service, as to the Lord, and not to men,⁸ knowing that whatever good thing each one does, this he will receive back from the Lord, whether slave or free”; Ephesians 6:7-8 NASB).

It is worthy of notice that Paul wrote one verse each instructing wives, husbands, children, fathers, and masters, and three lengthy verses instructing slaves. In Eph. 5—6, husbands receive most of the emphasis, but even in that passage, slaves are given four verses. Why this emphasis upon slaves? For one thing, many Christians were slaves, and few were masters—plain and simple (1 Cor. 1: 26). However, this was not the primary reason for the emphasis upon slaves. Paul was dealing with a very fundamental aspect of one's life—his work. Marriage and family was certainly fundamental, and faithfulness in this sphere was crucial for the evangelistic witness of the church. But faithfulness in this other fundamental area was also crucial. If the Christian faith produced slackness in work, insolence and disrespect, and unreliability among Christian slaves, the name of God and the Christian faith would be dishonored throughout Roman and Greek society (cf. 1 Tim. 6: 1). Faith in Christ would be viewed, therefore, as a threat to social and political order. On the other hand, if slaves (doulos) would demonstrate faithfulness in the mundane, sometimes distasteful tasks set before them—doing their work as for the Lord—then God would be honored among the heathen. Why? Because others—including non-Christian masters and slaves—would see that the Christian God was worthy of being worshiped even in spite of unpleasant external circumstances. Who was in a better position than a common slave to proclaim the wonder, joy, and freedom of Christian salvation?

Giving thanks—mentioned three times in Col. 3—is crucial to the success of doing one's work heartily. To do good work, we must be thankful that God has given us work to do and that we have a Savior for whom to work. Most people have nothing but themselves or a boss to work for, but we have a Lord who also loved us enough to die for us, and loves us still to intercede for us daily before the throne of God the Father. How many bosses do we know who do this?

Christian masters (employers), on the other hand, must be this kind of boss because their Master in heaven is this kind of boss (4: 1). Jesus is the kind of Master that every master and employer on earth must imitate—fair, just, kind, generous, understanding, humble, forgiving, and impartial. Earthly masters must give up threatening (Eph. 6: 9) as a means of motivation, but through kindness and generosity should set a Christ-like example. Through the kindness of their masters, many slaves would be won to the Christian faith; and the mutually respectful relationship between Christian masters and Christian slaves would be a witness to God's glory.

G. Suggested meaning blocks of Colossians 3: 17—4: 1

- (242) ¹⁷ Whatever you do in word or deed,
 (243) do all in the name of the Lord Jesus,
 (244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

J

Everything you do must be done with the goal of honoring Christ, whose name is either honored or dishonored by the way believers treat one another. Further, everything must be done with an attitude of thanksgiving to God the Father for what He has done for us through Jesus Christ. Thankfulness is the mark of true Christian distinguishing him from the ingratitude of unbelievers (cf. Rom. 1: 21a).

- (245) 18 Wives, be subject to your husbands,
 (246) as is fitting in the Lord.

K

Wives should submit to their husbands as far as the higher authority of Christ allows. They should do this because Christ has given the husband spiritual authority over the wife.

- (247) ¹⁹ Husbands, love your wives
 (248) and do not be embittered against them.

L

Husbands should love their wives in practical, observable ways and should avoid all harshness or bitterness toward the imperfect behavior of their wives. The compassion and kindness they owe to others surely must be evident in their marriage.

- (249) ²⁰ Children, be obedient to your parents in all things,
 (250) for this is well-pleasing to the Lord.

M

Children must submit to the authority of their parents as far as the authority of Christ allows. This is pleasing to the Lord who established the home as the basic authority structure of society.

- (251) ²¹ Fathers, do not exasperate your children,
 (252) so that they will not lose heart.

N

Fathers should not be over-zealous or unrealistic in their correction and training of children. If they do so, their children may lose any hope of doing anything right. Discipline should be a mixture of both positive and negative exhortations, not just negative criticism.

(253) 22 Slaves, in all things obey
 (254) those who are your masters on earth,
 (255) not with external service,
 (256) as those who merely please men,
 (257) but with sincerity of heart,
 (258) fearing the Lord.

O

Slaves must submit to their earthly masters as far as the authority of Christ will allow. They should do this because God has ordered society in such a way that there are some who are in authority and others who are under authority. Any other ordering of society would result in chaos and the tyranny of pure democracy where everyone does what is right in his own eyes (Judges 17: 6; 21: 25). Slaves should submit to their masters with the goal of pleasing Christ and not men, knowing that Christ is watching everything they do.

(259) ²³ Whatever you do,
 (260) do your work heartily,
 (261) as for the Lord
 (262) rather than for men,

P

It does not matter what kind of work you do or how unpleasant it may seem. The important thing to understand is that you are doing it for the Lord and not for men. For this reason, you should be able to do any kind of work heartily—from the heart—knowing that you are doing it for the Lord.

(263) ²⁴ knowing that from the Lord
 (264) you will receive the reward of the inheritance.
 (265) It is the Lord Christ whom you serve.

Q

Anything you do for the Lord will be rewarded by the Lord Himself. This reward is not the reward of eternal life, but special rewards for services rendered that are included in the inheritance (cf. Eph. 6: 5-8).

(266) ²⁵ For he who does wrong
 (267) will receive the consequences
 (268) of the wrong which he has done,
 (269) and that without partiality.

R

The additional incentives for faithful service are the consequences for unfaithful service. Not only are there rewards in heaven for obedience, but there are consequences for disobedience—whether a man is a slave or a free man makes no difference. All will be judged (cf. 2 Cor. 5: 10; Matt. 16: 27).

(270) ¹ Masters, grant to your slaves justice and fairness,
 (271) knowing that you too have a Master in heaven.

S

Masters must recognize that they also are men under authority, the authority of the Master in heaven. As their Master is always fair and just, so also should they.

Note to the reader: These meaning blocks were actually worked out in my head before I wrote the summaries of each section—Col. 3: 1-4; 3: 5-11; 3: 12-17; and 3: 17—4: 1. I simply put them all together here.

Excursus: Review of Wolvaardt's Five Steps of Exegesis

Wolvaardt lists five Steps of Exegesis (p. 79). For those who do not have his book, How to Interpret the Bible—A Do-It-Yourself-Manual, I will reproduce them here with further comments.

1. Research the communication situation. Study the historical context of the text under examination, including the questions: Who wrote the book, to whom, under what circumstances, for what purpose, etc. (see Wolvaardt, HTIB, p. 81; my notes on Hermeneutics, II. The Context,

D. Historical-Cultural Context, pp. 34-38). In addition to the Bible, other sources may be consulted such as Bible dictionaries, encyclopedias, notes in study Bibles (your best source outside the Bible itself) etc. Remember also that the very best source of information about any single text in the Bible is the Bible itself (look at the cross references in the margins of your study Bibles!). We have not spent any time on these questions; however, by studying the text itself, much of the historical context can be discovered even without consulting outside sources. (See my Hermeneutics, II. The Context, B. The Context of the Book in which the Passage is Found, pp. 26-30.)

2. Establish the Literary Context. This includes the study of the text itself (cf. III. Literary Context, from your notes). What kind of literary genre (form) is under examination: (1) the exposition and exhortation of the NT epistles; (2) the poetry of Psalms, Proverbs, other wisdom books, and the prophets; (3) apocalyptic literature of Revelation or Daniel; (4) the narratives of the OT, Acts, or the Gospels; (5) the parables of Jesus; or (6) a mixture of several types, as in the prophets? The type of genre used will determine the strategy for interpretation. (See my Hermeneutics; Synoptic Gospels; Wisdom Literature; Major and Minor Prophets; and Biblical Interpretation—the Synoptic Gospels; Biblical Interpretation—OT Narratives; and Biblical Interpretation—Old Testament Poetry

3. Analyze the Passage. Wolvaardt breaks this step down into five separate steps:

3.1 Write out the passage in smaller units.

3.2 Mark the significant meaning indicators (cf. I. Meaning Indicators: A. Persons, things, events, and attributes, B. Stylistic features, C. Relationships between the different syntactic units, from your notes).

3.3 Explain words and phrases (cf. II. The meaning of words and phrases from your notes).

3.4 Establish the meaning structure. This step includes the identification of meaning blocks. However, one must first study the historical context (1), the literary context (2) and analyze the passage (3.1, 3.2, and 3.3) before he is able to determine blocks of meaning.

3.5 Conclude and summarize the message to the original receiver. Summarize the meaning of the text in your own words, using the words of the Biblical author as sparingly as possible. If you cannot summarize the meaning in your own words, you don't understand the text.

4. Relate message to broader biblical and theological framework. (cf. II. The meaning of words and phrases, from your notes which includes a discussion of the analogy of faith. See also my notes on Hermeneutics, "The Analogy of Faith"). If our interpretation contradicts the plain teaching of the Bible elsewhere, then something is wrong with our interpretation—unless, of course, we were mistaken about what we thought the Bible taught, which is very possible. This leads to the last step.

5. Read interpretations of others (e.g. commentaries). Don't be arrogant. The Holy Spirit was teaching His church centuries before you were born, and He will be doing so centuries after you are dead. Allow the Holy Spirit to teach you through what He has taught others. Men of God have spent lifetimes studying the scriptures in the original languages. They are God's gifts to His church (Eph. 4: 11-14); use them. However, Wolvaardt is correct in putting this step last. Because of our inherent laziness, our first tendency is to grab a commentary off the shelf before we have spent extensive time and effort interpreting the text ourselves. We like short cuts to any hard labor. But our laziness robs us of any self-discovery of what the text teaches. It also makes us too susceptible to the opinions of scholars who may be mistaken in their interpretation.

Besides, many African pastors today will not have a large library of commentaries to use in their study of the text, and this situation is not likely to change in the near future.

H. Possible Sermon Outline for Colossians 3: 17—4: 1

Main Idea: Everything we do in life must be done for the purpose of honoring the name of Christ and showing our gratitude to Him for what He has done.

This elicits (brings up) a question from the text: What are the most common activities and responsibilities for all people? The answer is: marriage, family, and one's occupation or labor. To carry this further, what are the responsibilities of marriage, family, and occupation which are most likely to bring friction and strife within each of these spheres of activity? The answer is: submission to the authority established by God. This was obviously the point of friction in Colossae and Ephesus—failure to submit willingly and heartily to authority in those ordinary and mundane tasks God had given them. Why else would Paul mention the exhortations in Col. 3?

The question, therefore, which I would use as the basis for my sermon is this: What does it mean to submit to authority as a wife, husband, child, slave, and master? If you are asking about why I included husbands and masters, the answer is simple: Everyone must submit to some kind of authority. Implicit in Col. 4: 1 is the necessity for the master (the employer) to submit to Christ, his master. The same is certainly true of the husband, for Paul commands the husband to love his wife—not a polite suggestion, but an imperative demanding compliance (obedience). Loving one's wife in ways she can understand is not an option for husbands, but is part of their submission to Christ. Thus, the outline would look something like this:

Revised Main Idea: Honoring the name of Christ in every part of our lives must include grateful submission to His authority in marriage, in family, and in our jobs.

But what does this mean? How do we practice submission to Christ in all these crucial areas?

I. Wives must submit to their own husbands as if they were submitting to Christ.

A. The Pattern of Submission—the church's submission to Christ

B. The Limitations of Submission—as far as the authority of Christ allows (She cannot submit to her husband in ways which violate her submission to Christ's authority.)

II. Husbands must love their own wives in observable, practical ways.

A. The Pattern of Submission—Christ's self-sacrifice for His church (note: This is not in the Colossians text, but any treatment of this subject would need to use the Ephesians text as well as the Colossians text.)

B. The Limitations of Submission—as far as the authority of Christ allows (That is, the husband cannot "love" his wife in ways which violate his loyalty to Christ, for this would not be true love. For example, he cannot allow her to be the head of the family since Christ has given this responsibility to him. Thus, it is not love by which a husband becomes subordinate to his wife.)

III. Children must obey their parents as if they were obeying Christ.

A. The Pattern of Submission—Christ's submission to His heavenly father

B. The Limitations of Submission—as far as the authority of Christ allows (Thus, children are not the slaves of their parents who must do anything they ask. They must obey only if obedience does not violate the law of God. Children are first and foremost, the slaves of Christ).

IV. Employees must obey their employers in everything related to their jobs.

A. The Pattern of Submission—Slavery to Christ (You are really working for Christ, and this knowledge will make all the difference in the way you work.)

B. The Limitations of Submission—as far as the authority of Christ allows (Employees must not do anything which violates the Law of God, even if it results in getting fired.)

V. Employers must treat their employees fairly and justly.

A. The Pattern of Submission—Christ as the benevolent master who is always just and fair. (Employers do not have the liberty of treating employees any way they please, but must honor the pattern of Christ's mastery over the church. If they choose to mistreat them, then their Master in heaven will discipline them accordingly.)

B. The Limitations of Submission—as far as the authority of Christ allows (Employers must maintain proper leadership over their employees so that their authority is not despised or treated with contempt. Contempt for authority in any sphere of society is contempt of Christ who established the authority structures in society. The tyranny of the employer must not be replaced with the tyranny of the labor force—which is what happens with labor unions on strike which hold their employers hostage to their demands or students at a university striking against the administration. The position of leadership implies the responsibility of leadership.)

Quite obviously, this “sermon”—with due preparation—would actually become a series of sermons covering these crucial areas of obedience to authority. You could develop a whole seminar on marriage, family, and work from this outline.

VIII. Exegesis of Colossians 4: 2-18

A. Meaning Indicators

B. Stylistic Features

(272) ² Devote yourselves to prayer,

(273) keeping alert in it with an attitude of thanksgiving;

(274) ³ praying at the same time for us as well,

(275) that God will open up to us a door for the word,

(276) so that we may speak forth the mystery of Christ,

(277) for which I have also been imprisoned;

(278) ⁴ that I may make it clear in the way I ought to speak.

a

Devotion to prayer.

b

The key idea is keeping alert in prayer.

a

Devotion to prayer.

b

The key idea is alertness to the opportunity which God affords—an open door for preaching.

May speak forth; may make clear; ought to speak are subjunctive verbs which are usually translated in English in the future tense—“will”—or with “may”. The subjunctive mood gives the idea of contingency or uncertainty—something may or may not happen.

(279) ⁵ Conduct yourselves WITH WISDOM toward outsiders,

(280) making the most of the opportunity.

(281) ⁶ Let your speech always be WITH GRACE,

(282) as though seasoned WITH SALT,

Salt is used here as a metaphor for grace. Thus, I gave it the same symbol.

(283) SO THAT you will know (284) how you should respond to each person

(285) ⁷ As to all my affairs,

(286) Tychicus, our beloved brother and faithful servant

(287) and fellow bond-servant in the Lord,

(288) will bring you information.

(289) ⁸ For I have sent him to you for this very purpose,

(290) that you may know about our circumstances

(291) AND that he may encourage your hearts;

(292) ⁹ and with him Onesimus, our faithful and beloved brother,

(293) who is one of your number.

(294) They will inform you about the whole situation here.

(295) ¹⁰ Aristarchus, my fellow prisoner,

(296) sends you his greetings;

(297) and also Barnabas's cousin Mark

(298) (about whom you received instructions;

(299) if he comes to you, [then—implied] welcome him);

I have marked Tychicus, brother, servant, and bond-servant with the same symbol. In this way we can see that Paul is talking about the same person.

Affairs, information, purpose, circumstances, encourage, whole situation—Paul was in prison in Rome (Acts 28: 16-31); and, naturally, the Colossians would be concerned about his welfare. Thus, Paul wanted them to know that he was okay. Notices L285-294. Our circumstances refers the reader to Aristarchus, Paul's fellow prisoner.

Notice all the people mentioned in these few verses. Paul did not do ministry alone, but had many faithful workers who labored alongside him. "Two are better than one because they have a good return for their labor."¹⁰ For if either of them falls, the one will lift up his companion. But woe to the one who falls when there is not another to lift him up. (Ecc. 4:9-10 NASB; cf. Lk. 10: 1).

- (300) ¹¹ and also Jesus who is called Justus;

- (301) these are the only fellow workers for the kingdom of God

- (302) who are from the circumcision,

- (303) AND they have proved to be an encouragement to me.

- (304) ¹² Epaphras, who is one of your number,

- (305) a bondsman of Jesus Christ,

- (306) sends you his greetings,

- (307) always laboring earnestly for you in his prayers,

- (308) that you may stand PERFECT

- (309) AND FULLY ASSURED in all the will of God.

- (310) ¹³ For I testify for him

- (311) that he has a deep concern for you

- (312) AND for those who are in Laodicea and Hierapolis.

- (313) ¹⁴ Luke, the beloved physician, sends you his greetings,

- (314) and also Demas.

- (315) ¹⁵ Greet the brethren who are in Laodicea

- (316) and also Nympha and the church that is in her house.

- (317) ¹⁶ When this letter is read among you,

- (318) have it also read in the church of the Laodiceans;

- (319) and you, for your part

- (320) read my letter that is coming from Laodicea.

Once again, look at the network of people with whom Paul had been involved in ministry. Pastors need a network of people for mutual encouragement. Notice also the number of times greetings are mentioned. This is characteristic of Paul's letters.

Not all of Paul's associates remained faithful (cf. 2 Tim. 4: 10).

Paul's letters circulated among the churches to establish the apostolic tradition, and he understood that his letters had apostolic authority. "If anyone thinks he is a prophet or spiritual, let him recognize that the things which I write to you are the Lord's commandment." ³⁸ But if anyone does not recognize this, he is not recognized." (1 Corinthians 14:37-38 NASB).

(321) ¹⁷ Say to Archippus, “Take heed to the ministry

(322) which you have received in the Lord,

(323) that you may fulfill it.”

(324) 18 I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand.

(325) Remember my imprisonment.

(326) Grace be with you.

A signature of authentication. Paul's signature would be recognized by the church to prevent fraud.

This is Paul's first imprisonment. Demas deserted him during his second imprisonment in Rome (2 Tim. 4: 10)

IX. Appendix to Interpreting New Testament Epistles

A. Clues for Finding the Author's Main Topics and Ideas

(Taken from Doriani, Getting the Message, “Analyzing Discourse”, p. 79)

1. Location—The main idea frequently occurs in the first or the last sentence of a section or paragraph, or in both.
2. Restatement—Authors restate, repeat, or return to the main concept.
3. Direct Address—Authors may address their hearers before stating a main idea e.g. “Brothers”, “Dear friends”.
4. Introductory Formulas—To draw attention to their chief points, authors introduce them with phrases like “I want you to know” or “I write these things to you so that”.
5. Concluding Formulas—Look for words that summarize a discussion, such as therefore, thus, or so.

Example:

“Therefore I urge you, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living and holy sacrifice, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service of worship.² And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, so that you may prove what the will of God is, that which is good and acceptable and perfect. (Romans 12:1-2 NASB)

1. “Present your bodies”—the first proposition in the paragraph.
2. No restatement in this example.
3. “Brethren”—direct address
4. “I urge you”—introductory formula
5. “Therefore”—concluding formula

General Principles for Discourse Analysis

(Taken from Doriani, pp. 81-91)

Principle 1: Look for words and phrases that explicitly connect one idea to another. Some of the most common connecting words are but, if, then, therefore, for, so that. Other English connecting words are because, so, since, when, just as, in order that, while, after, etc. These terms connect phrases within sentences, not just whole sentences.

Principle 2: Look for implicit and understated connections. For example, the connection between Matt. 18: 17 and 18 and between Matt. 18: 20 and 21.

Relations Between Propositions: A Simple English-Based Model (Dorani—p.89)

1. Addition and Subtraction—A simple sequence of events connected by but, and, and then.
B-A-T

a. But statements contrast two propositions—they subtract or take away something from another statement. (Yet, on the contrary, on the other hand, however, are other words indicating subtraction.)

b. And statements add ideas. (And, also, furthermore, moreover, and in addition).

c. Then propositions describe sequences of events. (Before, after, then, next, during, while, and meanwhile are other sequence words.)

2. Cause and Effect—when one statement gives reasons, results, means, conditions, or conclusions to be drawn from another. P-R-I-C-E: purpose, reasoning, if-then, concession, effect.

a. Purpose statements—describe actions taken in order to obtain specific results. They tell why an action takes place. (so that, in order to, or to by itself, [as part of an infinitive])

b. Reasoning statements—draw conclusions from prior assertions or state the basis for conclusions that have already been stated. (therefore, thus, so, since, then, consequently, for, for this reason, because as well as combinations of these words)

c. If-then statements—express possibility. What is actually possible, or something that is impossible because of certain conditions. (If...then, but the then is often not stated but is assumed)

d. Concession statements—concede that one thing is true even though we have reason to expect another. “We had a wonderful picnic even though it rained” (Although, even though, nevertheless, in spite of, yet, and nonetheless)

e. Effect statements—one proposition describes what happened or what is true and the second explains how or why it came about. “Since it rained so hard, we had to cancel the football game.” (since, because, then, and consequently)

3. Clarification and Explanation

a. Introductions—formulas such as I urge you, I want you to know, truly I say to you, thus says the Lord, the Scripture says prepare readers for important statements that follow.

b. Summaries and restatements—remind readers of what has gone before often before starting a new topic.

c. Illustrations—use events, stories, or figures of speech to make an abstract idea more concrete, or to add an emotional component to a passage.

B. Meaning Indicator Symbols

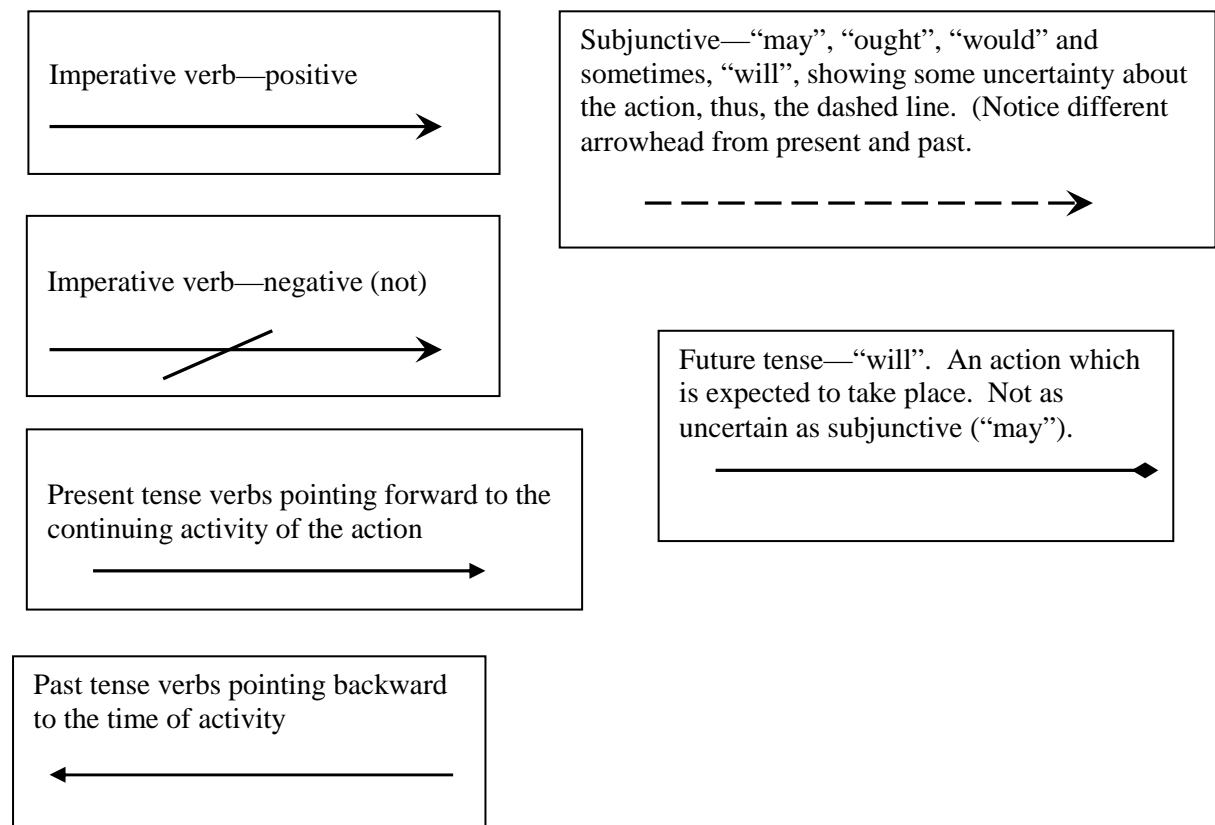

These are most of the symbols I have used throughout our study of Colossians. They are computer-generated, but would not be difficult to reproduce manually. I am giving them to you as an example of what you should do as you are studying through an entire book of the Bible. As you move through each section marking the indicators, keep a record of the symbols you are using. In this way, you can be consistent in your marking which will lead to more consistency in your understanding of the text.

1. Marking persons, things, characteristics (descriptions of things or persons).

	God; God the Father		Christ, the Lord; Jesus Christ		reward, crown
	Unbelievers, outsiders, sons of disobedience				Specific person (different shades)
	Church, saints		No one		Children
	We; us		dead		alive
	New man, new self
	Circumcision		uncircumcision		Word of God; gospel; wisdom instruction
	Throne, dominion, kingdom, rule, authority		earth		ministry
	Baptism		Beloved		Love, concern
	Peace		Creation, created thing		Faithful
	Faith
	Heaven		Attributes of God		consequences
	Certificate of debt, sin, wrong, transgression, law		Cross of Christ		Attributes of Christ
	Thanksgiving, thanks		prison, prisoner		Fellowship, fellow, unity
	Physical body		Justice and fairness		holy heart
	Prayer		Hope

2. Marking Events

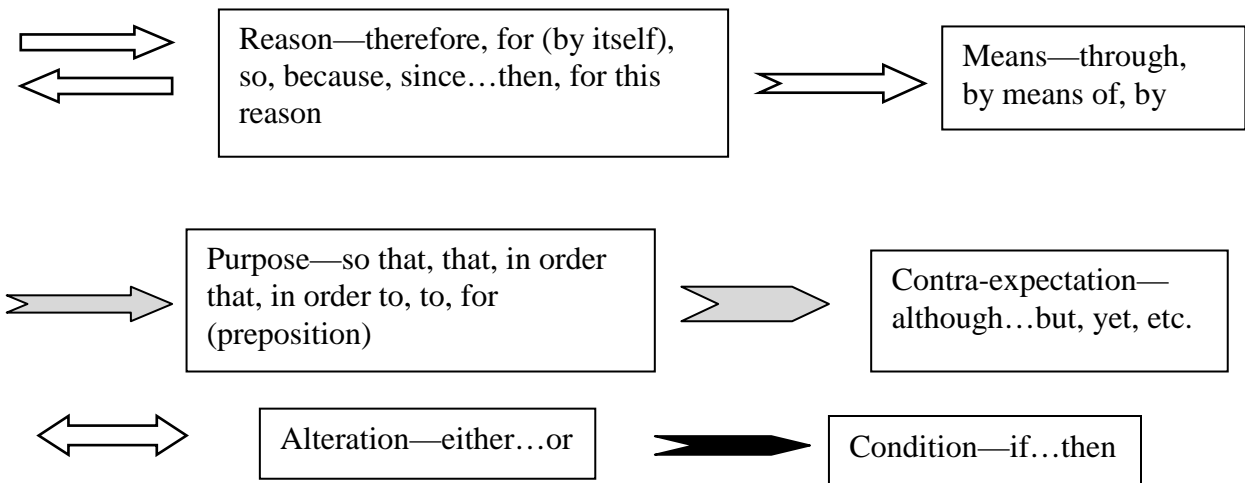

2. Marking Relationships Between the Different Syntactical Units

a. Time

b. Causality

Develop a system for marking the indicators.

1. Mark all the persons.
2. Mark all the things which are not persons.
3. Mark all events (verbs) using underlining or arrows.
4. Mark syntactical relationships of causality and time.
5. Mark stylistic features—parallelisms and chiasms (if any. Do not expect to see parallelisms and chiasms everywhere.)

C. Meaning Indicator Symbols for Colossians 1: 1-20

(1) 1 Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ

(2) by the will of God,

(3) and Timothy our brother,

(4) 2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ

(5) who are at Colossae:

(6) Grace to you and peace from God our Father.

(7) 3 We give thanks to God,

(8) the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

(9) praying always for you,

(10) ⁽⁴⁾ since we heard

(11) of your faith in Christ Jesus

(12) and the love which you have for all the saints;

(13) ⁽⁵⁾ because of the hope laid up for you in heaven,

(14) of which you previously heard

(15) in the word of truth, the gospel ⁶ which has come to you,

(16) just as in all the world also

(17) it is constantly bearing fruit and increasing,

(18) even as it has been doing in you also

(19) since the day you heard of it

(20) and understood the grace of God in truth;

“praying” is present tense, continuous activity, thus the arrow points forward

“heard” is past activity thus the arrow points backward to a previous time

(21) ⁷ just as you learned it from Epaphras,

(22) our beloved fellow bond-servant,

(23) who is a faithful servant of Christ on our behalf,

(24) ⁸ and he also informed us of your love in the Spirit.

(25) 9 For this reason also,

(26) since the day we heard of it,

(27) we have not ceased to pray for you

(28) and to ask that you may be filled

(29) with the knowledge of His will

(30) in all spiritual wisdom and understanding,

(31) ¹⁰ so that you will walk in a manner worthy of the Lord,

(32) to please Him in all respects,

(33) bearing fruit in every good work

(34) and increasing in the knowledge of God;

(35) ¹¹ strengthened with all power,

(36) according to His glorious might,

(37) for the attaining of all steadfastness and patience;

(38) joyously ¹² giving thanks to the Father,

(39) who has qualified us to share in the inheritance

“may be filled” is subjunctive mood which means the action is potential or not already completed.

“Will walk”, “to please”, “bearing”, “increasing”, are all verbs which are potential, not actual. That is, Paul is exhorting them to walk in such a manner from this point and into the future that they will be pleasing to the Lord, bearing fruit and increasing. They are doing this now, but He wants them to continue this activity into the future. Therefore I have used the future verb symbol.

(40) of the saints in Light.

(41) ¹³ For He rescued us from the domain of darkness,

(42) and transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son,

(43) ¹⁴ in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.

(44) 15 He is the image of the invisible God,

(45) the firstborn of all creation.

(46) ¹⁶ For by Him all things were created,

(47) both in the heavens and on earth,

(48) visible and invisible,

(49) whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—

(50) all things have been created

(51) through Him and for Him.

(52) ¹⁷ He is before all things,

(53) and in Him all things hold together.

(54) ¹⁸ He is also head of the body, the church;

(55) and He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead,

(56) so that

(57) He Himself will come to have first place in everything.

(58) ¹⁹ For it was the Father's good pleasure

(59) for all the fullness to dwell in Him,

(60) ²⁰ and through Him to reconcile all things to Himself,

(61) having made peace through the blood of His cross;

(62) through Him, I say,

(63) whether things on earth or things in heaven.

"will come to have" is actually a subjunctive verb. In this case, the action is not uncertain but potential. That is, the action has not already taken place.

D. Cross-references to Different Words in Colossians

1. "Darkness" and "Light"

"THE PEOPLE WHO WERE SITTING IN DARKNESS SAW A GREAT LIGHT, AND THOSE WHO WERE SITTING IN THE LAND AND SHADOW OF DEATH, UPON THEM A LIGHT DAWNED." (Matthew 4:16 NAU)

"The eye is the lamp of the body; so then if your eye is clear, your whole body will be full of light. ²³ "But if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If then the light that is in you is darkness, how great is the darkness! (Matthew 6:22-23 NAU)

"I say to you that many will come from east and west, and recline at the table with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven; ¹² but the sons of the kingdom will be cast out into the outer darkness; in that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matthew 8:11-12 NAU)

The Light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it. ⁶ There came a man sent from God, whose name was John. ⁷ He came as a witness, to testify about the Light, so that all might believe through him. ⁸ He was not the Light, but he came to testify about the Light. ⁹ There was the true Light which, coming into the world, enlightens every man. (John 1:5-9 NAU)

"This is the judgment, that the Light has come into the world, and men loved the darkness rather than the Light, for their deeds were evil. (John 3:19 NAU)

Then Jesus again spoke to them, saying, "I am the Light of the world; he who follows Me will not walk in the darkness, but will have the Light of life." (John 8:12 NAU)

"I have come as Light into the world, so that everyone who believes in Me will not remain in darkness. (John 12:46 NAU)

For God, who said, "Light shall shine out of darkness," is the One who has shone in our hearts to give the Light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Christ. (2 Corinthians 4:6 NAU)

Then God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. ⁴ God saw that the light was good; and God separated the light from the darkness. (Genesis 1:3-4 NAU)

Do not be bound together with unbelievers; for what partnership have righteousness and lawlessness, or what fellowship has light with darkness? (2 Corinthians 6:14 NAU)

For He rescued us from the domain of darkness, and transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son, (Colossians 1:13 NAU)

for you were formerly darkness, but now you are Light in the Lord; walk as children of Light (Ephesians 5:8 NAU)

Do not participate in the unfruitful deeds of darkness, but instead even expose them; (Ephesians 5:11 NAU)

For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the powers, against the world forces of this darkness, against the spiritual forces of wickedness in the heavenly places. (Ephesians 6:12 NAU)

But you, brethren, are not in darkness, that the day would overtake you like a thief; ⁵ for you are all sons of light and sons of day. We are not of night nor of darkness; (1 Thessalonians 5:4-5 NAU)

But you are A CHOSEN RACE, A royal PRIESTHOOD, A HOLY NATION, A PEOPLE FOR God's OWN POSSESSION, so that you may proclaim the excellencies of Him who has called you out of darkness into His marvelous light; (1 Peter 2:9 NAU)

If we say that we have fellowship with Him and yet walk in the darkness, we lie and do not practice the truth; (1 John 1:6 NAU)

On the other hand, I am writing a new commandment to you, which is true in Him and in you, because the darkness is passing away and the true Light is already shining. ⁹ The one who says he is in the Light and yet hates his brother is in the darkness until now. ¹⁰ The one who loves his brother abides in the Light and there is no cause for stumbling in him. ¹¹ But the one who hates his brother is in the darkness and walks in the darkness, and does not know where he is going because the darkness has blinded his eyes. (1 John 2:8-11 NAU)

2. "kingdom", "rulers", "authorities"

"Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." (Matthew 3:2 NAU)

"Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:3 NAU)

"Blessed are those who have been persecuted for the sake of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:10 NAU)

"Whoever then annuls one of the least of these commandments, and teaches others to do the same, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever keeps and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.²⁰ "For I say to you that unless your righteousness surpasses that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:19-20 NAU)

'Your kingdom come. Your will be done, On earth as it is in heaven. (Matthew 6:10 NAU)

"But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things will be added to you. (Matthew 6:33 NAU)

"Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father who is in heaven will enter. (Matthew 7:21 NAU)

Or do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived; neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor homosexuals,¹⁰ nor thieves, nor the covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor swindlers, will inherit the kingdom of God. (1 Corinthians 6:9-10 NAU)

Now the deeds of the flesh are evident, which are: immorality, impurity, sensuality,²⁰ idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousy, outbursts of anger, disputes, dissensions, factions,²¹ envying, drunkenness, carousing, and things like these, of which I forewarn you, just as I have forewarned you, that those who practice such things will not inherit the kingdom of God. (Galatians 5:19-21 NAU)

For this you know with certainty, that no immoral or impure person or covetous man, who is an idolater, has an inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God. (Ephesians 5:5 NAU)

so that you would walk in a manner worthy of the God who calls you into His own kingdom and glory. (1 Thessalonians 2:12 NAU)

"Now judgment is upon this world; now the ruler of this world will be cast out. (John 12:31 NAU)

"And He, when He comes, will convict the world concerning sin and righteousness and judgment;⁹ concerning sin, because they do not believe in Me;¹⁰ and concerning righteousness, because I go to the Father and you no longer see Me;¹¹ and concerning judgment, because the ruler of this world has been judged. (John 16:8-11 NAU)

To me, the very least of all saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unfathomable riches of Christ,⁹ and to bring to light what is the administration of the mystery which for ages has been hidden in God who created all things;¹⁰ so that the manifold wisdom of God might now be made known through the church to the rulers and the authorities in the heavenly places. (Ephesians 3:8-10 NAU)

For by Him all things were created, both in the heavens and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities-- all things have been created through Him and for Him. (Colossians 1:16 NAU)

When He had disarmed the rulers and authorities, He made a public display of them, having triumphed over them through Him. (Colossians 2:15 NAU)

Corresponding to that, baptism now saves you-- not the removal of dirt from the flesh, but an appeal to God for a good conscience-- through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,²² who is at the right hand of God, having gone into heaven, after angels and authorities and powers had been subjected to Him. (1 Peter 3:21-22 NAU)

Remind them to be subject to rulers, to authorities, to be obedient, to be ready for every good deed, (Titus 3:1 NAU)

Every person is to be in subjection to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and those which exist are established by God. (Romans 13:1 NAU)

3. "image"

Then God said, "Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; and let them rule over the fish of the sea and over the birds of the sky and over the cattle and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth."²⁷ God created man in His own image, in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them. (Genesis 1:26-27 NAU)

For those whom He foreknew, He also predestined to become conformed to the image of His Son, so that He would be the firstborn among many brethren; (Romans 8:29 NAU)

Just as we have borne the image of the earthy, we will also bear the image of the heavenly. (1 Corinthians 15:49 NAU)

And just as we have borne the likeness of the earthly man, so shall we bear the likeness of the man from heaven. (1 Corinthians 15:49 NIV)

Just as we have borne the image of the man of dust, we shall also bear the image of the man of heaven. (1 Corinthians 15:49 ESV)

But we all, with unveiled face, beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from glory to glory, just as from the Lord, the Spirit. (2 Corinthians 3:18 NAU)

And we, who with unveiled faces all reflect the Lord's glory, are being transformed into his likeness with ever-increasing glory, which comes from the Lord, who is the Spirit. (2 Corinthians 3:18 NIV)

And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit. (2 Corinthians 3:18 ESV)

And even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled to those who are perishing,⁴ in whose case the god of this world has blinded the minds of the unbelieving so that they might not see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. (2 Corinthians 4:3-4 NAU)

He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. (Colossians 1:15 NAU)

Do not lie to one another, since you laid aside the old self with its evil practices,¹⁰ and have put on the new self who is being renewed to a true knowledge according to the image of the One who created him—¹¹ a renewal in which there is no distinction between Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave and freeman, but Christ is all, and in all. (Colossians 3:9-11 NAU)

that, in reference to your former manner of life, you lay aside the old self, which is being corrupted in accordance with the lusts of deceit,²³ and that you be renewed in the spirit of your mind,²⁴ and put on the new self, which in the likeness of God has been created in righteousness and holiness of the truth. (Ephesians 4:22-24 NAU)

4. "firstborn"

"Then you shall say to Pharaoh, 'Thus says the LORD, "Israel is My son, My firstborn."²³ "So I said to you, 'Let My son go that he may serve Me'; but you have refused to let him go. Behold, I will kill your son, your firstborn.'"" (Exodus 4:22-23 NAU)

¹² 'For I will go through the land of Egypt on that night, and will strike down all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgments—I am the LORD. (Exodus 12:11-12 NAU)

"Sanctify to Me every firstborn, the first offspring of every womb among the sons of Israel, both of man and beast; it belongs to Me." (Exodus 13:2 NAU)

"But every first offspring of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb, but if you do not redeem it, then you shall break its neck; and every firstborn of man among your sons you shall redeem."¹⁴ "And it shall be when your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is this?' then you shall say to him, 'With a powerful hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, from the house of slavery.'¹⁵ 'It came about, when Pharaoh was stubborn about letting us go, that the LORD killed every firstborn in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of man and the firstborn of beast. Therefore, I sacrifice to the LORD the males, the first offspring of every womb, but every firstborn of my sons I redeem.' (Exodus 13:13-15 NAU)

"You shall not delay the offering from your harvest and your vintage. The firstborn of your sons you shall give to Me. (Exodus 22:29 NAU)

"You shall redeem with a lamb the first offspring from a donkey; and if you do not redeem it, then you shall break its neck. You shall redeem all the firstborn of your sons. None shall appear before Me empty-handed. (Exodus 34:20 NAU)

'However, a firstborn among animals, which as a firstborn belongs to the LORD, no man may consecrate it; whether ox or sheep, it is the LORD'S. (Leviticus 27:26 NAU)

"Now, behold, I have taken the Levites from among the sons of Israel instead of every firstborn, the first issue of the womb among the sons of Israel. So the Levites shall be Mine."¹³ "For all the firstborn are Mine; on the day that I struck down all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified to Myself all the firstborn in Israel, from man to beast. They shall be Mine; I am the LORD." (Numbers 3:12-13 NAU)

"Thus you shall separate the Levites from among the sons of Israel, and the Levites shall be Mine."¹⁵ "Then after that the Levites may go in to serve the tent of meeting. But you shall cleanse them and present them as a wave offering;¹⁶ for they are wholly given to Me from among the sons of Israel. I have taken them for Myself instead of every first issue of the womb, the firstborn of all the sons of Israel."¹⁷ "For every firstborn among the sons of Israel is Mine, among the men and among the animals; on the day that I struck down all the firstborn in the land of Egypt I sanctified them for Myself."¹⁸ "But I have taken the Levites instead of every firstborn among the sons of Israel. (Numbers 8:14-18 NAU)

"If a man has two wives, the one loved and the other unloved, and both the loved and the unloved have borne him sons, if the firstborn son belongs to the unloved, ¹⁶ then it shall be in the day he wills what he has to his sons, he cannot make the son of the loved the firstborn before the son of the unloved, who is the firstborn. ¹⁷ "But he shall acknowledge the firstborn, the son of the unloved, by giving him a double portion of all that he has, for he is the beginning of his strength; to him belongs the right of the firstborn. (Deuteronomy 21:15-17 NAU)

For those whom He foreknew, He also predestined to become conformed to the image of His Son, so that He would be the firstborn among many brethren; (Romans 8:29 NAU)

to the general assembly and church of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God, the Judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect, (Hebrews 12:23 NAU)

John to the seven churches that are in Asia: Grace to you and peace, from Him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven Spirits who are before His throne, ⁵ and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of the kings of the earth. To Him who loves us and released us from our sins by His blood—(Revelation 1:4-5 NAU)

5. "head" and "fullness"

Be imitators of me, just as I also am of Christ. ² Now I praise you because you remember me in everything and hold firmly to the traditions, just as I delivered them to you. ³ But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ. ⁴ Every man who has something on his head while praying or prophesying disgraces his head. ⁵ But every woman who has her head uncovered while praying or prophesying disgraces her head, for she is one and the same as the woman whose head is shaved. ⁶ For if a woman does not cover her head, let her also have her hair cut off; but if it is disgraceful for a woman to have her hair cut off or her head shaved, let her cover her head. ⁷ For a man ought not to have his head covered, since he is the image and glory of God; but the woman is the glory of man. ⁸ For man does not originate from woman, but woman from man; ⁹ for indeed man was not created for the woman's sake, but woman for the man's sake. ¹⁰ Therefore the woman ought to have a symbol of authority on her head, because of the angels. ¹¹ However, in the Lord, neither is woman independent of man, nor is man independent of woman. ¹² For as the woman originates from the man, so also the man has his birth through the woman; and all things originate from God. ¹³ Judge for yourselves: is it proper for a woman to pray to God with her head uncovered? (1 Corinthians 11:1-13 NAU)

And He put all things in subjection under His feet, and gave Him as head over all things to the church, ²³ which is His body, the fullness of Him who fills all in all. (Ephesians 1:22-23 NAU)

but speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in all aspects into Him who is the head, even Christ, (Ephesians 4:15 NAU)

For the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ also is the head of the church, He Himself being the Savior of the body. (Ephesians 5:23 NAU)

He is also head of the body, the church; and He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, so that He Himself will come to have first place in everything. ¹⁹ For it was the Father's good pleasure for all the fullness to dwell in Him, (Colossians 1:18-19 NAU)
For in Him all the fullness of Deity dwells in bodily form, ¹⁰ and in Him you have been made complete, and He is the head over all rule and authority; (Colossians 2:9-10 NAU)

Let no one keep defrauding you of your prize by delighting in self-abasement and the worship of the angels, taking his stand on visions he has seen, inflated without cause by his fleshly mind,¹⁹ and not holding fast to the head, from whom the entire body, being supplied and held together by the joints and ligaments, grows with a growth which is from God. (Colossians 2:18-19 NAU)

For of His fullness we have all received, and grace upon grace. (John 1:16 NAU)

And He put all things in subjection under His feet, and gave Him as head over all things to the church,²³ which is His body, the fullness of Him who fills all in all. (Ephesians 1:22-23 NAU)

and to know the love of Christ which surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled up to all the fullness of God. (Ephesians 3:19 NAU)

And He gave some as apostles, and some as prophets, and some as evangelists, and some as pastors and teachers,¹² for the equipping of the saints for the work of service, to the building up of the body of Christ;¹³ until we all attain to the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a mature man, to the measure of the stature which belongs to the fullness of Christ. (Ephesians 4:11-13 NAU)

E. Another Alternative Diagram of Col. 1: 15-20 (unfinished)

- (44) 15 He is the image of the invisible God, [a]
- (45) the firstborn of all creation. [b]
- (46) ¹⁶ For by Him [c] all things were created, [d]
- (47) both in the heavens f } and on earth, g }
 (48) visible g }
 and invisible, f } [e]
 (49) whether thrones h or dominions h or rulers h or authorities— h }
- (50) all things have been created [d]
- (51) through Him and for Him. [c]
- (52) ¹⁷ He is before [a]
all things, [d]
- (53) and in Him [c] all things hold together. [d]
- (54) ¹⁸ He is also head of the body, the church; and [a]
- (55) He is the beginning, [a] the firstborn from the dead, [b]
- (56) so that
 ➡
- (57) He Himself will come to have [a]
first place [b]
in everything. [d]
- (58) ¹⁹ For it was the Father's good pleasure
 ➡
- (59) for all the fullness to dwell in Him, [a]
- (60) ²⁰ and through Him [c] to reconcile all things to Himself, [b]
- (61) having made peace through the blood of His cross; [b]
- (62) through Him, I say,
 [a]
- (63) whether [to reconcile—implied] things on earth
 or things in heaven. [b]

Notice the repetitions of words and parallels in Paul's thought. The emphasis is clearly on Christ as the Creator with God the Father and that all things have been reconciled to God through Christ. Having made this point clear, Paul is preparing his audience to put their confidence and trust in Christ alone and not some further means of being right with God—according to the Colossian heresy.

F. Alternative structure for Colossians 3: 12-13

- (224) 12 So,
 as those who have been chosen of God,
 (225) holy and beloved, [a]
 (226) put on a heart of compassion, kindness, [b]
 (227) humility, gentleness and patience;
 (228) ¹³ bearing with [b] one another, [c]
 (229) and forgiving [b] each other, [c]
 (230) whoever [a] has a complaint against [b] anyone; [c]
 (231) just as the Lord forgave you, [a]
 (232) so also should you. [b]

The parallels of [a] pertain to what the Lord has done for the Colossians. He chose them, made them holy and beloved, and forgave them. The parallels in [b] are all parallels of verbs which have the offended Colossians as their subjects: Put on, bearing, forgiving, has a complaint against, should (note the different script or letters). Most of these verbs are in the form of commands. Those who have been offended should be willing to be patient and forgiving toward other Colossian believers (one another, each other) and unbelievers (anyone). The parallels of [c], as indicated, pertain to those who have offended others. They must be shown patience and forgiveness. The words, as those, just as, and so also point to the reason why those who are offended must be patient and forgiving—because God was patient and forgiving with them.

The contextual relationship, therefore, is that our treatment of other people (especially believers, but also unbelievers) is based upon the way God has treated us—with grace and mercy.

G. Alternative Diagram for Col. 2: 13-14

- (144) ¹³ When you were dead [a]
 (145) in your transgressions [b]
 (146) and the uncircumcision of your flesh, [b]
 (147) He made you alive together with Him, [a]

 (148) having forgiven us [c] all our transgressions, [d]
 (149) ¹⁴ having canceled out [c]
 the certificate of debt [d]
 (150) consisting of decrees against us, [e]
 (151) which was hostile to us; [e]
 (152) and He has taken it out of the way, [c]
 (153) having nailed it to the cross. [c]

H. Alternative Diagram of Col. 3: 12-17 using the indentation method.

(224) 12 So, as those who have been chosen of God,

(225) holy and beloved,

(226) PUT ON →

(227) a heart of compassion, kindness,
humility, gentleness and patience;

(228) ¹³ bearing with →

one another,

(229) and forgiving →

each other,

(230) whoever has a complaint → against anyone;

(231) just as the Lord forgave ←

you,

(232) so also should you [forgive—implied] →

[anyone—implied].

(233) ¹⁴ Beyond all these things

← Transitional statement

(234) PUT ON →

love,
which is the perfect bond

of unity.

(235) ¹⁵ LET →

the peace of Christ
to which indeed

RULE →

in your hearts,

(236)

you were called in one body;

(237) AND BE THANKFUL. →

(238) ¹⁶ LET →

the word of Christ
with all wisdom

RICHLY DWELL →

within you,

(239)

teaching and admonishing →

one another

(240) with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs,

(241) singing with thankfulness in your hearts to God. →

(242) ¹⁷ Whatever you do in word or deed,

(243) do all in the name of the Lord Jesus,

(244) giving thanks through Him to God the Father.

Another transitional statement leading to Col. 3: 18—4: 1

I. Alternative Diagram for Col. 3: 18-21 using the indentation method.

(245) 18 WIVES, [a] be subject [b]
 to your husbands, [c]
 (246) as is fitting in the Lord. [d]

(247)	¹⁹ HUSBANDS, love	[a]
	your wives		[b]
(248)	and do not be embittered against them.		[c]	[a]
			[b]	m
			[c]	a

(249) ²⁰ CHILDREN, be obedient to your parents in all things,
(250) for this is well-pleasing to the Lord.

(251) ²¹ FATHERS,
do not exasperate
your children,
(252) so that they will not lose heart.

[a] [b] [c] [d]

(253) 22 SLAVES, [a]
in all things obey [b]
(254) those who are your masters on earth, [c]
(255) not with external service, } [d]
(256) as those who merely please men, }
(257) but with sincerity of heart, }
(258) fearing the Lord. }

(259) ²³ Whatever YOU do, [a]
 (260) do your work [b]
 (261) heartily,
 (262) as for the Lord
 (263) rather than for men,
 (264) ²⁴ knowing that from the Lord
 (265) you will receive the reward of the inheritance.
 (266) It is the Lord Christ whom you serve.
 (267) ²⁵ For he who does wrong
 (268) will receive the consequences
 (269) of the wrong which he has done,
 (270) and that without partiality. [d]

(270) ¹ MASTERS, [a] grant [b]
to your slaves justice and fairness, [c]
(271) knowing that you too have a Master in heaven. [d]

[d] includes the manner, reason, and purpose for the imperative

J. Alternate structure for Col. 4: 2-4

(272)	2 Devote yourselves to prayer,	a
(273)	keeping alert in it with an attitude of thanksgiving;	b
(274)	³ praying at the same time for us as well,	b
(275)	that God		c
	will open up to us			d
	a door for the word,				e
(276)	so that we		c
	may speak forth			d
	the mystery of Christ,				e
(277)	for which I have also been imprisoned;				e
(278)	⁴ that I		c
	may make it clear			d
	in the way I ought to speak.				e

K. Stylistic features of Rom. 8: 28-31.

And we know that God causes all things to work together for good		[Inclusion]	←
	to those	b
	who love God,		c
	to those	b
	who are called according to His purpose.		c
29	For those	b
	whom He foreknew,		c
	He also predestined		d
Middle element of parallel to become conformed to the image of His Son,
	so that He would be the firstborn among many brethren;		e
30	and these	b
	whom He predestined,		c
	He also called;		d
	and these	b
	whom He called,		c
	He also justified;		d
	and these	b
	whom He justified,		c
	He also glorified.		d
What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who is against us?		[Inclusion]	←